He and fellow officers, acting on a tip, raided a second floor apartment yesterday at 124 Eighth Street and on a porch found row on row of plants containing the weed from seedlings to six-foot-high specimens. A 13-year-old girl found alone in the apartment was turned over to juvenile authorities and several other persons are being sought.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

Democrats' Rough Row To Hoe

By COURTNEY R. SHELDON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. George McGovern's legislative and leadership qualifications are in for a rough-and-tumble going-over by Republicans regardless of who runs with him.

And White House aides now have hope that they can take the offensive on inflation and employment issues — quite a switch from several months back.

The script for the Republican campaign was evolving well before the pulling and hauling over Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, which ended yesterday with his withdrawal from the Democratic ticket.

While the GOP emphasis will be on President Nixon's record, particularly on what they feel is "progress toward peace," White House spokesmen and GOP leaders already are exchanging jab for jab.

The effort will be to keep McGovern on the defensive as often as possible — and the Eagleton rhubarb has served to do this without quotes from the White House.

Nixon's close-in adviser on domestic affairs, John D. Ehrlichman, said of McGovern: "He has no record, no proven record. You're hard pressed to say anything he has done in the Senate, for instance, that's of any moment.

"He's had no executive experience to speak of, except as administrator of that food program in the Kennedy administration which was not terribly well run, as a matter of fact."

Ehrlichman's remarks in an interview with this correspondent will likely have their parallel in stinging speeches by Nixon administration officials and other Republican leaders in the next three months.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Arizona, told a Scottsbluff, Neb., audience that "nearly all countries in the world, except Hanoi . . . have no need nor want for George McGovern .'. . have no use for a Benedict Arnold, one who could sell out his friends and allies."

McGovern is giving Nixon some early pounding, too. He said Nixon had "stepped beneath the dignity of his office in bragging that "we could finish off North Vietnam in an afternoon" . . . He apparently lacks an abiding moral sense, and that is deeply to be regretted for our entire society."

Ehrlichman's comments were in response to a question of what McGovern's assets with the voters could be.

Ehrlichman replied that he was very hard-pressed to list any. "I don't think, really, he has had a test within the broad range of voters. He's had very narrow support in the Democratic primaries."

Only in tactics for the primaries and the Democratic convention did Ehrlichman concede some pluses for McGovern.

"He's got a couple of smart fellows working for him who understood primaries and who understood conventions, this particular convention. And that wasn't too hard because they wrote the rules. Now, whether

EAGLETON QUITS

New McGovern Task: A Mate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, with the "painful" task of dropping Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton behind him, searched today for a new running mate who can help get his presidential campaign back on the fast track he had hoped would take him to victory over Richard M. Nixon in November.

McGovern, who persuaded Eagleton to step down at a two-hour conference Monday night, said he had not yet decided on a replacement. The Democratic presidential nominee said he would make a recommendation to the Democratic National Committee "within a few days."

"We are going to be very cautious and very careful in making the vice presidential nomination," said McGovern, whose plans for a fast start in the campaign against Nixon were wrecked by the week-long controversy over Eagleton's health background.

Speculation immediately centered on some of the same men mentioned as vice presidential prospects at last month's Democratic National Convention — Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy in-law, and former Party Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

Eagleton, who met newsmen with McGovern to announce the decision, said today he would make no recommendation to McGovern on a successor.

"This is a decision that should be entirely up to Sen. McGovern," he said in a television interview (NBC Today show). Eagleton, ironically, performed the duties of the vice president Tuesday morning when he presided over the Senate for a short time after its opening. Vice President Spiro Agnew and President Pro Tem James Eastland, D-Miss., were absent.

At the Democratic National Committee, where the successor to Eagleton will be formally chosen, officials said the first task would be to clear up a series of credentials challenges against new members. After that, an emergency meeting will be called by the new national chairman, Jean Westwood, to select a new vice presidential candidate.

McGovern's recommendation —as it was at the Miami Beach convention —is expected to be controlling.

At the White House, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said President Nixon has not contacted Eagleton since the senator was dropped from the ticket and has no comment on the matter.

Ziegler said he raised the development in conversation with the President and "he said we really have nothing to say on that."

Eagleton signed and sent off his formal letter of resignation this morning, saying "there is no rancor in my heart." The letter contained much of what he said in his withdrawal statement Tuesday night, adding: "I therefore resign as vice presidential candidate on the 1972 Democratic ticket."

In jointly announcing the decision, McGovern had said he has made "no decision more painful or difficult."

McGovern and Eagleton announced at a news conference in the Senate Caucus Room Monday night their "joint decision" that Eagleton step down from the ticket. It came only six days after the 42-year-old Missourian disclosed at an equally dramatic joint news conference in the Black Hills of South Dakota that he had been hospitalized three times for psychiatric reasons.

Eagleton is the first vice presidential candidate ever to accept the nomination and later resign from the ticket.

"In the joint decision we have reached, health was not a factor," McGovern said in a prepared statement. "But the public debate over Sen. Eagleton's past medical history continues to divert attention from the

Reactions Mixed To Eagleton

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Despite a majority opinion among Democrats that it was proper for Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton to withdraw as vice presidential candidate, there was little optimism today that the decision would appreciably enhance the presidential campaign of Sen. George S. McGovern.

"McGovern's fight is an uphill battle and Eagleton was like a brake," said San Diego attorney Eugene Therieau. "Any drag on the campaign was more than McGovern could afford to carry at this point."

"I'm very disappointed," said Massachusetts Committeewoman Helen Rees. And South Carolina Committeewoman Barbara Sylvester said she was a "big supporter of Eagleton's and I think he was the selection of the convention and it should have remained that way."

Washington State Chairman Neale V. Chaney, an Eagleton supporter, said, "As of the moment I'm of a mind that Sen. McGovern should also withdraw and we should start over again."

Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton said he believed that Eagleton made the right decision. Many voters would be hesitant about his reaction under pressure if he happened to become president, Rampton said.

Hawaii Gov. John A. Burns said the "regrettable" decision was "obviously" sought by McGovern. "I believe that most Americans are compassionate enough to understand that the Senator's past health problems are not an issue in the election in November."

Colorado Chairman Bill Leavel said, "I think he is a fine man who got caught in a tough situation. I think he would have done a good job."

While most reaction was muted, Missouri Democrats were bitter.

"McGovern has made the major blunder of his life," said St. Louis Mayor Alfonso J. Cervantes. Missouri chairman Delton Houtchins said, "It was a raw deal...They can count Missouri out as far as I'm concerned this fall."

Generally, Democratic officials had mixed feelings— regret for Eagleton and belief that the campaign would now center on the economy and the war.

Indiana Chairman Gordon St. Angelo said that it was "too bad it had to come to this." But St. Angelo said he thought Eag-

Merger Proposal Gets Approval In Terra Linda

Agreements Announced By CSD; Public Hearing Set For Monday

The directors of the Terra Linda Community Services District last night approved proposed annexation of that community to San Rafael.

Their action paves the way for a public hearing Aug. 7 in San Rafael by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission.

The district board announced some changes in the merger agreement worked out in the last few weeks by officials of Terra Linda and San Rafael.

San Rafael had agreed to increase its fire commission and parks and recreation commission from five to seven members in order to seat representatives of annexed areas. But, according to San Rafael City Atty. Fred C. Robbins, this cannot be done since the size of commissions is regulated by city charger.

San Rafael, according to district chairman Robert M. Bennet, instead has agreed to place a proposition on the April ballot which would give the city council the power to regulate the size of commissions.

Terra Linda residents at last night's meeting were concerned that their recreation facilities would be swallowed up by San Rafael, and that residents would loseontrol over them.

There were suggestions from the audience that the Terra Linda Recreation District not be annexed with the rest of the area.

Director Vernon H. Nicholson said that this would raise taxes by 10 per cent without increasing recreation services in Terra Linda. He also said that the plumbing and swimming pool at the center need expensive repairs.

The directors did agree to negotiate for an annual pool fee for Terra Linda residents instead of a daily rate.

The directors also agreed to insert a provision in the annexation agreement giving Terra Lindans control over local activities — such as the swimming team and a nursery school — now conducted in the recreation center.

A provision that all district reserve funds be used for the acquisition of open space in the vicinity of Terra Linda also was added to the agreement at the suggestion of residents.

These amendments to the original terms of the annexation must be agreed to by San Rafael before Monday's agency formation commission hearing.

The board announced that Terra Linda Fire Chief George Walser would enter the San Rafael Fire Department with the rank of captain at no cut in his present $1325 monthly salary.

In other action, the board voted to hold a public hearing Aug. 22 on a proposal to detach the Lucas Green property from the Terra Linda District.

McGovern's Defense Cut Rejected By Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate rejected today a proposal by Democratic presidential nominee George S. Mcgovern to cut President Nixon's defense budget by $4 billion this year.

The vote was 59 to 33.

It was the first legislative test of one of the major campaign isuues raised by McGovern.

The South Dakotan has pledged that if elected President, he will trim more than $30 billion from military spending over the next three years. That would give the country a defense budget of about $55 billion.

In a floor speech on behalf of his amendment, the Democratic candidate told the Senate that Nixon has "told Congress that we invite inflation by anything we do to build up our own country, to care for our own people and to improve the quality of life in our own society."

"But that view has nothing to do with reality," McGovern said in his first full-scale Senate speech since winning the nomination. "We must consider the real sources of inflation.

"It comes from the reckless war in Indochina. It comes from the bombs, the bullets, the planes and missiles which we have piled up beyond any rational need," he said. "And if we accept the $100 billion arms obligation represented here, we will be adopting a program of guaranteed ruinous inflation for years to come."

McGovern took his $100 billion figure from independent studies of defense spending which he quoted in his 30-minute speech to a sparsely attended Senate session.

He said if the $4 billion Nixon seeks to start buying weapons for delivery later is approved, it would lead to a $100 billion defense budget by 1975. The bill being debated would hold military spending this year to the level of the last budget — $77.6 billion.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., who resigned as McGovern's running mate today, supported the nominee in a speech in which he charged Nixon had engaged in "blind escalation of the arms race." He said the President proposed a speed up in development of the Trident submarine as "an obvious effort to stall an economic recession until after the election."

The Democratic presidential candidate, who has made arms spending a chief campaign issue, has said he wants to trim military spending for the current fiscal year to help Nixon meet his goal of holding federal spending to $250 billion. McGovern said the $4 billion could go to social programs.

McGovern's maneuver offered the first test of his political strength in the Senate since he won the Democratic noination last month. It focused attention upon his disagreement with Nixon over what direction defense spending should take.

McGovern was joined by other Pentagon critics in offering amendments to the procurement bill. Among them:

—A plan by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., to halt Selective Service inductions by the end of this year. Hatfield argues the Pentagon has thwarted efforts by the Congress and the White House to move toward all-volunteer armed forces.

—An amendment by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., to force an end to American bombing of North Vietnam.

—A proposal by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to prohibit the Pentagon from spending any money or signing any contracts for any experiments that use human beings as guinea pigs.

Beefed-Up S. Marin Waste Plant Urged

An environmental advisory group to the Marin Municipal Water District has recommended that the waste water treatment plant planned for Southern Marin be prepared to reclaim all its sewage when it opens late in 1975.

According to spokesman John T. Schulte, the environmental advisory subcommittee urged that the new facility go beyond requirements imposed by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The reclaimed water could be used for irrigation, industrial cooling and recreation purposes, Schulte said.

Previously, the advisory committee proposed only that the new plant begin reclamation of waste water when possible. That recommendation has been bolstered to encourage the water district to prepare for reclamation as soon as the plant opens.

The group also encouraged the water district to recycle waste water as soon as possible.

Recycled water, Schulte said, is pure enough to drink. The new plant would not be able to recycle water until the district constructs a lake in which its reclaimed water can be stored.

Another 'No' From Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy today repeated his rejection of second place on the Democratic ticket with presidential nominee George S. McGovern.

In an interview with UPI, Kennedy said the door barring a race for national office this year is "just as closed and just as locked" as it was last month when he refused to make himself available for the party's vice presidential nomination.

Kennedy acknowledged he had talked with McGovern since the decision was made Monday night to drop Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton from the ticket, but he declined to say whether McGovern had asked him to take Eagleton's place.

Anderson Retracts Story After Eagleton Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Columnist Jack Anderson, acknowledging he had damaged Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's vice presidential chances by reporting he had been arrested several times for drunken driving, retracted his story today after a 45 minute meeting with the senator.

"I think the story did damage to the senator and I owe him a great and humble apology for that," Anderson said.

He said he had sent investigators to Missouri and in the meeting with Eagleton had gone over "every scrap of evidence I have."

Anderson told newsmen he was "totally satisfied there is no evidence and I have come out here to retract the story in toto."

Eagleton, who joined Anderson in the brief news conference, called Anderson a "distinguished journalist" and "a man of candor" and said he was "very pleased with the statement he made."

The Missouri senator then said "the book is closed" on the matter.

Anderson said that if there were photostats of drunken driving records carrying Eagleton's name, "I believe they were phoney."

He said he was satisfied "there were no arrests for drunken driving and the only arrests are those on record." These showed Eagleton had been arrested once for speeding and another time for an accident on an icy road.

Anderson apologized to Eagleton on Sunday during a television interview for releasing the story without having investigated the charges thoroughly but he refused at that time to retract the story until he had investigated further and met with Eagleton.

Ninth Game Under Way In Chess Championship

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —World chess champion Boris Spassky opened the ninth game of the $250,000 match with his usual queen pawn today, then relaxed for 10 minutes while waiting for American challenger Bobby Fischer to arrive.

Fischer, who has been late for every game, nodded curtly to Spassky, studied the board for 45 seconds and moved his knight to king bishop three.

Spassky trails Fischer by two points, 3-5. The Russian needs 12 points to retain his title but Fischer needs 12.5 points to win.

Spassky postponed Sunday's game because of a cold.

However, the illness that struck Spassky may have been more than a cold. It may also have been a not unprecedented malady for Russians who play Fischer.

Spassky's cold came two days after he suffered what he said was "one of the worst defeats" in his 20-year career.

Spassky resigned the eighth game on the 37th move last Thursday after making a "childish , almost crazy mistake on the 19th move " according to grandmaster Miguel Najdorf of Argentina.

Air Strike On Haiphong

SAIGON (UPI) — Carrier-based U.S. Navy pilots striking deep in North Vietnam left a Haiphong shipyard in flames, the U.S. command said today. Communist artillerymen this morning launched a 70-rocket barrage on a big air base near Saigon.

Jet fighter-bombers from the USS Saratoga conducted the first attack ever on Haiphong shipyard Number 3 within the city limits. Their attack left three large fires burning, the command said. The shipyard contained a sawmill and was being used for salvage and fabrication of shallow-draft boats.

At dawn today, Communist gunners shelled Bien Hoa Air Base, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, with 70 rounds of Soviet -made 122mm rockets. One American and a Vietnamese civilian were killed. Fifteen U.S. troops and 24 Vietnamese were wounded, according to official figures.

Two U.S. Marine A4 Skyhawk jet fighter-bombers and two propeller-driven A1 Skyraiders of the Vietnamese air force were damaged in the attack.

It was the largest shelling ever of Bien Hoa and the heaviest bombardment this year of any American base in Vietnam, the command reported.

U.S. B52 bombers dropped more than a million pounds of explosives near Quang Tri, Monday the 35th day of the South Vietnamese drive to recapture the northernmost provincial capital, sources said. The air assault supported a 20,000-round government artillery attack directly on the Communist-held inner citadel. North Vietnamese troops overran the city May 1.

Field reports said intensive shelling and bombing of Communist strongholds in and around Quang Tri is going to increase.

"We're going to throw so much artillery in there that we'll be able to walk right in without seeing a living soul," a U.S. adviser to South Vietnamese marines told UPI reporter Ted Kurrus.

But Communist resitance to the Quang Tri campaign continued. South Vietnamese units reported a 160-round mortar and artillery attack on their positions two miles northeast of the city and a second mortar assault followed by a ground attack on units stationed a half mile away. Spokesmen reported light casualties in both incidents.

Saigon troops reported killing 35 north Vietnamese attackers in a long battle four miles south of Quang Tri.

The South Vietnamese command also reported 24 Communists killed in two clashes 35 miles to the south near Hue, the command headquarters for the 20,000-man push to recapture Quang Tri. One of the Communist attacks was preceded by a 400-round mortar barrage, spokesmen said.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu told graduates at the National Defense College that the only lasting solution to the Vietnam War would be a ceasefire throughout Indochina under international supervision.

"A ceasefire for South Vietnam only between the Americans and the North Vietnamese, with the release of prisoners of war, is a great danger for South Vietnam," Thieu said. "...Even if we have peace, the Communists will maintain their political war."

The U.S. command today announced the deactivation of 10 more army units, totaling 1,007 men. Included in the "stand down" was the 361st Aviation company "Pink Panthers" who flew AH1 Cobra Helicopter gunships. After raids on Communists positions, the haughty 361st, would drop leaflets saying: "Congratulations! You have just been killed by the Pink Panthers."

The Saratoga pilots Monday also attacked surface-to-air missile sites around Haiphong, North Vietnam's second largest city, including one raid on a six - missile site.

Pilots from another carrier, the USS Kitty Hawk, caused six secondary explosions at the Vinh vehicle repair facility 137 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone.

Thieu Raps Hanoi-U.S. Ceasefire

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today a ceasefire negotiated between Hanoi and Washington would be a "great danger for South Vietnam."

Thieu, in a speech during graduation ceremonies at the National Defense College, said the only lasting solution to the war is an internationally controlled ceasefire for all of Indochina.

"There is only one way to force the North Vietnamese to talk seriously and that is to destroy North Vietnam—destroy their war industry," Thieu said. "Let us do it this way for six or seven more months and we will come to a ceasefire for all of Indochina."

The ceasefire, he said, would be "with international control that will open the way for an end of the war and a long lasting peace."

Thieu and many other government officials — even those who generally oppose the president's policies—are worried that the United States will negotiate a separate military ceasefire with North Vietnam, abandoning the South Vietnamese to work out whatever kind of political settlement they can with Hanoi.

"A ceasefire for South Vietnam only between the Americans and the North Vietnamese, with the release of POWs, is a great danger for South Vietnam," said Thieu. "For Vietnam and its internal affairs even if we have peace, the Communists will maintain their political war."

"I believe the ceasefire should be obtained for all of Indochina," said the president.

Dissolution Notices Delayed: No Funds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A judge has ordered the San Francisco county clerk to start mailing out notices of dissolution of marriage, a duty the clerk said he has been unable to do since February because of lack of funds.

"It is appalling where this judge must mandate the county clerk to perform duties required under the law," Superior Court Judge Ira A. Brown Jr. said in his ruling Monday.

Six women lawyers filed a class action lawsuit June 29, claiming San Francisco was the only county in the state not mailing out a "notice of entry of judgment."

The document is prescribed by the Judicial Council of California.

Hunger Strike In Embassy In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—A hunger strike by two holders of dual Soviet-Canadian citizenship and their Soviet spouses squatting in the Canadian Embassy entered its second day today with no move being made to eject them.

An embassy spokesman said Mrs. Nadia Demidenko, 33, and Jim Lenko, 34, and their Russian spouses entered the embassy Monday of their own free will and the decision to leave also should be their own. The four are protesting Soviet refusal to let them go to Canada.

The four remained in the embassy overnight. The only other person in the building was the night watchman.

Bike Reflectors Would Be Required Under Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly voted final legislative approval Monday to a bill requiring that bicycles sold in California after Jan. 1, 1974, be equipped with red reflectors on each pedal or on the side of the cycle.

The measure by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, was sent to the governor on a 48-0 vote.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Warsaw Pact Meeting

MOSCOW (UPI) — Leaders of the Warsaw Pact nations conferred yesterday in the Crimea and probably got their first major briefing from Leonid I. Brezhnev on the Nixon summit, diplomatic sources said today.

Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, probably also told his East European counterparts about current progress in Soviet-American relations and the status of Soviet-Egyptian ties following withdrawal of Soviet military advisers, the sources said.

Tass, the offical news agency, listed leaders from all the Warsaw Pact nations as attending the session, which it described as a meeting of "leaders of Communist and workers parties of Socialist countries now on a brief rest in the Soviet Union."

Grass Law Eased

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Canadian government announced yesterday it will lower penalties for the possession of marijuana but stopped short of legalizing the drug as was recommended by the Ledain Commission.

The government announcement came some two months after its commission urged no penalties for simple possession or cultivation of cannabis, or marijuana, for personal use.

Health Minister John Munro said the government would increase aid to drug education programs while lowering penalties and placing marijuana-related offenses under the jurisdiction of the Food and Drug Act.

Farm Income Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Net farm income will boom this year to a record of about $18.1 billion, up $2 billion from last year and $1 billion over the previous record set a quarter of a century ago, the Agriculture Department predicts.

Department economists, in a revised "Farm Income Situation" report, clung to earlier predictions that net income this year would be about $2 billion better than in 1971. But the 1971 income figure, previously put at $15.7 billion, was revised to $16.1 billion, pushing the 1972 estimate up also.

Shaw Is Off The Hook

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A federal court has barred District Attorney Jim Garrison from prosecuting a perjury charge against Clay Shaw, the man he has accused of a presidential assassination conspiracy.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday upheld a U.S. District Court ruling which found that the "prosecution would cause great and irreparable injury to Shaw."

The perjury charge against Shaw grew out of his trial on charges that he conspired to assassinate the late President John F. Kennedy.

He was found not guilty at that trial but Garrison contended Shaw lied during testimony.

French Nuclear Test

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — France has carried out a third atmospheric nuclear test in the Mururoa Atoll area 800 miles southeast of here, unofficial sources said today.

They said the newest blast in the current French testing campaign came either Friday or Saturday and may signal the end of the 1972 series.

There was no confirmation from French officials.

Bomb Threat Sentence

ATLANTA (UPI) — An airline passenger who made a bomb threat pleaded no defense to the charge yesterday and was sentenced to five years in prison by U.S. District Court Judge Charles A. Moye Jr.

Paul Edward Hastings, 50, service station attendant from Bladensburg, Md., received the maximum sentence for the threat. While in prison he will be enrolled in an observation and study program which could bring reduction f the sentence or probation.

Hastings, two told Moye he had "too much to drink," was charged with telling a Delta Air Lines co-pilot May 19 during a flight from New Orleans to Baltimore that "I have a bomb in my pocket that could blow this ship right out of the air."

The plane landed at Atlanta where Hastings was removed and charged with making a false bomb threat.

Security Set For GOP

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Police Chief Rocky Pomerance said yesterday he has the same security plan for the Republican National Convention as he had for the Democratic convention last month.

"We seem to have arrived at a good formula and see no reason to change," said Pomerance. "We will continue to provide the necessary security and protection without needless displays of power of the type that lead to 'confrontations.'"

Pomerance said that, based on what he knows now, he expects the Republican convention to pose no greater security threat then the Democratic convention.

POWs Names Released

TOKYO (UPI) — North Vietnam's official news agency today published the names of four American military pilots it said were captured after their planes were shot down last Saturday and Sunday.

The Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said the pilots are: Capt. James David Kula, 25, based in Takhli, Thailand, captured July 29; Capt. Melvin Kazuki, 27, based at Takhli, Thailand, captured July 29; Lt. Col. William John Breckner, 39, based in Udorn, Thailand, captured at Hanoi June 30, and Lt. Larry Donald Price, 25, based at Udorn, Thailand, captured near Hanoi July 30.

All appeared to be U.S. Air Force personnel.

False Advertising Accusations Leveled In Government Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government report says manufacturers of cars, electric razors and television sets have failed, upon demand, to prove all the claims they make in the advertising.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the Senate consumer subcommittee, said Monday in releasing the report that it showed "that a substantial number of ad claims are backed by nothing but hot air."

The report could become the basis of false advertising charges made against the manufacturers by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

About a year ago, the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection ordered 32 firms to back up with documented proof 282 claims made for their products in advertisements.

The bureau's staff, analyzing the material submitted, said, "serious questions as to the adequacy of data to support the claims they purported to document arose in about 30 per cent of the responses."

"Many claims were documented in a most impressive manner," the report said.

Moss, whose subcommittee oversees administration of the truth in advertising law, submitted the report to the manufacturers for their comments.

The firms challenged the bureau's evaluation. They said the bureau had overlooked some of the documentation.

For example, the Ford Motor Co. claimed in an ad that its low-priced Pinto "never needs waxing."

The FTC staff said the "sole support" from Ford for that claim was an assertion that Ford uses quality paints "capable of maintaining an acceptable appearance for an extended number of years."

Not so, said Ford. In a letter to Moss, it pointed to "exposure tests" made on painted panels to Florida sunshine for at least 12 months.

"Ford's engineers are of the opinion that 12 months' exposure in southern Florida is the equivalent of three years exposure to ultraviolet sunlight under average climatic conditions in the United States," Ford said.

Despite the rebuttals submitted by the companies, Moss contended that the FTC's ad documentation claim "has been successful, indeed startling, in revealing the widespread and flagrant absence of adequate substantiation for advertising claims and the overriding need for a systematic means of holding advertisers' feet to the fire of public scrutiny."

Students' Year In Germany Set

Two Redwood High School students will spend their junior years at the Friedrich Schiller Gymnasium in Preetz, Germany, under Redwood's international student exchange program.

They are Monica Moore, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James G. Moore of Kentfield, and William Chrisman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Chrisman of Tiburon.

Martina Bendler and Kristiane Steinhause from Preetz will attend Redwood this year in the exchange, which is sponsored by the Schultz Foundation of Greenbrae.

In another Redwood exchange program an English teacher, Russell Hill, and his family will spend a year in Blandford, England, while British teacher Michael Dove will teach at Redwood.

Plan Revealed To Assassinate Ho

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A plot by high level American officials to assassinate North Vietnamese leader Ho Chi Minh was opposed by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the attempt was never made, according to the author of a history of U.S. intelligence operations.

R. Harris Smith, whose book deals with the office of Strategic Services (OSS), predecessor of the CIA, told a news conference Monday that he heard about the assassination plot from a former CIA officer, but said he had no documentation.

"The plot was conceived by a retired high-level State Department official, but was opposed by the CIA director and was never put into effect," Smith said.

The suggestion was considered at the highest levels of government and was turned down by the White House at the CIA director's recommendation, Smith said.

"CIA got into the act because they were the ones who would have had to carry out the plot," he said. "They opposed it as politically foolish, stupid and insane."

Smith said the man who gave him the information did not say when the plot was conceived, but that it must have been between 1966 and 1969, because these were the years the informant was active in the CIA. He was influential in both the Johnson and Nixon administrations, Smith said.

Smith, 25, a former CIA analyst, told the news conference he did not use the incident in his book because Ho was still alive at the time he was working on it. The North Vietnamese leader died on Sept. 3, 1969.

Smith met newsmen on the publication date of "O.S.S.: The Secret History of America's First Central Intelligence Agency," published by the University of California Press.

Smith tells in his book of the OSS backing of Ho Chi Minh during World War II.

"The OSS felt an emotional rapport with Ho," Smith said. "They felt he was fighting to free his country from the Japanese and also to free it from colonialism.

"An OSS medic once saved Ho's life in the jungle and then 20 years later the CIA, which followed the OSS as America's intelligence agency, apparently saved his life again by its opposition to the assassination plot," Smith said.

Smith wrote his history of the OSS after interviewing more than 200 former employes and going through thousands of documents, some still classified, at the Hoover Institute at Stanford University. He is currently working on his doctorate in political science at UC Berkeley.

FARMING — 19TH CENTURY STYLE

Right out of the 19th Century came these steam engines, chugging their way into the annual gathering of the Michigan Steam Engine and Threshers Club in Mason. The oldtime steam threshers' reunion was held last weekend and showed spectators how the old machines used to process wheat.

Sanitary Board Gives Sewer Job

The Novato Sanitary District board last night awarded a $76,149 contract to M. G. Rodrigues Construction Co. of Oakland to construct a force sewer main along Railroad Avenue, according to Bill L. Bayles, assistant engineer.

The bid was the lowest of 11 opened last Monday.

The contract calls for construction of 2,190 feet of 27-inch main from the Olive Avenue pump station to Rose Avenue to connection with an existing main. The engineer's estimate of the job was $88,650.

Work, expected to take a month, is to start Aug. 25.

The board also received a preliminary district budget of $378,653 for the current fiscal year. A public hearing is set for Aug. 17, with adoption expected on Aug. 28, Bayles said.

The Novato Sanitary District Board also:

PLANS — Approved plans for Pleasant Valley unit 7 — 44 houses on 19 acres at the end of Center Road for Condiotti Construction Co.

ANNEXATIONS — Approved annexation of approximately an acre on Mill and Vineyard Roads and of approximately two acres on Virginia Avenue at Villa Place, both for Robert Hune.

CONNECTIONS — Approved temporary connections, prior to annexation into the district, forSinaloa Park subdivision of 13 lots on 4.4 acres on Mill Road, a lot on 2080 Mill Road for Steven Hall and a lot on 900 Simmons Lane for George Worden.

Fairfax Officer Is Given Leave

Fairfax police officer Onad (Dee) Carver has been granted a leave of absence without pay until November, 1972.

Carver, who defended former Fairfax police chief James R. Orr during the Orr hearings, has been on sick leave without pay since last November.

According to City Administrator Robert E. Crowe, Carver said in a July 6 letter that to continue police duties at this time would be "detrimental to my health and well being."

Crowe said that Carver claims a stomach illness is "service related" and although the State Compensation Insurance Fund has rejected his claim, the officer has appealed. The city must retain Carver without pay until that case is decided, Crowe said.

"His continued presence on the force will be reviewed in November," Crowe said.

Man Badly Hurt In Road Crash

A 23-year-old Mill Valley man was seriously injured at 2:15 p.m. yesterday in an auto crash on Shore line Highway jus south of Highway 101 in Tamalpais Valley, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Murray Garson of 396 Pine Hill Road was reported in serious condition with a chest injury today in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital.

The Highway patrol said Garson had driven his car onto the shoulder of Shoreline Highway to pick up a friend. When his car crossed the southbound lane, it was struck by a car driven by Carol Linda Shlain, 31, of 315 Carrera Drive, Mill Valley.

The patrol said Garson had failed to yield right-of-way.

Work Areas On 101 Tomorrow

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow, were announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Sections of freeway involved are:

1. South of Cotati between Railroad and Sierra avenues, outside northbound lane closed 6 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. to permit slab replacement.
2. Near Sportsmans Lodge north of Novato, one southbound lane at a time closed 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to permit sandblasting and striping.

Dentists Will Ask Water Fluoridation

Several dentists from the Marin Dental Association will ask the North Marin County Water board to donsider fluoridation of the water when the board meets at 8 p.m. today in the district office.

Manager Eugene Churchill said that the dentists have asked to argue the benefits of fluoridating water.

The board will name a representative to meet with representatives of Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino Counties on the future Potter Valley water plans.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. now operates a 50-year old dam in the valley and diverts the water to the Russian River, he said. The federal power commission and state fish and game commission want the water diverted to the Eel River and the southern counties are concerned because they are dependent on the Russian River as a source of water.

Other items to come before the board include an intertie with Marin Municipal Water District for transfer of surplus water; release of water from Nicasio Reservoir into Papermill Creek to supply west Marin; a request for emergency water to an area between Inverness and Inverness Park and a report on a request for irrigation water at Point Reyes Station.

Schools' Filming Attempt Fails

A film about educational goal-setting planned by the Marin County Schools Office and a Marin-based film company has been abandoned because expected state funds did not materialize.

Roger Falge, an administrative assistant at the schools office, said today a $150,000 state grant from the Department of Education fell through.

The venture, originally due to be completed in September, with Hartel Productions, was for six films of 12 to 15 minutes length to interest the public in setting school goals.

Falge said attempts also had been made to secure Office of Economic Opportunity funds for the film project but these, too, were unsuccessful.

Novato Extends Plan Deadline

Plans for the plan review committee must now be submitted 12 working days prior to the meeting instead of nine working days as in the past. The plan review committee meets at 8 p.m., the first and third Wednesdays at the Novato Community House.

Pair Will Enter Pleas On Kidnap

Two 18-year-old youths, arrested last week in Humboldt County on suspicion of a Novato kidnapping, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Charged with kidnappin g robbery and car theft were David Wyatt Miley and Dale Robert Minot, both of whom gave home addresses in Venice, Los Angeles County.

They are suspected of kidnapping Terry Mark Schenebert, 20, of Petaluma, at knife point on Highway 101 in Novato. Schenebert said he was forced to drive the two youths, whom he had picked up hitchhiking in San Francisco, to an orchard, where they took his clothes, money and car.

The two were arrested Thursday in the stolen car by Humboldt County deputies and brought to Marin County Jail Saturday.

They were to enter pleas today.

Budget Adoption To Be Considered

The board also will review meeting procedures, agenda formation, administrative regulation of class size and consider a student representative for trustee meetings.

Marinite Pleads Guilty To Felony

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — La Pierre Harvey, 24, of Marin City, has pleaded guilty in San Francisco Superior Court to felony narcotics charges.

Harvey is to appear in Superior Court for trial on Sept. 25.

He was arrested March 21 in San Francisco after allegedly selling $250 worth of heroin to a police informant, narcotics agents said. Agents said they found both methamphetamine and cocaine in Harvey's possession when he was arrested.

New Duties Go To Meter Maids

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Meter maids here have been authorized to double as litter ladies.

Mayor Ralph Perk said Monday the city's 15 meter maids will hand out tickets for littering in addition to their regular chores of citing parking offenders.

Perk said the ladies will especially be on the lookout for merchants who sweep litter in front of their stores into the street.

"If we stop this practice, Cleveland can become a much cleaner city," Perk said.

great national issues that need to be discussed."

"Ladies and gentlemen, look at the news," McGovern added in reply to a question. "It has blotted out the war, it has blotted out the economy and it has blotted out the central issues."

It was obvious that Eagleton did not want to quit the ticket. The former Missouri attorney general said he spent the first 15 minutes of his 102 minutes with McGovern "in my lawyer-like marshalling of evidence" in support of staying on the ticket. McGovern said Eagleton disagreed with his judgment about public reaction.

"I thought that in another two or three weeks if I crisscrossed this country, that pretty soon it would run its course," Eagleton said.

Paying tribute to McGovern's courtesy and gentlemanliness during the week, Eagleton said he bowed to the presidential candidate's belief that time was of the essence and that issues must be addressed promptly.

"I will not divide the Democratic party, which already has too many divisions," Eagleton said. "My personal feelings are secondary to the necessity to unify the Democratic party and elect George McGovern president of the United States."

McGovern said severl times that he was "fully satisfied" that Eagleton's health is excellent. He said he talked to three of his doctors in recent days, and they reported that Eagleton had suffered from depression but had reached "full recovery."

Judges Named For County Fair

Five judges, representing a variety of the arts, have been named for the second annual film competition at the 1972 Marin County Fair, scheduled for Aug. 31 through Sept. 4.

The judges include architect Aaron Green; KQED-TV producer Emiko Omori; James McBean, critic, writer and member of the film department at the California State University at San Francisco; film maker Bruce Connor and Fred Padula of Canyon Cinema of Sausalito a university colleague of McBean.

The film competition is open to independent film makers from the nine Bay Area counties with judging to be held Aug. 12 at the College of Marin.

Innocent Plea To Grand Theft

Douglas Anthony Patricks, 24, of San Francisco pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of grand theft and concealing stolen property in connection with the theft of an expensive bicycle.

Patricks was accused of stealing a 10-speed bicycle from William Coleman of San Anselmo after he allegedly tried to sell stolen auto parts to an off-duty sheriff's lieutenant.

No charge was filed against him in connection with the auto parts because the owner refused to testify, but Patricks was later accused in the bicycle theft.

A jury trial was set for the week of sept. 5.

School Vandalism Is Fall Meeting Topic

Ways of reducing vandalism in San Rafael schools will be discussed at a conference of parents, police officers and school officials to be called shortly before school opens next month, Supt. John F. Plank said today.

The most recent destruction was the breaking of 18 windows at the Santa Venetia Middle School on July 22, when vandals shot BB guns and threw rocks through $1,100 worth of glass.

The vandalism took place at the site of construction of an addition to the school due to open in September and scheduled to house about 250 additional pupils who will be bused from East San Rafael.

Sheriff's officers suggested after the most recent destruction it might be cheaper in the long run to hire a watchman, especially for weekends.

Plank said today that the school district occasionally has assigned custodial personnel to all-night duties at such times as halloween.

He said, "These things come in rashes," and while vandalism, especially window breaking, seemed to have been high this summer, there have been fewer school burglaries than in other years.

He said parent-teacher association officers have suggested giving rewards for information about vandals' identities as a possibility for reducing the problem. This and other suggestions will be hashed out at the conference, for which a date has not been set.

leton's departure "would help Indiana and probably help many other places."

Oklahoma Gov. David Hall said, "This makes it possible for McGovern to debate the President on the real issues, not charges and countercharges made by people."

Florida committeeman T. Wayne Bailey said, "One hopes that this will clear the air."

"This will allow us to quickly refocus on the problems of the economy, the war and the lack of leadership in the Nixon presidency," said California Chairman Charles Manatt.

In the south where McGovern's candidacy has been received coolly, officials were reserved.

Texas Chairman Roy Orr, who opposed the ticket, said he would wait to see "who McGovern picks—Mr. Eagleton certainly didn't help the ticket's chances in Texas."

Louisiana Committeewoman Mary Low Winters said, "We certainly need all the help we can get. Sen. Eagleton's judgment was certainly in the best interest of the party."

Some Democrats began pushing their favorites to succeed Eagleton.

Orr, saying "Of course I'm speaking only as a Texan," cited Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas. South Carolina Gov. John C. West said he prefers Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey or Mills.

Wisconsin Committeeman Donald Peterson named Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana and former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

California Committeewoman Mary Ledesma said, "I'm afraid we need a Ted Kennedy at this point to offset some of this publicity."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie was mentioned by Oklahoma Committeeman J. C. Cobb and Illinois Chairman James Ronan.

College Budget Hearing Slated

A public hearing on the Marin Community College District $13.9 million budget for fiscal 1972-73 will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. when the district board meets at the Kentfield campus.

Trustees also will be asked to accept state and federal funds for a child care center at the college and to authorize remodling to house the center.

Preliminary plans for Unit 1 of Indian Valley Colleges will be up for approval. Two workshop sessions on the plans were held recently by board members.

Opening Times In Sky Chart: A.M. Not P.M.

The first two sentences of the August Sky Chart Story, which was carried in last Thursday's Independent-Journal, were incorrect.

The story, which is supplied by the Christian Science Monitor, should have started:

"Today, through Thursday — The waning crescent moon passes near Saturn and Venus in the eastern sky on these mornings. The moon is in conjunction with Saturn at about 8 a.m., local daylight time, on the 4th, with Venus at about 4 a.m., local daylight time, on the 5th."

The original copy gave the two times as being "p.m." when they should have been "a.m."

3 Injured As Car Leaves Road

A San Rafael man was injured in an auto accident at 10:30 p.m. yesterday on Shoreline Highway about a mile north of Calle Del Mar, Stinson Beach, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Charles Paganini, 20, of 600 Point San Pedro Road, was reported in satisfactory condition today with a fractured ankle at Marin General Hospital.

According to the patrol, a car he was riding in slid off the road and crashed into a utility pole. Two other persons, Timothy A. Howard, 20, of Sausalito, the driver, and Susan M. Hoeschler of 48 Tweed Terrace, San Rafael, another passenger, received minor scrapes and bruises.

they understand broad, electoral campaigning and politics has yet to be established."

For all of this, Ehrlichman said it is "way too soon" to predict how close the election could be in November. "We had all kinds of reporters writing in '68 that the Democrats would never pull a campaign together . . . Humphrey finally was able to find a railroad station and get on the train."

What is the top domestic achievement that the president will take to the voter?

"Well, as of right now, I suspect it may be the economy where we've begun to see some very, very positive results.

"Inflation rate cut in half; purchasing power and real earnings up, the highest rate in nine years; adding new jobs at the highest rate in the last nine years; gross national product rising at an unprecedented rate; all across-the-board, real economic achievement."

Should the president get out on the campaign trail earlier than October?

"I don't know where that thing came from," he replied. "I think people that are talking about a three-week campaign shouldn't bet too much money on it."

Asked if he expected McGovern to reshape his opinion on some of the critical issues of the campaign, Ehrlichman said:

"I don't think he's got that option. He's locked himself in. He wants to cut $58 billion out of the defense budget which means he wants to remove the Sixth Fleet from the Mediterranean, close all our naval bases except one on each coast and all the implications of that. He said that, and he said it in categorical terms. He's framed that issue and that is the issue we are going to join.

"On Vietnam the same thing. He says he'll be out of there in 90 days regardless of the prisoners. He says his follow-up will be to go and beg for the prisoners. Now he said that in very clear, unequivocal terms and frames the issue. And we'll join that issue.

"He sponsored a $6,500 (per family) welfare bill, 97 million people on the welfare roles. That's inescapable; He frames that issue. He says he wants to give everybody $1,000 a year . . ."

Is amnesty a good issue?

"Amnesty is a question that exists that has to be addressed by anybody who's president sometime in the future. It is an inescapable subject of controversy in the country."

What about abortion?

"I don't see that as very much of an issue between the candidates. The president has stated his personal convictions on the subject. McGovern has pretty well taken it out of the campaign or tried to by saying he thinks it's a state-level issue. The president hasn't tried to impose his personal convictions on anybody else through the device of federal law or anything of that sort."

Group Forms To Back Open Space

A grass roots group of 30 San Rafael residents has formed a campaign organization to back the city's open space bond issue, scheduled for a special election Sept. 19.

The group plans a door-to-door campaign and is soliciting volunteers to canvass neighborhoods, according to Eric Eitreim and Jerry Russom, co-organizers.

The bond issue would involve an increase in the city's tax rate of about 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, raising $2.25 million for open space purchase.

Building Plans To Be Considered

Plans for 22 apartments in five buildings at the southeast corner of Olive and Railroad avenues will be considered by the Novato Plan Review Committee at 8 p.m., tomorrow in the Novato Community House.

Charles W. Dennis has submitted the plans for the apartments.

Other items to come before the committee include signs for Cinema II at 5390 Redwood Highway, Frank Howard Allen Realty at 945 Front Street and Warden's Liquors at 878 Grant Avenue.

$1,700 In Tools Stolen From Shed

Tools valued at $1,700 have been taken from a shed on the Highway 101, bypass route under construction. Robert W. Gagan of Freeman-Sondgroth contractors reported yesterday to Novato police.

The theft occurred June 11. The company said it wanted to inventory its loss before notifying police.

WASTE

After a one-year waiting period, the reclaimed water could be treated like regular water out of the district's watershed, Schulte added.

The advisory group also recommended that Improvement District A be maintained as a government agency until a bond issue to raise funds for a Southern Marin waste water treatment plant is on the ballot.

Improvement District A was set up in 1971 to study consolidation of eight Southern Marin sewage agencies and subsequently was instructed to do all preparatory work and planning, short of holding a bond issue to finance the project.

Project manager Schulte said a bond issue probably would not be ready for the voters until June 1973.

The subcommittee also accepted the resignation of its chairman, Dr. Pat Wennekens, who is moving to Alaska. Wennekens served as chairman for nine months, ever since the subcommittee's inception. The group postponed its decision on Wennekens's replacement until it meets next on Aug. 10.

MORTAR'S SECRETS SOUGHT

Marin and Sonoma County historians think this blackened brass mortar has had a long and interesting existence, but they've been able to trace its ownership back only 20 years. The handcrafted mortar such as doctors and apothecaries formerly used is 5.5 inches tall and weighs six pounds. It was found among the belongings of a longtime Marin County resident who died recently. The historians said that after more information about the mortar's past is gathered, it will go to an appropriate museum. They asked that anyone with knowledge of the antique call Mary Ellen Quesada before noon any weekday at St. Francis Episcopal Church in Novato.

Novato Reshaping General Plan

By JEFF GREER

Novato city councilmen and planning commissioners slogged through flood, earthquake and fire hazards last night, to give the city planning staff "direction" in its marathon task of revising the Novato General Plan.

Both bodies agreed that Novato's citizens need better protection against the three forms of disaster, but they refused to ban new development in the city until firm guidelines can be drafted.

"We can't stop the world while we catch up with it," said Councilman Fred F. Ruegg.

The planning staff had suggested a moratorium on all new development in the Novato Creek and Rush Creek watersheds until the city "derives a computer model" of how the creeks would behave if new development increases storm water runoff.

The council and planning commission informally approved the computer idea, which probably would be prepared by engineers at Stanford University or the University of California at Davis. Planning aide Mark Westfall said the cost had not yet been learned.

The planners split 3-3 on the building freeze with Commissioner Beverly Ehreth absent on vacation. Mayor F. Wayne Sartain recalled that the council earlier sided 3-2 against such a moratorium.

During the joint session that lasted more than four-and-one-half hours, several councilmen including Sartain and Ruegg again challenged the realism of any or all Novato population predictions for the year 1990.

Ruegg called allowing the general plan to put "any ultimate limits at all on population . . . a pipedream." He urged "planning for the worst" but the two bodies made no move to revise population predictions on which the general plan is being prepared.

Turning to fire hazards, the councilmen and planners quickly adopted Fire Chief Jack Kidder's recommendation that all new developments more than 200 feet above sea level be required to provide their own water supply for adequate fire protection in homes.

The city officials showed confusion as they listened to a series of geologists and soil experts debate the potential dangers of the Mount Burdell fault and other lesser faults in the Novato area.

Salem Rice of the California Bureau of Mines reported that no earthquake had been scientifically observed in Novato during recorded history.

"It's a probability game — nothing is certain," soils engineer Robert T. Lawson explained.

Councilman George C. Quesada said he believed the worry over temblors was "a tempest in a teapot" because citizens already were adequately protected by the uniform building codes.

But the council and commission favored staff proposals that all new construction in the Novato alluvial zone or on bay mud be designed to heed earthquake danger and that all existing structures in the two zones be "inventoried" and their owners warned of any hazards found by inspectors.

The two panels unanimously agreed to staff suggestions that would require design review for all ponding areas and levees for earthquake and landslide risks. All development on the San Pablo Bay shoreline also would be scrutinized for the danger of Tsunami or tidal waves.

The requirement may figure prominently in the city review of developer John Kenney's latest proposal to build more than 2,000 homes on the old Sartori Ranch in Black Point, south of Highway 37. The council and commission agreed last night to a joint meeting either Aug. 29 or Aug. 31 when Kenney's consultants will present plans for the huge development. The plans feature homes strung along a series of islands; the rest of the existing pasturelands would be flooded.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the hearing date would depend on which night the Novato community meeting hall will be available.

Mattson added the joint meeting will not be a formal public hearing. The planning commission will have its own hearing on Kenney's master plan later.

The council faces another key decision when it meets at 8 p.m. Aug. 24 to review the recently completed Novato Creek watershed survey. The council must choose within the next few weeks whether to endorse Army Corps of Engineers plans to spend about $11 million to channelize the creek for flood control, or to keep Novato and Rush creeks "natural."

During last night's flood discussions, Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste warned that if the city agreed to the Army project, some form of development control still might be needed in the seven years it would take to complete the flood control project.

Quesada, however, declared, "I think we're going to have to accept some level of flooding, find out what areas are going to be inundated and warn the people — or we're going to spend an awful lot of money."

He added, "I really have serious doubts about the computer model" capability of predicting future developments' impact on flooding.

Ruegg challenged the recently prepared watershed report as "not objective" and "suspect. . . it starts out with a premise and then tries to prove it." He said the "natural" creek proposal "obviously doesn't give a high level of protection and could cost $78,000 a year" to keep the creeks open. He charged the "Novatans may love their creeks but they sure abuse them" by filling them with refuse.

He condemned all building moratorium suggestions and said "we've got to move now with the information we have now. One of the things wrong with the City of Novato is we keep trying to get all the data" before acting.

Despite the rejection of their watershed moratorium hopes, the planning staff gained a 3-2 endorsement of Mattson's stand that the city eventually must review all previously approved developments' master plans. Sartain, Quesada and Councilman David Price Jones favored the reviews, stressing that full public hearings would be needed if the plans were to be dovetailed into the revised general plan.

The council and planning commission agreed to hold another joint session at 8 p.m. next Monday to continue their review of general plan sections. Mattson explained that staff members want opinions on the proposed sections dealing with conservation, open space land use, circulation and airport policeis.

War Protests Force Laird To Cut Short Ohio Talk

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)— Antiwar demonstrators shouting "we don't believe a word you're saying," Monday interrupted a speech by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird about America's efforts to get out of Vietnam and return to a peace time economy.

Laird temporarily silenced the approximately 50 demonstrators by promising to answer questions after his speech. But the antiwar chants and heckling resumed during the question and answer session, forcing Laird to call it off.

There was no violence and no arrests were reported during the demonstration, which occurred while the defense secretary was making a brief inspection tour of the former Clinton County Air Force Base in Ohio. Laird stopped at the base en route here to observe construction of the newest jet fighter in the Air Force, the F15, being built by McDonnell-Douglas Corp.

The Defense secretary also stopped Monday in the Harrisburg, Pa., area to accept thanks for Defense Department aid to victims of flooding caused by hurricane Agnes.

Study Group Defends TV Survey Methods

NEW YORK (UPI)—A private study group Monday defended the methods used in its recent survey which found "a significant degree of bias" in television news coverage of the Democratic presidential primary and the Vietnam War.

The American Institute for Political Communication, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization, reaffirmed the findings of a survey published July 7 which indicated the three major television networks were pro-McGovern in the primaries and anti-Nixon on the war.

However, the institute also reaffirmed that "the great bulk of the reporting on the news shows was straightforward and objective."

The methods and objectivity of the survey had been criticized by network officials and one of the institute's board members resigned earlier this month claiming the survey was published without his knowledge.

In its special report on the survey titled "Bias as a Factor in Network Television News Coverage," the institute said the study was based on the work of five "carefully selected" monitors who viewed evening news programs over a 10-day period (June 1-14, exclusive of weekends).

The report identified each news segment found to be biased by the monitors, gave the names of the reporters and included a "degree of bias" rating given each episode on a seven-level rating scale.

While the names of the monitors zere not disclosed, the report said all five were recent college graduates, under 30 years of age and political liberals—"persons whose normal prejudices are those with which the networks have been charged."

The monitors recorded both the amount of broadcast time allotted to each news segment as well as their subjective feelings on whether the content was "slanted" in its approach to a candidte or the government's Vietnam policies.

A majority of the monitors found 33 episodes biased—seven for ABC, and 13 each for NBC and CBS.

One instance of bias cited by the monitors involved the allotment of more than twice the air time to George McGovern than that given to Sen. Hubert Humphrey on CBS and ABC and more than 30 per cent on NBC.

It's Official For Butterfly

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —It took the dog-face butterfly a while—43 years to be exact— to become the official California state insect.

The state Blue Book, published by the Legislature, shows that etomologists in 1929 selected the small, orange and yellow butterfly as the California insect.

But lawmakers did not act until this year, and Gov. Ronald Reagan signed a bill Monday to make the designation official.

The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Naddy, R-Fresno, who moved it through the Legislature at the request of some fourth grade elementary school children.

The butterfly, also known as the dog-head, is found from the San Francisco Bay region to San Diego.

New Zealanders Will Consume More Pop

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — New Zealanders are expected to drink 6.5 gallons of soft drink a head this year — two gallons more than five years ago.

Cordial manufacturers, who supplied this figure, compare it with an average of 12.8 gallons in Australia and 18.1 gallons in the United States.

Funding Plan On Hilarita Project Set

The federal government and the sponsor of the Hilarita housing project have agreed on $2,703,000 to fund the 112 moderate-income apartments in Tiburon.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development, which previously proposed $2.5 million, and the housing project's sponsor, the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, which requested $3 million, settled on the compromise amount, according to ecumenical association president Edwin G. Weed.

The housing department will guarantee the ecumenical association's private loan and subsidize its interest payments over 40 years. According to Weed, the federal government's interest subsidy for the project's first year will be about $162,000 and that subsidy will decrease each year as tha $2.7 million loan is paid off.

Weed said he expects a letter formalizing the agreement to arrive from the housing department's area headquarters in San Francisco within two weeks.

If formal agreement is reached without snag, construction could begin in the middle of September and be completed by August of next year.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— Alan Sues, "Big Al" of television's "Laugh In," told police Monday muggers knocked out two of his teeth, cut his lip and stole his car. Sues, in rehearsal here for a play, said it happened Sunday night as he went to his car near the theater.

"Some guy jammed something against the rear of my neck," Sues said.

RUBBER BAND STRINGING

Another World Record Rewritten By Marinites

The Guinness Book of World Records never had it so good.

Two San Rafael youths today claimed the world's record for rubber band stringing after looping some 27,400 of the elastics together in a string that stretches — untugged, they say — for 3.54 miles.

The feat took Steven Littman, 15, of Portola Avenue and Kenneth C. Aeschlimann, 14, of 1 Carmel Court, about a month to complete, according to Reda Aeschlimann, Ken's mother.

She said that Ken Littman, an I-J newspaperboy, would dismantle the world's biggest reported rubber band for use on his newspaper route.

The reported world's record is the fourth record which Marin youths have broken in as many weeks.

July 1 six Kentfield girls claimed title to a hopscotching record after hopping for 32 hours. Last week, three Peacock Gap youngsters gained fame by constructing a house of cards using 32 decks or a total of 1,685 playing cards.

On Friday, two San Anselmo teen-agers broke the reported world's Ping Pong endurance record after 51 continuous hours of ball-batting.

And tomorrow . . .?

Judge Enters Plea For Youth

A San Francisco youth, arrested in Sausalito while said to have been wearing stolen women's clothing, has been sent by a Marin judge to the Community Mental Health Center for 72 hours of psychiatric observation.

William Jesse Davis, 19, was wearing a red and blue floral print dress, makeup, a gold earring and was smelling of perfume, police said. The wardrobe was said by officers to have been taken from the Alta Mira Hotel.

Judge Peter Allen Smith, who ordered Davis to undergo observation, on Thursday entered an innocent plea for the youth.

Damages Awarded In Train Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The husband and four children of a Sunnyvale woman killed in a 1969 Southern Pacific train accident have been awarded $350,000 in damages.

A superior court jury last week awarded $450,000 to the family of a man killed in the same accident in the first of eight cases seeking a total of $4.7 million from SP and two other companies.

The award Monday was to Jóffre Wong, his two children and two step-children for the death of Mrs. Irene Wong, 41, who was a key punch operator for a bank.

Four persons were killed and 18 injured when an eight-inch pipe 50 feet long rammed through a window of a passenger car of an SP train traveling through San Bruno en route to San Francisco in 1969.

The jury found in June that SP was not negligible, but held that a subsidiary, Southern Pacific Pipelines Co., and Alex Robertson-Bakersfield Construction Co. were responsible.

FORD MAVERICK	2-door	6-cylinder	$2,140.*
VW 113 (Super Beetle)	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,159.*
TOYOTA COROLLA 1600	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,109.*
DATSUN PL 510	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,306.*

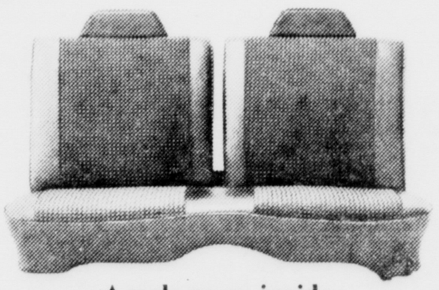
*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for 2-door models. Excludes dealer preparation charges, if any, destination charges ($160.00 for Maverick), California emission system ($13.87 for Maverick), title and taxes.

NOTE: People ask us how we can afford to offer a roomy, 6-cylinder compact at about the same price as the little imports.

First, we've been making small cars since 1908. Experience helps.

Second, we haven't changed Maverick—except for mechanical improvements—since we first introduced it. That kind of continuity helps to control costs.

Third, recent currency revaluations and devaluations have helped restore the competitive stance of American manufacturers.



Ample room inside.

Maverick's front seat, for example: over 8" more shoulder room than Volkswagen 113.

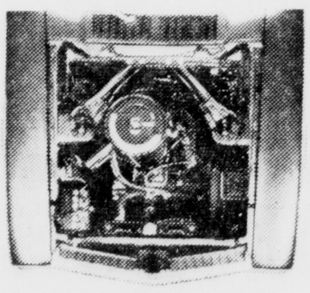
There's no wasted space inside Maverick. At the same time, none of that small-car crowded feeling.

Maintenance: Even simpler, more convenient than the little imports.

VW, for example, recommends normal service every 3000 miles or three months, whichever comes first. On Maverick, it's 6000 miles or six months. So Maverick's recommended service interval is twice as long as Volkswagen's.

We also designed Maverick to be a simple machine to care for. In fact, we've even prepared a manual which tells you how to do many maintenance jobs yourself.

One more convenience: there are over 5,600 Ford dealers in the country. VW has about 1,100.



Most little imports give you 4-cylinder engines. Maverick gives you a 6-cylinder engine.

It's smooth. It's reliable. It lets you accelerate into turnpike traffic with confidence and hold your own on steep hills. And it delivers surprisingly good gas mileage.

A good car for long trips.

Maverick's rear track is 2.9" wider than Volkswagen's. Its wheelbase is 7.7" longer. There's a bit more weight, too. By themselves, these differences aren't very big—but they can add up to a big difference in the way Maverick drives and handles the open road.

Why Not Restrict Use Of Handguns?

The latest attempt at political assassination, against Gov. George Wallace, has spurred another spate of arguments for and against gun control.

With each successive political assassination or attempted assassination, proponents of gun control appear to be gaining new converts, but not enough to overcome the opposition.

That opposition is deeply ingrained. Any attempt to restrict the individual's right to bear arms goes against American tradition, particularly in the Far West where the rifle and the six-shooter are considered by many the signs of masculinity.

The same ones who willingly register their cars and motorcycles (even bicycles, on occasion) and pay annual fees for the privilege of using them, would consider it a personal affront to be restricted in any way on gun ownership and use.

The resistance to gun control legislation appears to be more emotional than logical. Some of the arguments are exploded as myths by Franklin E. Zimring, professor of law at the University of Chicago, writing in the Christian Science Monitor. Zimring is associated director of the university's Center for Studies in Criminal Justice.

The assertion that "the handgun is a useful tool of household self-defense" is a myth, says Professor Zimring.

"The homeowner's gun rarely protects him against burglars, who seek to elude him, or the occasional robber, who counts on surprise and a weapon of his own to render the homeowner helpless. The loaded handgun in your home is much more likely to accidentally kill someone in the family than to save his life."

Another myth: Gun laws can't work because criminals don't obey laws anyway.

"There is a grain of truth to this," acknowledges Zimring. "But it is nonetheless a dangerous oversimplification." If this argument is valid, he points out, then we might just as well say that all criminal laws are futile because all who violate them are indeed criminal. Only by cutting down on the transfer of guns from legitimate to illegitimate owners or reducing the total supply of handguns can we cut down on the role of guns in violence.

Another myth: Legitimate citizens are not part of our gun problem, so why restrict them.

The truth is that the majority of all gun homicides are committed by persons without serious prior criminal records, according to the professor.

Statistics such as those compiled by Professor Zimring indicate that far more Americans are killed or injured than are protected by unrestrictive use of handguns in private homes. In the face of such evidence, the ownership and use, at least of handguns, should be restricted if not banned.

For sportsmen who want to hunt, and those who need the "security" of weapons in the home, the rifle and shotgun should be just as effective.

Legislators Bogged Down In Partisan Bickering

(During Earl G. Waters' vacation, his column is being written by his guests. Today's column is by Hugh Flournoy, state controller.)

By HUGH FLOURNOY

It should be apparent by now to anyone who is watching the Sacramento scene that 1972 will not be a year of great accomplishment.

Of course, it's an election year and so the pundits and the politicians often cite that fact as an excuse for not accomplishing what the taxpayers expect and the voters were promised in campaign oratory during the last election.

Unfortunately, the Capitol has become so bogged down in partisan politics — so unwilling to compromise on issues — that state government today is at an impasse.

The State Constitution called for reapportionment of the Legislature last year and more than a year later nothing has been done because of partisan bickering between some within the Legislature and between the Legislature and the Governor.

FOR SEVERAL years now, leaders of both parties have promised California's taxpayers substantial tax reform. But little of major significance has been enacted into law.

For even more years, the critical problem of financing our public schools has been acknowledged by all who were willing to face up to the fact that the present system is unfair and inequitable. But still there is no real improvement.

More recently, leaders in both the executive and legislative branches have acknowledged the need to preserve and protect our precious coastline. And still nothing is done.

Why, the citizens ask, aren't their needs met?

THE ANSWER IS that there have been several fundamental changes in California politics resulting in a significantly changed nature of state government.

The real foundation for much of the current partisanship is the abolition of cross-filing in 1959 and the impact of the "one-man, one-vote" ruling of the United States Supreme Court.

Prior to 1959, California candidates could run for office and win nomination by both parties. Under cross-filing, they could win office in the primary election. That system put a premium on candidates and incumbent legislators who de-emphasized partisanship while simultaneously emphasizing a desire to represent the broad cross-section of voters in their districts.

However, cross-filing was abolished. Then came the "one-man, one-vote" principle. That ruling significantly enhanced the Legislature's ability to gerrymander the state in reapportionment.

THE END RESULT is that in most legislative districts in California the real election is in the primary where only the party "faithful" can participate. There now is no premium on appealing to a broad cross section of the voters and, in fact, the opposite is true — party loyalty is the key to winning re-election.

Probably the most realistic way to keep California from following the Eastern states — where partisanship dominates everything — is to change our primary system, perhaps moving to a blanket primary.

Under this approach, the voter can choose which party primary he wants to vote in for each separate office, regardless of his registration, and a candidate can appeal to that broad cross-section for support.

CALIFORNIA'S CITIZENS certainly recognize the lack of action by the Executive and Legislative branches because they are sponsoring what may be a record number of initiatives on this fall's ballot. That is tangible evidence that many people are tired of waiting for the Legislature and the Governor to get something done.

Perhaps the blanket primary system — which opens up the Primary to all the voters and therefore makes those who are elected more responsive to their constituencies — would be a proper step.

Such a step would probably eliminate the partisan impasse in Sacramento.

"Law and order is one thing, Looie, but this is going too far."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

It is impossible to underrate human intelligence — beginning with one's own. — Henry Adams.

The plea of trade unions for immunity, be it from injunction or from liability for damages, is as fallacious as the plea of the lynchers . . . We gain nothing by trading the tyranny of capital for the tyranny of labor.' — Louis D. Brandeis.

Belvedere Firemen Get Compliments

Tuesday afternoon (July 18) there was a Belvedere fire from an unattended stove (?). There was a strong wind from the north. Although the house was destroyed, the two homes on either side were unaffected, although three homes at Corte Madera further apart from each other were destroyed 10 months ago. Compliments for competence should go to the Belvedere Fire Department for speed and dexterity.

While on fire, the Sausalito retiring chief's suggestions could well be implemented countywide — use of firemen as building inspectors to pre-plan attack when fires do break out, and push for fire resistant construction and repair to buildings. Is cement impregnated wood still made to resist fire as in airplane construction during World War I?

Vote To Restore Death Penalty

God help the poor peaceful and tranquil citizen (and his or her family) who become victims of crime — rape, kidnapping, tortuous burglary — heinous crimes.

The Supreme Court rationale in voiding the death penalty brought tears to my eyes.

I most sincerely want to express my shock along with District Attorney Bruce Bales and Supervisor Louis H. Baar, both of whom made such succinct statements: "This is but another example of our highest courts usurping the function of the Legislature — I hope that I am wrong but I predict a new vista of violence in America. The five justices who voted to outlaw the death penalty must accept the responsibility for any bloody consequences" . . . "suddenly the great Supreme Court thinks we have been doing things wrong all these years."

They are our two elected officials who are courageous enough to openly express concern for responsible and peaceful citizens.

Let us show our appreciation for these brave men by voting in November for restoration of the death penalty in California and perhaps join forces for a nationwide constitutional amendment movement to overrule the Supreme Court for the sake of God, Country and Family!

And now the American Civil Liberties Union wants to void the signatures of over 1,000,000 people to place this issue on the ballot. My civil liberties and constitutional rights are threatened and may be taken away should they succeed in nullifying the right of the people to vote on this issue. I PROTEST!!

Fluroide Causes Fluoride Problems

I find it unbelievable when other countries such as Sweden are banning fluoride by law because of the many ecological and physical problems caused by this pollutant, and many fluoridated towns are abandoning it, sadder and wiser, that Marin comes limping in with a petition to put it on the ballot again.

But what really astounded me when I pointed out fluoride pollution facts to a young woman petition canvasser, was her, "Oh, I don't know anything about it. They're paying me and I need the money!"

Who are paying her? The chemical companies? Our tax money? If this is sponsored by funds donated to the Children's Dental Health by the Public Health Service, we are paying for it. Why should professional promoters get the help of our tax money?

If these paid petitioners are successful, the people who will have to educate the public with the most recent scientific evidence against the now-outdated fluoride approach will have to pay for it out of their own pockets.

I could apply an old saying, "Something is rotten in Denmark," but at least in Denmark they don't allow fluoridation.

Do Not Coddle Young Criminals

Tell me it isn't true! Tell me it was a misprint! With regards to I-J item "Term of only six months for young (22 plus yrs.) offenders"; are you serious in your reporting that "The California Supreme Court has ruled that youthful offenders may be released after six months imprisonment no matter what crime they commit." I may be against Capital Punishment, but there are limitations.

Chief Justice Donald R. Wright, in my books, is wrong! The case cited was on an appeal by "Larry G. Chambers, a Long Beach youth convicted of armed robbery and use f a firearm during the commission of a felony." Granted, the sentence he received . . . "to a minimum of 10 years in jail", would only have made him a better armed robber under the guidance of more "qualified" persons, but to allow anyone who carries a gun and is convicted of such and also of producing said firearms in the process of a robbery to do a six months term is completely insane. Are we not overly-identifying with the "criminal" who is "too young to know better" but is old enough to pull the triger?

Granted, our prison system is not a system in any way shape or form, it is a rampant river that is "drowning" all of us in and out-mates, but to let these "kids" do what the hell they please with only "six months" before them, should they get caught is pure stupidity with a capitol "S".

Changes should be made in the prison system and fair is fair, but should we not try, just a bit, to be fair to both parties that are involved: the criminal and the victim? I don't like it any more than you, but wouldn't it be wiser on the part of a potential "victim" to demand that the "criminal" stays in prison until we can come up with something that may held the criminal to re-adjust into life and become a tax payer and a "potential victim" on his own?

In the meantime, as a person who sees more grey than black and/or white; more good than evil in people; and much more wrongs that should be righted, say this: Wright you are Wrong.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Who says advertising doesn't work!"

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Aug. 1, the 214th day of 1972 with 152 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo.

Francis Scott Key, who wrote the Star Spangled Banner, was born Aug. 1, 1779.

On this day in history:

In 1790, the first U.S. census showed a population of 3,929,214 in 17 states.

In 1907, the U.S. Air Corps, now the Air Force, was founded.

In 1966, Charles Joseph Whiteman killed his mother and wife, then fatally shot 13 other persons with sniper fire from the top of a tower at the University of Texas. He wounded 32 others before police killed him.

Humphrey's Primary Concern Is To Help Fellow Senators

WASHINGTON — Who really lucked out at the recent and largely unlamented Democratic convention is still in dispute. Listening to the losers, you are sure it is not the winner, Sen. George McGovern.

One who counts himself lucky is Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey. He says that he came to realize — it was a belated realization — that if by some miracle he had been nominated, the convention would have been torn to pieces and he would have endured two days of bitter humiliation and anguish.

Now, he says, he can devote himself to being a good senator which is the ambition his wife, Muriel, has cherished for him all along. What is more, he is going to give most of his campaign time to helping fellow Democratic senators pull out of the doldrums in which many of them now are. If the election were held today, Humphrey is frank to say, the Republicans would score a net gain of not less than five seats for a majority of the Senate in the next Congress. That is a bleak prospect for a party that has so long had the prerogatives of control with powerful committee chairmen running the show.

HUMPHREY IS NOT the only Democrat in the Senate who seems likely to take the split-level approach to the campaign as the AFL-CIO has now done. They have spoken kind words about the McGovern-Eagleton ticket but, like the Russians in the sleigh as the wolves close in, you have to decide who can be saved and who must be sacrificed. The breath of the Republican wolves is very hot.

The disclosure by Sen. Thomas Eagleton of his illness and psychiatric care has caused new dismay among Democratic senators. Besides putting another obstacle in the way of the national ticket it seems to reflect on the Senate itself.

THE DANGER signals are not hard to spot on the Democratic side of the Senate. Two dropouts are causing concern. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico is retiring after a long and distinguished career. The Democrat seeking to hold his seat is a relative newcomer with the felicitous name of Jack Daniels.

In Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris stepped down for the obvious reason that he knew he could not win re-election. In a crowded field of 16 candidates in the Aug. 22 primary Rep. Ed Edmondson, who has had 10 terms in the House, is expected to win. He will face a formidable candidate in Dewey F. Bartlett, former governor of the state.

South Dakota, Sen. George McGovern's home state, offers for the Democrats working in the Senate vineyard a note of cheer. Sen. Karl Mundt, absent from the Senate for nearly three years following a paralyzing stroke, is not running for re-election. The Democrat after that seat is James G. Abourezk, one of the two South Dakotan members of the House. Elected in 1970, he is an odds-on favorite, since the assumption is that the native son at the head of the ticket will certainly carry his own state.

THE SOUTH, where once the very label of Democrat carried the certainty of victory, has its own gloomy perspective. Alabama's Sen. John J. Sparkman, at 72, faces Winton M. (Red) Blount, the fast-talking salesman who, as postmaster general, put over on the nation the postal service. This last is surely not an accomplishment to boast about, since the mails have improved little if at all while rates go steadily up.

Virginia offers an interesting example of the New South in Sen. William B. Spong Jr., challenged by an arch-conservative who speaks for the traditional South. William L. Scott, serving his term in the House, is trying to put the ultra-liberal label on Spong, who was elected six years ago with the support of labor and blacks. With the exception of 1964 Virginia has gone Republican in every presidential election in the past 20 years.

RECORDS OF the past give slight encouragement to the split-level strategist seeking to elect Democrats to Senate and House while keeping comparatively mute on the head of the national ticket. Tossing one passenger, perhaps even the driver, out of the sleigh is bound to create a dispirited atmosphere of doubt and uncertainty. The Republicans have a strong counter in an appeal for support for the President's policies in Congress, rather than a government divided against itself.

Belated though it was, Hubert Humphrey's moving renunciation was grounded in party loyalty. But his first allegiance is to the friends in the Senate who feel themselves threatened.

LOUIS CASSELS

Senator McGovern Alienated Jewish And Catholic Voters

The vast majority of America's Catholics and Jews have traditionally been Democrats. This year, a large number are likely to vote Republican.

That is the consensus of Catholic and Jewish leaders who are intimately familiar with trends and attitudes in these two large religious communities.

There are several reasons for this historic shift in political allegiance.

THE FIRST IS economic. Rising affluence has caused many Catholics and Jews to identify with the haves rather than the have-nots. "There is no question about it," says Rabbi Louis Bernstein, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, "a lot of Jews are swinging to the right in lolitics."

Racial issues have played a part in the swing to the right, particularly among so-called "ethnic" Catholics and among Jews who live near black neighborhoods in big cities. Many Jews who once considered themselves liberal allies of black men in the struggle for civil rights now feel that they are targets of virulent anti-Semitism among blacks and have become defensive about it.

MOST IMPORTANT issues in switching Catholic and Jewish votes, however, are (1) abortion and (2) Israel.

Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, is trying to sidestep the abortion issue by saying it's one for states to decide. But Catholics know—and Republicans won't let them forget it— that McGovern was saying only a few months ago that "abortion is a private matter which should be decided by a pregnant woman and her own doctor." In other words, he favored abortion-on-demand, with no legal restrictions.

THIS POSITION is deeply repugnant to many Americans —not only Catholics— who feel that the state has a responsibility to provide protection to the most helpless form of human life—a quickened but unborn fetus.

President Nixon has squarely aligned himself with this latter sentiment—and again you can rest assured this point will be made perfectly clear in the election campaign. On April 3, 1971, Nixon said:

"From personal and religious beliefs I consider abortion an unacceptable form of population control. Further, unrestricted policies of abortion on demand I cannot square with my personal belief in the sanctity of human life—including the life of the yet unborn."

JEWS AREN'T much concerned with the abortion issue but are quite concerned about American support of Israel. The general feeling of the American Jewish community, according to qualified informants within it, is that Nixon has proved himself a stalwart supporter of Israel, both in diplomatic maneuvers and in shipments of U.S. arms, including Phantom jet planes.

McGovern, on the other hand, is widely remembered among Jews as a man who once advocated making Jerusalem an open city. No amount of present and future waffling on that issue will erase the memory or the distrust of McGovern it inspired among Jews.

McGOVERN INDICATED at the Democratic convention in Miami Beach that he is aware of the possibility of large-scale Catholic and Jewish defections from the Democratic fold. He sought to placate Catholics by choosing one as his running mate and by having his forces defeat a proposed platform plank advocating abortion on demand. He tried to make character with Jews by having his name placed in nomination by a Jew and by having his delegates write into he platform a plank pledging firm U.S. support of Israel.

It is possible, however, that some Catholics and Jews may consider these gestures too little and too late.

Taking all in all, it appears probable at this moment that the two major religious components of Franklin D. Roosevelt's famous Democratic coalition will take a walk this year.

Cotati's Youthful Councilmen Enjoy Their Prominent Status

Four months after taking office, most new city councilmen settle into a dreary routine of meetings and learning the ins and outs of city government. In Cotati the young councilmen elected in April have yet to become predictable.

The feat of unseating three middle-aged incumbents and placing themselves in the council majority has sent them on a power trip that has lasted for four months and shows no signs of abating.

NATURALLY, THE under 30 trio brought a great deal of interest to little Cotati, and while they all complain of the publicity they've received, it's obvious they adore it. Mayor Annette Lombardi, 25, is collecting newspaper clippings from around the country that feature her, and Stephen Laughli, 25, who's done some newspaper writing, is trying to work out deals to write a few magazine articles on the council.

Geoffrey Dunham, who'll reach the golden age of 30 next spring, proudly tells of how he is recognized on the street by strangers. While passing through tiny Point Arena in Mendocino County, Dunham stopped in a tavern where he was floored when the bartender asked, "Hey, aren't you one of those new councilmen down in Cotati?"

MISS LOMBARDI, who rejected the women's lib role a few months ago, is now on the kick. She prefers to be addressed as Ms. Lombardi and wants her title changed from councilman to councilwoman, but says she'd settle for councilperson. Since she was officially elected as a councilman on the ballot, it looks like she's struck with the masculine title.

The Golden Gate Bridge and Transportation District may soon feel the council's wrath. When a new police chief is appointed, one of his first directives will probably be to see that every bus is ticketed if it exceeds the 25-mile per hour speed limit through Cotati. Miss Lombardi said she regularly clocks buses traveling at 45 miles per hour and says the campaign has taken on a personal meaning since a bus nearly ran down her 12-year-old brother a few weeks ago. She said the boy leaped into a ditch in time, but that his bicycle was mangled beneath a wheel. "The driver didn't even stop," she said angrily. "For all he knew, my brother could have been under that wheel too."

DUNHAM JOKINGLY suggested the city could impound buses and hold them until the bridge district promises to make drivers slow down.

The councilmen say they're surprised that a recall petition hasn't yet started making the rounds, but feel they would withstand a recall election anyway.

ART BUCHWALD

Democrats-For-McGovern Is Gathering Momentum

WASHINGTON — In a direct challenge to the "Democrats for Nixon," a new political organization has been incorporated in Washington this week with the unlikely name of "Democrats for McGovern."

The chairman, Partridge Wankleman, opened the storefront headquarters last Thursday on Pennsylvania Avenue, just three blocks from the White House. We went to a cocktail party celebrating the festivities and had a few moments with Wankleman.

"This is a grass-roots movement," he explained. "There are many Democrats who are fed up with Nixon, and we want to welcome them into our party."

"THAT'S A GOOD idea," I said, "but according to the polls, there aren't too many Democrats who have indicated they would vote for McGovern."

"The polls could be wrong," Wankleman said. "There are some Democrats who want to vote for McGovern, but at this stage, they're not willing to speak up. We hope that by starting this organization we can make it possible for them to work for our candidate. We're not asking them to stop being Democrats.

"All we're asking is that they search their consciences and vote for the best man, even if the best man is George McGovern."

"That's pretty hard for a Democrat to do," I said.

"WE'RE OPTIMISTIC. As a matter of fact, we've already signed up three Democratic senators and four Democratic governors and that's only the beginning. Our people are now working on Democratic congressmen. I wouldn't be surprised if at least half of them didn't come out for the McGovern ticket."

"That's a good start," I admitted. "I suppose you won't go after people like Mayor Daley or George Meany."

"We will, eventually. But at the moment, we'd rather attract Democrats who are on the fence and could go one way or another. We want those who will work for McGovern even if it's against their philosophy."

WANKLEMAN SAID the "Democrats for McGovern" were printing buttons, bumper stickers and posters. They were also seeking testimonials from well-known people associated with the Democratic Party in the past. Money seemed to be the big hitch.

"We can find Democrats for McGovern, but we can't seem to find many who will support him financially."

"How do you find them?" I asked.

"WE'RE WORKING from Democratic Party lists. We send out mailing to the Democrats, asking if they would be interested in supporting our candidate. It's amazing how many we've heard from. Last week, out of 1 million letters, we received 1,678 affirmative replies."

"That should give the Republicans something to think about," I said.

"I believe one of the reasons for the success of the organization," Wankleman said, "is we promise them that even if they support McGovern, they can still vote the straight Democratic ticket for other races. This has reassured many Democrats who might otherwise think they were turncoats."

"WHERE DID YOU get your idea for the 'Democrats for McGovern'?"

"Strangely enough, from the Republicans. When they started 'Democrats for Nixon,' it occurred to us that some Democrats deserved another choice. So we organized the Democrats for McGovern, to give them a place to go."

"Will you have storefronts like this all over America?" I asked.

"We hope to. This is the race to the finish, and if we can prove that even Democrats will vote for McGovern, then perhaps the independents might go along with us."

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Mark Edward Estrada, 21, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge that he possessed a pouch of marijuana on June 16.

Estrada, who has no fixed address, is also accused of having a prior felony conviction for the same crime, which could affect the sentence he may get.

He was arrested by a sheriff's deputy who said he saw a pouch of what appeared to be pot on Estrada's car's dashboard after he was stopped for a defective tail light.

Pleads Guilty To Drug Charge

William Homer Hammond, 37, of Gate 6, Waldo Point, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge that he sold heroin to a narcotics agent in June 1971.

He is to be sentenced Sept. 11 by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

Hammond was arrested in December 1971 on a warrant charging he had sold dope to agents on a red houseboat in the Gate 6 area.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Mr. Quiz:

Famous people like the U.S. President must get a lot of birthday wishes. Recently a friend of mine got 106 cards and was delighted because she had never gotten that many in her whole life. This started me to wondering. Who holds the world's record for receiving the most number of cards and letters on a birthday?

Signed: Wondering.

Dear Wondering:

Yes, President Nixon gets a bushel basketful of greeting on his birthday. However, the heaviest outpouring came to a television personality a couple of years ago. Theo Goetz, who stars on the daily TV soap opera, "The Guiding Light," got 39,000 letters and telegrams when word of his 69th birthday was mentioned on the air. Can anyone you know beat that?

Happily: GBG.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

William Clark (1770-1838), co-commander of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

Francis Scott Key (1779-1843), American lawyer and poet.

Sammy Lee (1920-), U.S. Olympic champion (platform diving).

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The Columbia river in the Northwest was first discovered by the Lewis and Clark expedition.
2. Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner."
3. On his birthday today, Sammy Lee will do a running 3½ somersault from a diving board — a stunt he performs each year at this time.

ANSWERS

1. TRUE; 2. TRUE; 3. TRUE.

"Aw, Daddy! That's the fourth town we've gone through without seeing a good place to stop for lunch. We're HUNGRY!"

DIAMOND BID

Paul Soloway, of the United States bridge team, opened the South hand with one diamond, relying on the playing strength at that suit to make up for the slight deficiency in high cards. West doubled, and North stretched a trifle to redouble.

East might have bid one spade, but he chose to pass, expecting to bid at his next turn. After the redouble, South was expected to pass and leave the next move up to his partner; but South rebid his diamonds to show that he had a good suit but very little defensive strength.

TOO GOOD

Soloway thought his hand was a trifle too good for a simple rebid of two diamonds. His jump to three diamonds was a misdemeanor. But North's jump to five diamonds was a crime. Punishment was not long in appearing on the scene.

West opened the seven of hearts, and Soloway won with dummy's ace. He ruffed a heart to get his hand and led a spade. West stepped up with the ace of spades and wisely returned a trump.

LEADS A CLUB

Declarer won and led a club. Now he could make his ambitious contract if the defender who had the ace of clubs did not have the last missing trump.

But I told you this was a Dostoyevskian tale. Jeremy Flint, of the English team, stepped up with the ace of clubs and produced another trump. This limited declarer to just one ruff in the dummy. He could ruff one club and discard one on the king of spades, but he would still have a club to lose — and that meant down one.

As dealer, you hold:

♥ - Q 9 8 7

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

If partner responds one diamond, you can show the hearts; and if he responds, instead, in a major suit you can raise. The hand is a dead minimum opening bid, but there is no harm in opening with minimum values.

Misquote Claimed

Inmate Escape Try: 3 Die

NORFOLK, Mass. (UPI)— Katherine Elliott was wearing a long skirt Monday when she checked in to see her husband, a convicted murderer, at Norfolk prison colony. Under the skirt, officials theorized today, she had strapped two handguns to her legs.

Her husband, Walter, 32, used the guns in an attempted jail break, killing a guard and civilian employe and wounding another guard. Then after 5-½ hours, his escape attempt thwarted, Elliott shot his wife and killed himself.

Mrs. Elliott was in critical condition today with a bullet wound in the head.

The bodies of Elliott, who was serving a life sentence for the 1968 slaying of a woman, and his wounded wife were found when a dozen troopers wearing bullet-proof vests stormed a cellblock at the medium security prison where the couple had barricaded themselves.

John O. Boone, corrections commissioner, said officials were trying to find out for certain how Mrs. Elliott smuggled in the weapons. A woman normally has her handbag searched but no metal detector is used, one source said.

Prison guards openly criticized Boone because his alleged permissive handling of convicts set up the abortive break. "It's gonna be interesting," one guard said, "to hear him (Boone) explain his way out of this one."

Melvin Bernstein, a spokesman for the State Department of Corrections, said shortly after the visit between the Elliotts began about 9:30 a.m., Mrs. Elliott loaded the handguns and gave them to her husband. He shot a guard in the arm, and said he was making an escape.

"He ran outside and shot another guard and then ran back and shot the first one in the head," Bernstein said. The first guard, James Souza, 29, died of the wounds. Alfred J. Baranowski, 54, an instructor who was wounded a short time later, died shortly before 5 p.m.

The other wounded guard was in satisfactory condition today.

Elliott and his wife left the visiting room and barricaded themselves in Unit 73. A chaplain appealed with Elliott to surrender but the inmate refused.

More than 150 state troopers moved inside the prison, about 20 miles south of Boston, and about 1:40 p.m. began firing tear gas into the dorm. The barrage lasted until 3 p.m. when a dozen troopers started a room by room search for Elliott.

Boone said Superintendent George Bohlinger was informed last week that Elliott might try to escape and Bohlinger "initiated action," but he was not specific about what the superintendent did and conceded rumors of escape tries are frequent in prisons.

Hatch Act Is Declared Unconstitutionally Vague

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1939 Hatch Act prohibiting federal workers from partisan political activities has been ruled unconstitutionally vague by a panel of three federal judges.

"This is a classic case of a statute which in itself on occasion has a 'chilling effect' unacceptable under the 1st Amendment," said Judge Gerhard A. Gesell.

Judge Barrington B. Parker concurred in the 2 to 1 decision handed down Monday. Dissenting was Judge George E. MacKinnon of the U. S. Appeals Court.

Gesell and Parker sit on the U. S. District Court for the District of Columbia.

The National Association of Letter Carriers and six federal workers from the Washington metropolitan area asked the court in a suit filed March, 1971 to enjoin the U. S. Civil Service Commission from enforcing provisions of the Hatch Act.

They specifically challenged a clause that prohibits employes of federal executive agencies or the District of Columbia from taking "an active part in political management or political campaigns" subject to being fired or suspended without pay.

The court said the law incorporated by inference more than 3,000 rulings made by the commission between 1886 and 1940.

"No one can read the Act and ascertain what it prohibits," Gesell said in the majority opinion. "Any conscientious public servant concerned for the security of his job...must feel continuously in doubt as to what he can do or say politically."

Gesell said the commission has acted responsibly in trying to apply the law. He blamed Congress for not giving the commission authority or sufficient standards to enable the commission to act with clarity. "Our's is not a form of government that will prosper if its citizens, particularly federal servants, must live by the mottos 'Better Be Safe than Sorry' and 'Don't Stick Your Neck Out,'" Gesell wrote.

The Supreme Court has refused to consider any appeals since upholding the Hatch Act twice in 1947.

AT&T Says Charge Of Bias A Bum Rap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the world's largest corporation, charged today it has been "unjustly maligned" by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) charges of job discrimination.

On Dec. 10, 1970, the commission asked the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to block an AT&T request to raise long distance telephone rates by some $250 million on grounds the company discriminates in the hiring and promotion of women, blacks and Mexican-Americans.

"In its zeal in trying this case against the Bell system, the EEOC has failed to recognize that the primary reason the Bell system exists is to provide communication service to the American public, not merely to provide employment to all comers, regardless of ability," a company official said.

John W. Kingsbury, assistant vice president for human sources development, was the chief witness whose written testimony was filed today with the FCC in rebuttal to the discrimination charges.

AT&T accused the EEOC of "ignoring the realities of the labor market and the company's business of providing good telephone service at reasonable cost."

"If the Bell companies were to act upon the EEOC's opinion that they should require less skill or ability of those they hire, it would be difficult to continue to provide quality service," Kingsbury said.

EEOC has charged that the company which comprises the Bell system, an organization of about 800,000 employees, kept women in much less desirable jobs such as telephone operators and did not train minorities as it did whites.

IRA Vows New Guerrilla Warfare

BELFAST (UPI)—A massive British military presence enforced quiet on former Irish Republican Army (IRA) strongholds throughout Northern Ireland today but an IRA official pledged a new campaign of guerrilla warfare in retaliation.

The largest British military force ever assembled in Northern Ireland—21,000 troops—moved into Belfast, Londonderry and other Ulster towns in armored vehicles at dawn Monday and tore down IRA barricades erected to keep the army from entering the "no go" areas.

The troops met little resistance and the silence throughout the province was broken today only by occasional sniper shots and answering British fire. British troops searching for arms arrested 24 persons but released four after questioning.

Sean MacStiofain, chief of staff of the militant Provisional IRA wing, said in Dublin Monday night that the Provos "in accordance with a prearranged plan" deliberately avoided battle with the British armored task forces.

"This decision was taken to avoid the very heavy civilian casualties that would have occurred if open resistance had been employed," MacStiofain said in a statement.

"Our struggle will continue in accordance with the principles of guerrilla warfare," he said.

An army source said the guerrilla plan would fail.

"Sure, there'll be plenty more sniping and bombing and terrorism but whatever tactics the IRA try, they'll fail," he said. "And if the Irish authorities cooperate, they'll be wiped out."

British army officers said it appeared most IRA gunmen had fled to the Irish Republic and the rest were lying low and making only occasional sniping forays in the newly occupied areas.

This jibed with reports from the Republic which told of Provo retreaters grouping in County Monaghan and the towns of Buncrana and Dundalk.

"MacStiofain's talk of wanting to avoid civilian bloodshed is pure propaganda," a British officer said. "This is classic guerrilla tactic as expounded by Mao Tse-tung—in the face of a superior enemy force, you just retreat."

Novato Man To Face Two Sex Charges

A 22-year-old Novato man has been arrested on suspicion of rape and sex perversion, Novato police reported yesterday.

Steven Rex Hickman of 740 Sunset Parkway, was released on $5,000 bail from Marin County Jail and is scheduled to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

According to Novato police, Hickman met a woman, whom he had been dating for about a month, at awedding Saturday in San Francisco. Instead of taking her to her San Rafael home, he drove her to Novato and he forced her into the house he shares with three other men.

Inside he beat her until she submitted to natural and unnatural sex acts, police reported. The girl reported to police that she screamed, but it did not awaken the other residents of the house.

Westwood Asks Probe Of Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic National Chairman Jean M. Westwood has asked a congressional investigation of the awarding of the space shuttle contract.

She said Monday that five directors of the firm that won the contract, North American Rockwell, contributed to President Nixon's 1968 campaign.

"The award of this contract to North American Rockwell ... raises questions of ethics," she said.

But Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., defended the award of the $2.6 billion space contract. He said it was "not any boondoggle."

Prosecution Not Ready In Hearing

Burglary and car theft charges against Michael Mattson, 21, of no known address have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court because the district attorney was not realy for a preliminary hearing.

However, the district attorney's office said it will refile the charges against Mattson, arrested July 18 on a warrant charging him with breaking into a Kentfield home and stealing a car in San Mateo May 27.

The case against codefendants Arnold Roy Turner, 20, of Pacifica, and Robert Burch Turner, 24, of Burlingame was previously dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

Black Wins Service In Moose Club

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court, ruling Monday in favor of a black state legislative leader, ordered a Harrisburg Moose lodge to serve Negroes on grounds it was a "public accommodation."

The ruling was a victory for state Democratic Majority Leader K. Leroy Irvis, who had argued unsuccessfully against the constitutionality of the organization's bylaws before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The nation's high court, using as a guide state court rulings that Moose Lodge 107 was a private club, ruled against Irvis' argument that the lodge's refusal to serve him violated the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment.

Irvis began his court battle in 1968 when he was refused service at a lodge near the state Capitol although escorted by two members of the club.

He appealed to the Pennsylvania Human Relations Comission, and the U.S. District Court in Harrisburg.

The commission ruled the Moose Club was a "public accommodation," sometimes rented to groups for dinners or parties, and ordered the club to lift a ban on blacks in order to retain a state liquor license.

The commission ruling was overturned in Dauphin County Court and the state Superior Court.

A three judge district court panel ruled the state was participating in discrimination since it had provided the license, but the ruling was reversed in the U.S. Supreme Court decision.

In Monday's action, the state Supreme Court said the lodge cannot be stopped under state laws from discriminating when it sets up qualifications for members.

However, the high court ruled "having gone beyond that point and by making its facilities available to non-members, it may not do so on a discriminatory basis in violation of the Human Relations Act."

Reports Say Sadat Expelled Russians After Coup Attempt

LONDON (UPI) —Diplomatic reports reaching here said today a section of the Egyptian army rebelled against President Anwar Sadat on May 25, but the power grab failed.

The diplomats said some 1,000 members of the elite "special forces" under Brig. Gen. Samir El-Tanawi took part in the rebellion.

The reports from the Middle East could not be immediately confirmed by government sources here and abroad.

About 10 of the ringleaders, including Tanawi, were arrested, the diplomats said.

The diplomats said the move was believed to be one of the reasons Sadat decided to expel Soviet military advisers from Egypt.

Details of the incident are still not clear but diplomats said there were two versions about the objectives of the rebel troops.

One version said they planned to overthrow Sadat.

The other said they planned to place an ultimatum before the president that he should concede a list of demands. Head of the list was the removal of the Soviet advisers. If Sadat refused the plan was to unseat him from power.

The note said:" The United States, which out one of the two superpowers, gives Israel all the aid that is necessary to encourage it to commit more aggressions...The Soviet Union, which is the other super power, has failed so far to give us the aid that would enable us to liberate occupied lands and regain our rights...

"The time has come to revise the policy of excessive reliance on the Soviet Union...this policy has failed to realize the liberation of the land five years since the defeat took place...the time has come for Egypt to become a security zone between the two super powers, even the major powers...

"An alliance with the devil is not objectionable in itself unless it mainly serves the interests of the devil. This is bound to happen unless the ally is the devils equal."

In a speech in May, Sadat publicly rejected the note and promised it would be made public. It never was because of pressure from the Soviet Embassy.

The diplomats said that early on the morning of May 25, about 50 helicopters, each carrying some 20 fully armed commandos of the "special forces," gathered in the Belbeis area, northeast of Cairo, where there is a major military airfield.

Reports said the troops planned to land at two places—near Sadat's home in the Guizeh suburb of Cairo, and near the radio station.

War Minister Lt. Gen. Mohammed Ahmed Sadek was apparently notified of the situation at Belbeis and immediately took charge in a counteraction.

There was no detail how the rebels were foiled but the diplomats said Tanawi and the ringleaders were arrested and secretly referred to trial.

Tanawi was subsequently replaced by Col. Mahmoud Abdulla.

The diplomats said Sadat obliquely referred to the power move in a major speech July 24 when he talked about his differences with the Soviet Union.

Sadat said he considered, after President Nixon's summit meeting in Moscow, that a" pause with our friend (the Soviet Union) is necessary to talk and be frank."

He then added: "Our differences continued from March 1971 until today. The differences were concealed, although they caused me domestic troubles."

The diplomats said the army move was a factor in the expulsion decision but Russia's reluctance to supply Egypt with advanced weapons was still the main reason Sadat ordered the advisers out.

Jane Fonda Plans Campaign For Peace

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jane Fonda, just back from Hanoi, says she is going to suspend her acting career until after the November elections to work full time in the peace movement.

"Genocide is more important than anyone's career," she said on her return home Sunday when asked about moves under way to boycott her movies because of a broadcast she made from Hanoi. "People that are considered radical today will be considered normal years from today," she said.

Bus Swerves Over Cliff, 24 Killed

Police said 24 people were killed and 12 survived the accident at Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

PIER DOOMED?

Paul Gorman, 13 (left), and Bill Christmas, 14, both of Tiburon, fish next to the Cove Apartments from a popular pier slated by the county for demolition as part of a flood control project. Its fate will be decided Thursday by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission at 2 p.m. in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. The state wants a replacement, but the county claims it would be too costly.

5 Areas Get Camino Alto Cost Shares

The Homestead Valley Sanitary District board last night tentatively approved distribution of the cost of the proposed $142,000 Camino Alto Sewer project among the five participating sanitary districts.

According to board member Gustaf F. Wolf, the board's acceptance was conditioned on approval of its district engineer, Edward Nute, and arrangement of financing the district's share of the costs.

The district's share, according to a schedule worked out by Mill Valley City Engineer Stanley M. Bala, would be about $20,300. That figure is based on the district's portion of the total assessed valuation of the land to be benefited by the new pumping station and sewer lines.

The board also scheduled a budget session at 8:30 p.m. Monday in the faculty room of Homestead School.

Built on a bluff overlooking the Missouri River, it houses many works of art.

No Way To Prevent Moon Mail, Slayton

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Donald K. (Deke) Slayton, boss of the astronaut corps, said today the Space Agency could not prevent the Apollo 15 crew from taking unauthorized envelopes to the moon and later offering them for sale.

The crew never made any money off the $150,000 sale of 99 envelopes but the three astronauts were reprimanded. One crew member, James B. Irwin, retired from the Space Agency effective today.

Slayton, director of flight crew operations at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the incident was "a breakdown in internal discipline.

"That was obviously against the rules," Slayton said. "It should not have happened. You can write four pages of rules to cover it, but it's like someone going out and shooting somebody. There's a law against murder, but that doesn't change anything."

Slayton's comments were his first expanded public statements on the incident.

"When you are going to trust these guys with a few hundred million dollars worth of equipment in about three hours for 10 to 15 days, you have got to have confidence in them; otherwise we are all in the wrong business," Slayton said.

Irwin, David R. Scott and Alfred M. Worden were authorized to take 232 stamped envelopes to the moon but smuggled another 400 aboard their moon ship for the July, 1971, mission. They proposed to establish trust funds for their families in exchange for the envelopes but backed out of the venture.

The Space Agency forbids astronauts to commercially gain from personal items taken into space.

Sen. Clinton M. Anderson, D-N.M., planned a hearing Thursday on the moon mail incident. The Apollo 14 astronauts took 200 silver medals on their 1971 flight but with Slayton's approval.

Ten-Story Fall Kills Woman, 71

A 71-year-old woman, who apparently was pruning a balcony shrub, fell to her death from a 10th story apartment today at the Tamalpais Retirement Residence, Greenbrae.

Laura Freeman Redmond was found on a patio 10 floors below her apartment at 7:10 a.m. by a nurse, county coroner's investigator Keith C. Craig said.

Craig said that when he and Larkspur Police Chief Howard Clark visited Mrs. Redmond's apartment, they found a step ladder leaning against the railing of her balcony.

Near the ladder was a pair of pruning shears and a bucket of prunings next to a tall shrub in a tub. Craig said Mrs. Redmond apparently had been reaching to prune the shrub and fell over the railing.

Governor's Wife To Fill Ellender Post

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Saying women are not involved enough in politics, Gov. Edwin Edwards Tuesday appointed his wife, Elaine, to fill the unexpired term of Sen. Allen J. Ellender.

Ellender, the president pro tempore of the Senate, died Thursday. He was 81.

Edwards said the appointment of his wife to the $42,500 a year job was a "meaningful but symbolic gesture that would indicate my feeling that women are too little involved in public affairs."

Edwards also said he wanted to appoint someone to Ellender's seat who would not be a candidate in the fall, would not use the appointment for personal or political gain and would be willing to resign following the election of Ellender's successor Nov. 7.

Once Ellender's successor is elected, Mrs. Edwards will resign and the governor will immediately appoint the person elected in November to give him a seniority edge over other freshman senators.

Fire Safety Session To Be Saturday

A structural fire which took the life of a 41-year-old Terra Linda housewife on July 17 has sparked a meeting on fire prevention by the Santa Margarita Homeowners Association.

The association will meet Saturday at 10 a.m. in Santa Margarita Valley Park to discuss recent fires, fire prevention and home fire protection, according to Charlotte Schmid, association secretary.

She said that San Rafael Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci will demonstrate fire alarm systems and safety devices as well as mobile equipment.

The fire meeting comes in the wake of the death of Helen M. Wolz, who died in a blaze in her home at 731 Del Ganado Road, and a recent rash of grass fires, Mrs. Schmid said.

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese government said today it will try to build the world's first nuclear powered steel mill by 1979, and earmarked $25 million for research on the project.

Plan Against Busing Near House Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment to outlaw busing for the purpose of school desegregation was cleared for a House vote today by the rules committee.

The action was a victory for antibusing forces, who have been trying for a year to get a House vote on the amendment.

The rules committee vote, if sustained by the House, would remove the amendment from the judiciary committee, where it has been bottled up and permit an immediate House vote.

The rules committee postponed until next week action on another antibusing bill — President Nixon's proposal to prohibit any new federal court busing orders until next July 1.

The committee decided on the postponement so as to wait to see what happens in the House Education and Labor Committee on still a third anti-busing proposition.

The latter bill would set guidelines for the federal courts to follow in overcoming unlawful school segregation that prohibit crosstown busing of elementary school children.

Garage Sale U.S.A.

(If we have it in stock, you get it on sale.)

Remember, buckling your seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with.

Last year over 6000 Chevy dealers all across America had one big Garage Sale.

It was a big success.

Because every new car and truck they had in inventory, they also had on sale.

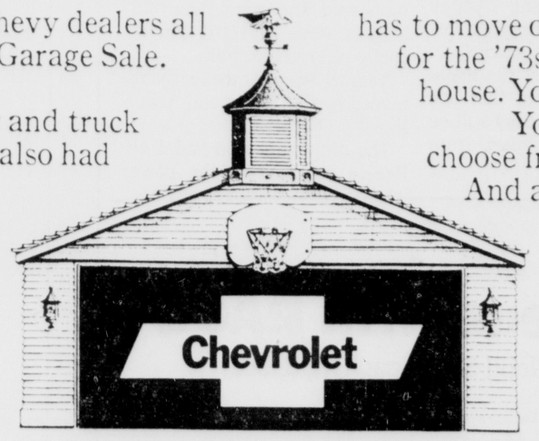
So they're doing it again this year. Right now, in fact.

And it's your best chance of the year to save on a new Chevrolet.

Because your dealer has to move out all his '72s to make room for the '73s. (He gets a chance to clean house. You get a chance to clean up.)

You'll find a good selection to choose from. In all shapes and sizes. And all priced to go.

So see your friendly neighborhood Chevy dealer now while his Garage Sale is going on. See how much you can save. Then go and see some of the U.S.A.



Building a better way to see the U.S.A.

NOVATO DAY CAMP

Children Learn About Surroundings

By DOROHY NEWELL

Ten eager youngsters arrived yesterday morning at Pioneer Memorial Park for another week of activity at the day camp sponsored by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department.

Before they began their project for the day one of the youngsters went down to Novato Creek and came back with a bottle of sticklebacks, a type of minnow.

"I scared them into the bottle," he said. But it wasn't long before he took them back and released them.

The youngsters, ages 7 to 12, are given a variety of programs including nature study, hiking, fishing, archery and trips, but on this Monday morning they were engaged in arts and crafts. Most of the youngsters wanted to try decoupage — cutting pictures from magazines and gluing them to boards and varnishing them — while three of the youngsters made octopuses out of bright yarn.

After their projects were finished, John Howard, a parttime employee with the department, asked the youngsters if they would like to take a walk to the creek, but it wasn't long before they came back laughing, as they were told by a woman across the creek that they were trespassing on private property. John soon found another game to keep them busy. Using bits of clay as darts, they tried to hit the center of a figure on the side of the black cement pool.

The day camp program will continue for another three weeks. Parents bring the children to the park at 10 a.m. and pick them up at 3 p.m. They bring their own lunches. Residents are charged $7 per week per child and non-residents $9 per child.

Mrs. Virginia Burbank, who is employed in Novato but lives in Petaluma, has three children attending the day camp this summer. She said she has sent her children to several summer camps, but the day camp in Novato is really offering much more than any of the other programs. She said the youngsters are eager to go to the camp each day.

"Young people are in charge of the program and really relate to the youngsters," she said.

Included in the cost of the program are several excursions with all other youngsters in the parks and recreation department. They have been on a ferry boat ride, to a Giants baseball game and during the final week of camp, Aug. 14 to 18, they will attend the ice follies.

Trudi George, student at California State College, Sonoma, is director of the daycamp. She hopes to teach when she is graduated from college.

I really like working with the kids," she said. "It's a great experience."

She told of one of the most enjoyable excursions when they all hiked out to Stafford Dam in Novato and the youngsters went fishing, caught 15 bluegills and had a barbecue. She said they barbecued hamburgers and sent the fish home with the youngsters.

The day camp can accommodate 20 youngsters, she added, and hoped that more youngsters will sign up for the final two weeks.

Two other young persons who work at the day camp, Karen Johnson and Larry Lee, will both be seniors at Novato High School this fall.

Hope's The Word In Cancer Nursing

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The names they hold out carry the invisible message of hope. For hope is what it's all about where a special group of student nurses has been working this summer.

The nurses, 25 in all, are part of the American Cancer Society's (ACS) work-study program for collegiate nursing students at New York's Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases. The program is in its third year.

"What I believe is what's already been said, where there's life, there's hope," said Katherine Hopkins, 21, a Boonton, N.J. girl who will graduate next June from the Wagner College School of Nursing in Staten Island, N.Y. "Most of the patients I worked with believe they're going to live."

"I had to develop a whole philosophy of hope," said Kathleen Dietz, 20, a New Yorker who will graduate next June from Boston College. "But I started working with cancer patients at an age where it probably was easier for me."

SHE HAS BEEN a weekend and summer volunteer since her sophomore days in high school.

What Miss Dietz revealed further in an interview was that three of her grandparents had died of the disease. When she graduates she will specialize in nursing cancer patients and hopes to return to Memorial.

Hope is what the American Cancer Society holds out to the victims of what is the nation's second greatest killer (heart and other circulatory diseases are number one).

ACS says more and more patients are walking out of the hospital—an estimated 1.5 million persons cured. ACS counts as cured those free of all symptoms of the disease five years after treatment is finished.

Its program of work-study for collegiate nursing students also went on this summer at Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, and the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md.

Some of the students, like Miss Dietz and Patricia Funk, who will graduate next year from Northern Illinois University School of Nursing in DeKalb, want to specialize in cancer care. Others like Miss Hopkins aren't sure yet whether they'll go into general nursing or specialize.

FOR THOSE already certain of their direction, Miss Funk sums up some of the reasons thusly: "I've worked in a 500-bed hospital at home and when it came to cancer patients, none of the people I worked with wanted to care for a cancer patient two days in a row. I said to myself, 'There has got to be a better way.'"

Whatever their futures, the young women all must feel as Miss Hopkins puts it: "In this type of duty, you have to develop a lot in yourself, how to cope with your own emotions. I know that I grew up a lot this summer."

For make no mistake. This is difficult work. This summer, these young people cared for patients who'd lost their voices and parts of their bodies to the disease, coped with emotional families, with demanding medical specialists trying to do a Herculean job and, yes, with death.

Youth is hope, but it takes a special kind of youth to do this special type of nursing. The girls found it hard to put into words the qualities. But you don't run away.

"There is so much you can do to offer friendship," said Miss Funk.

MISS DIETZ said her friends sometimes ask how she can do the work. "I suppose," she said, "We're being humanitarian.

"One thing you have to be is honest. Know what you're talking about. Be yourself. If you're not, the patient can sense it.

"I wish the laymen had not given the word cancer a horrible stigma. Remember, the role of doctors and nurses is to cure."

Money From POW Bracelets Is Used In Variety Of Ways

HELEN AND SUE:

Thanks for telling us where to send for POW bracelets, but here's a question several people asked me: How does the money from sales help?

Money alone won't get these men out of prison camps. — CONCERNED ABOUT OUR POW'S

CONCERNED:

True, we can't "buy" our POWs' release, but bracelet money helps keep the public (including Hanoi) aware of their plight and our will to bring them home.

We sent your question to a VIVA executive who answered it as follows:

"Having been informed of the tragic situation with our American POW-MIAs, VIVA chose in October, 1970, to set aside all other activities and concentrate solely on the solution of this problem until all prisoners are freed.

"Here are some of the projects financed by bracelet sales:

"1. VIVA gave a national symposium for POW-MIA families from all over the country so that they might plan and organize National POW-MIA Week.

"2. It placed ads with a clip-out letter to Congress in 70 major newspapers.

"3. VIVA buys advertising space on 25 million match books per month, which inform people of the POW-MIA plight.

"4. It helps POW-MIA family groups whenever there is a need.

"5. It has information inserted in college newspapers to reach over two million students.

"6. It supplies materials, arranges for speakers, and helps plan approximately 250 POW-MIA programs a week in schools, shopping centers, conventions, etc.

"7. VIVA answers some 2,000 written requests for literature, etc. per day. It receives and forwards at least 100 letters a day from citizens to family members. These not only boost family morale, but also will be meaningful to men who return after years of hearing the enemy say that Americans don't care.

"8. It will provide funds, when justified, to establish offices in cities which are directing a POW-MIA efforts, i.e. pay rent or salary of the office manager."

Mainly, "Concerned," your bracelet money insures that the country will not forget.

POW bracelets may be had by sending a donation of $2.50 (for nickel) or $3.00 (for copper) to VIVA, 10966 Le Conte, Los Angeles, Calif., 90024, or POW-MIA Campaign, 2053 "R" Street, McClellan Air Force Base, Calif., 95652. — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR RAP:

What's your definition of "gossip," and what's the difference between gossiping and being painfully frank? Which is preferable? — STUDENT OF HUMAN NATURE

DEAR STUDENT:

Gossip is what you wouldn't say if the person were there. "Painful frankness" is saying it when the person is there.

I think we could do without both! — SUE

DEAR SOHN:

Gossip — among women — is repeating something which, if said to a girl's face, might bring a slap. Among men? Well, they call it "informative discussion."

When a person brags about being "painfully frank" he's usually saying, "I'm envious," whether he realizes it or not.

In fact, both gossiping and hurtful frankness often stem from the urge to bring others low; but I think the latter is the more vicious. — HELEN

P.S. Come to think of it, a little gossip isn't such a bad thing — it livens a conversation, provides good reading, and shows that we're still interested in someone besides ourselves. If it were suddenly banned, the world would seem pretty dull. — HELEN AND SUE

(GOT A PROBLEM? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel —or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

HEAD'S HUNTERS: Josef Head's den, designed with Tyndale furniture and accessories, makes full use of today's back-to-the-source thinking. Wood floors have been stenciled with bold decorative motifs and one wall is covered with no-nonsense rough boarding.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Back-To-The-Source Has Come To Home Furnishings

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Whether it's done tongue-in-cheek or in a straightforward manner, there's a definite back-to-the-source movement in furnishings. And in most cases the source being restored is wood in its natural or near-natural state.

Almost every major manufacturer is making an effort to strip down at least one group of furniture and it's hard for some of the workmen to switch over. For years they've been rubbing and polishing wood pieces until every imperfection was obliterated. If they hadn't, some inspector would spot it and send the piece back for refinishing.

Strangely, now it's the production chief who has to keep explaining to the finishers that each piece needn't be so picture-book perfect. One manufacturer has really wonderful craftsmen who keep filling holes made by beetles in a new wood that's being used. But the manufacturer wants the beetle holes as they are.

Sometimes the natural theme is merely a fun one as in the room setting designed by Josef Head for Tyndale. Some of the pieces made by Tyndale are totally contemporary and slick and are made of chrome and glass.

Others include a collection of porcelain lamps in great colors, reproductions of Oceanian artifacts and a variety of animal horns.

FOR HIS sparsely furnished lion's den, Head used a trio of chrome tables against an all-wood interior. Rough-sawed walls are perfect for the collector who likes to change or add to displays of artifacts, and wood-plank floors can be painted with bright graphic designs in an easy-care way.

For a special bit of humor, Head had the bed wall painted with images of his ancestors in their very best finery. Colors are deep brown, blood-red and natural and the raised platform area for the bed has been covered and curtained in an Indian batik fabric that has been dyed a matching blood-red.

It's the kind of room young people could create and in so doing, learn a lot about individuality. Head believes that rooms conformed to a certain formula — bed, chair, chest — are deadly dull and part of the reason so many youngsters take off for parts unknown.

Article Notes Health Careers

Health careers that call for little or no formal studying are discussed in an article by Arthur S. Freese in Seventeen Magazine's August issue.

According to the article, the field where good jobs are waiting is in the paramedical or health professions. These jobs call for only a high school diploma and perhaps two years of college or an associate's degree.

Among the 200 different jobs in the health field are water pollution control technician, dental laboratory technician, radiologic technologist, hospital computer programmer, inhalation therapist and electrocardiographic technician.

Penologists Admit It's Time For Many Changes

By JACK WAUGH
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — "One of the quickest ways I know," an ex-California inmate says, "to tell that an institution just ain't no good at all is when you have to start reforming its reforms."

Not in 100 years has the cry to reform the reforms in American prisons been as intense as it is today.

Indeed, in the wake of the cell-block riots of the early 1970s in Attica, in Rahway, N.J., in Soledad, in San Quentin, in Pontiac, Mich., the prison-reform movement is taking its most abrupt turn since U.S. prisons were first shaped by the Quaker conscience in Pennsylvania nearly two centuries ago.

The cry is not simply to change a system that does not work. It is a cry to dismantle the existing system itself; It challenges the very existence of prisons as we know them.

This call is not coming just from the radical fringes of the U.S. prison-reform movement. It is the overriding message that is about to issue from a conference of 54 of the country's most concerned and knowledgeable students of the American penal and criminal justice systems. The 54 met in Cambridge, Mass., under the sponsoring arm of the Roscoe Pound American Trial Lawyers Foundation in early June. Their findings are now in the process of final drafting.

Prison itself was born as a reform. The Quakers in Pennsylvania in the late 1700's saw it as a way not only to protect society from the criminal, but to make him penitent, and in some way to save both him and the society he had wronged.

Before that a criminal was flogged, fined, banished, or hung. It was a good intention that went wrong. For almost immediately the prison ideal turned sour. Prisons became high-walled isolation wards where men were not only confined, but brutalized and dehumanized. They became simply cages for society's human castoffs.

A constant round of tinkering with the system has followed, with cycle after cycle of reform. Probation and parole measures have been wrought and then changed; indeterminate sentences were instituted, halfway houses built, and convict self-government tried, all in the name of reform.

But by 1972, some 180 years after the first prisons in America were built, criminologist Gresham Sykes was saying that all the reforms "may not have made a whit's bit of difference. There is not hard evidence that they have."

One hundred years ago the nation's foremost prison reformers met in Cincinnati as the first National Prison Association and adopted a declaration of principles, which became a guideline for modern penal reform.

The declaration said: Make reformation, not vindictive suffering, the rule of inmate treatment; modernize prisoner classification; reward a prisoner for good conduct; stop making corrections jobs political, since that is the chief obstacle to reform; train prison officers, and remove disparities and inequities in prison sentences.

It said a prisoner should be disciplined so as to win his goodwill and preserve his self-respect; prisons should make for industrious freemen, not orderly, obsequious, and obedient prisoners; prisons should be small, with like offenders put with like; the law should lock up "higher-ups" in crime as well as lesser operatives; there should be a more judicious exercise of the pardoning power; there should be better prison architecture geared to humanity and inhabitation; prison management should be centralized; prisoners should get social training by proper association; and society at large should be made to relize that it is responsible for crime, too.

Today criminologist Hans Mattick of the University of Chicago gazes at the list of reforms and says, "They haven't been realized yet in 90 per cent of the institutions."

And the meeting of reformers at the recent Roscoe Pound conference in Cambridge went far beyond the Cincinnati guidelines.

Among the participants were lawyers, law professors, criminologists, journalists, wardens, law-enforcement officers, prison psychiatrists, judges, prosecutors, defenders, and federal state, and county level administrators of penal programs. F. Lee Bailey (the defense attorney), William J. Vanden Heuvel (chairman of the New York City Board of Corrections), and Dr. E. Preston Sharp (general secretary of the American Correctional Association) attended.

While the precise contours of its findings are not yet releasable, the hours of discussion out of which they were forged rang with talk that goes far beyond any reform practiced today or seriously recommended.

Voice after voice in Cambridge sharply questioned the basic value of imprisonment itself as we know it now.

The bold reforms likely to surface in the findings of the Cambridge conference may not be implemented soon — or ever. But the fact that they are being talked about now by penal reformers of the stature and credibility of the 54 at Cambridge is a sign of the times; that prison reform so revolutionary that it threatens the institution of prison as we know it today is afoot in the country — and gaining ground.

Gerhard O. W. Mueller, New York University law professor, said that not only should a man be proved guilty, and assumed innocent until he was, but also that imprisonment must be proved necessary and resorted to only when there is no other recourse. And the conferees nodded agreement.

Herman Schwartz, professor of law at the State University of New York at Buffalo, said flatly that "our strategy must be to abolish prisons as we know them." And there was pardly a murmur of dissent.

The conference appeared to agree that there would still be prisons for those who committed major crimes, but that they would be very different from the massive, high-walled behemoths of today. They would be modern and, if possible, "cageless" institutions where an inmate's problem is dealt with as just that — a problem.

Caleb Foote, professor of law and criminology at the University of California at Berkeley, called for such reforming of reforms as abolishing the bail system, and doing away with pretrial detention of all but the most dangerous of mass murderers. The rest of the conference took up the cry. The idea would virtually abolish county jails.

And reforms long governing prison life fell under heavy fire. What for 50 years has been considered the most enlightened of reforms — the indeterminate sentence — got rough handling.

Designed originally to reward the model prisoner and set him free early, indeterminate sentencing became in many cases a weapon to punish the difficult prisoner and keep him behind bars indefinitely. Most of the 54 experts meeting in Cambridge wanted a return to the determinate sentence, coupled with uniform and equitable sentencing guidelines, which would do away completely with arbitrary parole boards.

The conference may couple this with a call for far shorter sentences for all crimes, on grounds that when "doing time" stretches into many years, it becomes self-defeating.

Another call likely to emerge in the final findings of the Cambridge conference will be for a drastic "decriminalizing" of the law. This means an end to making behavior that does not involve force, violence, fraud, or attacks on property a criminal offense punishable by going to prison. For instance: alcoholism, drug addiction, homosexuality, adult-consenting sexual acts, prostitution, and gambling.

Meanwhile, the prisoner has some obligations, too, it was felt.

There was a call to return to practices that antedated prisons themselves — such as financial restitution to the victims of crime by the criminal, rather than by the society at large.

It was also said the fines should be used to bring home to prisoners their necessity to pay back at least some of the damage they had caused. Fines, of course, were also known before prisons were ever used as a widescale "remedy."

MUSIC REVIEW

Silent Films Take On New Dimension With Synthesizer

By ROBERT M. NESS

Silent films took on a new dimension at last night's "Live and Electric Sounds with Early Silent Films" presented by composer George Burt and ragtime pianist Fae McNally to a small audience at Dominican College's Angelico Hall.

Unlike many avant-garde happenings, this one was happily devoid of esoteric experimentalism. Multimedia presentations often attempt to scatter the audience intake facilities to the point where total confusion seems to be the artistic goal. Last night's ragtime piano and electronic music synthesizer were carefully integrated into the dramatic situation of the films.

To be sure, the justification for the revival of the early silent film lies more in the reevaluation of the film art than in nostalgia. The accomplishments of men like Charlie Chaplin within the limitations of the early film industry are probably more appreciated today than when first released.

There is no justification — except possibly nostalgia — for the revival of that tiresome melodramatic formula piano improvisation that traditionally accompanied these films.

Composer Burt has replaced it with background music that not only enhances, but becomes an integral part of the film.

While maintaining the improvisatory element, he has precisely formulated the sound to the action through electronic means. The basic structure is always the same, yet he can embellish and modify according to the hall, his mood, the audience, or what have you. The result is astounding.

"The New York Hat", a film dating from 1912, was almost entirely accompanied by the synthesizer. The moment when gossip was spreading through the town was especially effectively realized in the music. Most successful, though, was "The Rink", an hilarious 1916 Charlie Chaplin comedy.

Here the amazing piano artistry of McNally was set agaist qudsi-imitative electric sounds beautifully expressing the helterskelter action of the film.

Sausalito To Consider New Subdivision Map

A tentative map for a 204-unit subdivision on 160 acres of Sausalito's Wolfback Ridge again will be considered by the city council at 8 p.m. today.

The council last month asked developers Edward R. Fitzsimmons and Frank Lynch to revise heir subdivision map, incorporating changes recommended by the council, the planning commission and the city's open space committee.

The groups have suggested the land could be developed as long as certain natural features —springs, knolls, ridge lines and trees — are preserved.

The council also will hold a public hearing on the city's action to force residents of two dilapidated barges on the Sausalito waterfront to vacate the structures. The city considers the quarters unsafe.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan was to have gone to court today to seek warrants for the arrest of anyone who has not yet moved from the barges. If the warrants are obtained, the city planned to arrest any remaining barge residents who had not left by this afternoon.

Deadline for vacating the structures was 8 a.m. Friday, but the city decided to give the residents a few more days to move and take no action against them until today.

Northeast-Delta Merger Finished

ATLANTA (UPI)—The merger of Northeast Airlines into Atlanta-based Delta Air Lines became official today even though court litigation has not been fully settled.

The Civil Aeronautics Board has approved the merger and the U.S. Court of Appeals, in a majority decision, declined to block the proposal as requested by Eastern Airlines and National Airlines.

However, the court has given parties in the case until Aug. 17 to file briefs.

Delta, the nation's fifth largest airline, has been one of the most successful, while Northeast, which is based in Boston, has been plagued by financial problems.

PRAYING FOR DELIVERANCE

These villagers carry religious images as they make their way through thigh-deep water in San Jose, Philippine Islands, in a religious procession praying for relief from the area's worst flood in memory. Rain should continue for two more days as the floods have spread over 300 miles of southern Luzon, including Manila. The unofficial death toll from drowning, landslides, diseases and snake attacks stood at 327. (UPI Telephoto)

'Hijack Family' In Algiers

ALGIERS (UPI)—Five hijackers who "believed that money destroys people" exchanged 87 passengers for a record $1 million ransom Monday then forced the crew of a Delta Air Lines jet to fly them and their children to Algeria today.

Airport security police surrounded the plane, which was Flight 841 with a total of 101 persons aboard when it was commandeered during a Detroit to Miami flight, as it rolled to a stop at Dar El Beida airport at 3:19 a.m. EDT.

Representatives from the Algerian Foreign Ministry, police and customs immediately went aboard. Foreign journalists were kept from approaching the plane.

Representatives of the Algiers office of the American Black Panther Party, including its chief, Peter O'Neill, and his recently deposed predecessor, Eldridge Cleaver, were among the crowd watching the arrival of the hijacked DC8.

Shortly after the arrival, Panther sources identified the hijackers as members of the BlackLiberation Army, military arm of the Panthers.

In Barcelona, Spain, the airport commander, Col. Ramon Escude, said the Algiers airport advised him the Delta airliner took off at 6:15 a.m. EDT for Barcelona where the aircraft will stop over for 24 hours to give the crew of seven a rest and to refuel before returning to the United States.

Edward Keller, economic officer for the U.S. diplomatic mission in Algiers, said he believed the Algerian government would return the $1 million. "It would be the logical step," he said. "After all, it is stolen money."

When a plane was last hijacked to Algeria, a favorite haven of American radicals, the Algerian government returned the $500,000 ransom to the United States but refused the U.S. request to extradite the hijackers.

Algerian officials indicated that they may refuse a request for asylum if one is made. Such a refusal would be a rarity.

One Algerian source hinted at a possible refusal when he said, "Algeria has given and will always give asylum to a refugee or a political opponent, but it is also evident that a gangster who demands money through threats does not belong to this category of men persecuted for political activities."

The DC8, four-engine jet was seized by the three men and two women—who had two children with them—as it approached Orlando, Fla.

When it landed at Miami International Airport, two FBI agents dressed only in swimming trunks at the hijackers' orders brought a small suitcase containing the ransom hurriedly gathered in $100 and $50 bills to the jet.

As the craft sat at the remote edge of a runway in the blazing Florida sun, one of the agents tied the suitcase to a rope dangling from the plane and the hijackers hoisted it aboard.

Only then did the hijackers let the passengers get off. They had brusquely rejected the FBI suggestion that they take half the money, release the passengers, then get the other half.

Soon afterward, with the hijackers, the children and the four-man, three-woman crew still on board, the four-engine jet took off for Boston.

There, while FBI agents and police sharpshooters kept their distance, a worker in swimming trunks pumped 13,800 gallons of fuel onto the plane for the 3,300-mile flight to Algeria. An hour later the plane took off for that North African nation where Cleaver and several other American radicals have been granted political asylum.

The FBI in Detroit identified the hijackers as: Melvin and Jean McNair, Larry Burgess, Joyce Tillerson and Harry Singleton. The McNairs' child and the Tillerson woman's daughter Kenya also were on the plane, the FBI said.

All of them had been living in a bare, one-story house on Detroit's East Side for about a year, neighbors said.

Jim Moss, who lived next door, said the black hijackers "were very strange people but very intelligent....They weren't prejudiced. They believed that money destroys people."

In the living room of the hijackers' communal home, posters adorned the walls, including one which said, "Fly Delta's big jet." A black mound of dirt symbolizing a grave was in the middle of the living room floor. On top of the dirt sat a small, white, rubber doll stabbed through the middle with a red-handled knife.

A headstone at one end of the mound bore a Bible open to chapter three of Isaiah—a chapter which speaks of destruction and corruption.

Moss, 20, said he and his brother Bob, 16, frequently visited the hijackers' home. "They got so they didn't believe in language," he said. They believed in astro projection. I mean they could communicate a thought to you and you would understand.

"They believed that white people believed in only two things —themselves and the dollar." The burial plot, he theorized, was "a symbol of the death of white society."

His mother, Mrs. Ethel Moss, said, "They didn't seem like the kind of people that would do something like that.. They were just upright people. They didn't look like revolutionaries or anything."

Harry Luke, a cab driver who took the male hijackers to Detroit Metropolitan Airport, said one of the men was dressed as a priest.

The ransom was the largest ever handed over in 18 ransom hijackings in the United States.

Welfare Recipients Placed By Program

BERKELEY (UPI) —A program for placing former welfare recipients in jobs is meeting success at the University of California at Berkeley.

Ramon Flores said 75 persons are currently being trained under a federally funded program and that the attrition rate is less than the national average.

He said a similar program in 1970 placed 240 former welfare recipients in special training classes for laboratory, technical, gardening, mechanical and custodial jobs.

Prison Uprising Ends Quickly

WINDSOR, Vt. (UPI)—Inmates of the Vermont State Prison overpowered two guards Monday and released 60 fellow prisoners from their cells. The situation was quickly brought under control after inmates presented a list of grievances.

The incident occurred as men were returning from an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting, but apparently had been brewing for some time.

The prisoners returned to their cells early Monday evening, after releasing the hostages unharmed.

A five-man committee representing the prisoners put before prison authorities a list of grievances, including guard treatment and visitation rights.

The state authorities agreed to review the complaints, and filed no charges.

Kissinger Continues Secret Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, met in Paris today to continue his secret peace negotiations with North Vietnamese delegates, the White House announced.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler issued a one-paragraph statement announcing the meeting but gave no additional details.

The White House statement said: "Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, assistant to the President for national security affairs, is meeting today in Paris with special adviser Le Duc Tho and Minister Xuan Thui of the North Vietnamese delegation to the peace talks.

"We expect Dr. Kissinger to return to Washington tonight."

It was Kissinger's 15th private session with Tho and the first since July 19. It was the second time the White House had announced a meeting while it was in progress. Other sessions were not disclosed until much later.

Kissinger was expected to report to Nixon after his return from Paris.

The regular sessions of the peace talks will continue as scheduled on Thursday. In those meetings, U. S. Ambassador William Porter is negotiating with Tho, Thui and officials of the Viet Cong.

Ziegler refused to answer any questions about the substance of the Kissinger talks, declining even to say when he left Washington for Paris. However, Kissinger conferrred with Nixon Monday morning before the President left the White House to attend the funeral of Sen.Allen Ellender in Louisiana.

At his news conference last week, the President said the chances of a negotiated end to the Vietnam fighting are better than they have ever been. He promised renewed efforts to settle the conflict beforethe November election.

A COASTING ROLLER

A steamroller lies in a drainage ditch south of the temporary bridge on the Bellam Boulevard extension in San Rafael after crashing through a chain link fence near a construction site there. Vandals pushed the vehicle into the ditch sometime Sunday, according to police reports. There was no estimate of damage to the massive roller or the fence. (Independent-Journal photo)

On-Ramp Meters Planned For Highway 101 In Marin

To dilute the river of commute traffic, the State Division of Highways intends to install a metering system of traffic lights on all Highway 101 on-ramps from the Greenbrae interchange south to the Golden Gate Bridge.

The system won't be set up for at least two years, said Susan Cowan, information officer for District IV of the State Division of Highways.

Traffic studies are now being made in Marin to determine the kind of installation necessary.

Known as "on-ramp metering," it will be a highly sophisticated version of devices that have been working for nearly a year on 101 in San Jose.

The highway spokesman said electronic sensors buried in the road bed will inform a central computer of traffic fluctuations and the computer will, in turn, operate the traffic lights installed on the on-ramps.

The lights delay vehicles entering the freeway until gaps in traffic can accommodate them. Although delays on the ramps may be for some minutes, highway engineers said, the travel time for the over-all traffic stream-freeway, ramps and city streets is actually reduced.

In practice, the metering will probably come into effect only during the heavy mornng commute hours, said Miss Cowan. Engineers have decided to install the system in Marin only on the southbound side, since the homecoming traffic problem is not one of getting on the freeway, but of getting off — "and traffic lights would be no solution there."

She said engineers predict it will take nine months to put in the metering system in Marin county, with minimal disruption to traffic.

The question of back-up traffic on feeder roads to the ramps may come up in Marin, she agreed.

"In terms of storage capacity on the ramps it is intended to widen ramps," she said. "But if lights were needed also on the feeder roads this would have to be worked out with local authorities.

"If the metering installation should change the traffic pattern on local raods, the division would pay for necessary changes."

Freeway traffic control systems are not new — a central surveillance system linked to a computer has been in operation in Southern California for some time — but ramp metering was tried for the first time in the Bay Area in Santa Clara county.

The San Jose ramp metering has been operating on a time-clock basis, but a computerized system will shortly be installed.

Engineers predict that the lessons learned from the San Jose experiment will enable them to put in a system for Marin with all the wrinkles ironed out.

Group Will Protest To Federal Officials

A group of Marin City residents — rebuffed last night in their attempt to be recognized as the official advisory committee to the Marin County Redevelopment agency — planned to take their case to the Department of Housing and Urban Development in San Francisco today. 29-member group, headed by LeeVella Bland, contends it is the legal project area committee to advise the agency in redevelopment matters. Members were chosen last week at a community meeting.

But the agency board, which two weeks ago approved the size and form of the advisory committee and decided which community organizations should have seats on the panel, does not recognize Miss Bland's committee.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the redevelopment agency, refused to turn over office space and funds reserved for the official comittee.

Shepherd reiterated that the agency is still willing to hold a community-wide election to choose the committee to insure that it is truly representative of the Marin City community. But Miss Bland contends her group is representative of Marin City residents and that no election is needed.

The 11-member advisory panel approved by the agency bard includes four members from the Marin City Council, three from Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association, one from the Ministers' Alliance and one from the community's commercial area.

Although the council representatives have not yet been chosen, the other organizations sent these delegates to last night's meeting: Juanita Cobb, Mack Page and Leonard Turner, homeowners; Arthur Miller and Ollie Griffin, services district; Rev. E. D. Perkins, ministers, and Daniel Hayden, commercial area.

Shepherd said todq he is convinced the agency has acted legally,in accordance with HUD regulations, in setting the makeup of the area committee.

Miss Bland said her group would go to HUD today to attempt to get HUD officials to force the agency to recognize it as the official project area committee.

Hub Area Is Plagued By Fire Problem

A firebug is loose in Sleepy Hollow, according to San Anselmo Fire Chief Francis A. Sousa.

He said that two fires which broke out in the unincorporated area yesterday were probably set by incendiarists.

Someone poured a can of gasoline down the driveway of Gerald L. Moran at 12:17 a.m. and ignited it, the chief said. That blaze was put out with little damage, he said.

But another fire, which was reported at 9:55 p.m., burned 10 acres of grass and brush at 375 Faun Drive.

"We've had eight or nine fires in that area in the past week," Sousa said. "I think its probably a juvenile gang up there igniting these fires."

Most of the fires have occurred in the grasslands behind Hidden Valley School and off of Faun Drive, he said.

He urged residents to record the license numbers of any cars in the vicinity and to alert the San Anselmo Fire Department or the Marin County Sheriff's Department.

Narrow Approval For Blinking-Signs Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill removing the prohibition against some types of blinking electronic signs alongside California freeways was narrowly approved Monday by the Senate.

The measure by Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, was returned to the Assembly for concurrence in amendments on a 22-12 vote, one more than it needed.

Under the bill, the blinking display would have to be located on the property of the business being advertised and at least 660 feet from the highway. Such signs commonly are used to display the time and the temperature.

Puccinelli Named To Water District Post

Hector P. Puccinelli, supt. of construction and maintenance and assistant chief engineer for the Marin Municipal Water District, has been appointed special assistant general manager for the district, according to Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger.

In the new post, Puccinelli will direct and coordinate operations of four district divisions created under an organizational realignment earlier this year. They are the construction and maintenance, land management. treatment and distribution and engineering divisions.

Seeger said the new job, which involves no change in salary, has been established on a temporary basis and will probably be terminated when Puccinelli retires in September of 1973. Puccinelli's main job will be to oversee the start of the new organizational alignment, Seeger said.

The 64-year-old Puccinelli joined the district as an assistant engineer in October of 1955. He was appointed superintendent of construction in 1964 and named to his current post in August of 1967.

He and his wife live at 47 Belmont Avenue in Fairfax. The couple has two grown children.

Policeman Injured In Patrol Car Accident

A 28-year-old Sausalito policeman suffered minor injuries yesterday when his patrol car slammed into a traffic signal pole on the way to an emergency call.

Officer Stephen Willis was eastbound on Johnson Street about 2:35 p.m., on the way to an injury accident at the north end of town, when the crash occurred. Officers said Willis's unit, with its red lights and siren going, swerved to avoid a car at Johnson and Bridgeway and struck the newly installed standard.

Willis was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut on the face and a sprained neck. The police car sustained heavy front end damage.

Police said the driver of the other car northbound on Bridgeway, had entered the intersection at the same time as Willis and was guilty of no violation. The auto was not stopped, according to officers.

Berry Goes To Court To Set Aside Recount

Marin City electrician Jesse E. Berry yesterday filed suit in Marin Superior Court to set aside a ballot recount in which he lost a seat earlier won on the Sausalito School board.

Through his attorney, Robert A. Thompson, Berry said county election officials who conducted the recount improperly disallowed ballots, causing Sausalito housewife Judith Silver to win the seat.

In the July 18 election Berry won with 698 votes to Mrs. Silver's 696. The recount, asked by Mrs. Silver, showed her winning by 691 to 684.

In his suit, which named Mrs. Silver and County Clerk George N. Gnoss as defendants, Berry claimed election officers failed to segregate the ballots declared invalid and "commingled" them with the rest so a judge cannot now examine them.

Berry seeks a court order declaring the recount illegal and invalid.

No date has been set for a hearing on the matter.

In the meantime, no one has been seated to fill the board vacancy.

Five North Bay TB Groups Join

Tuberculosis associations in the five northern Bay Area counties have consolidated to form orm the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of the Redwood Empire.

The local group is now known as the Marin Branch of the association, according to secretary Lilian Simpson, with the branch office remaining at 206 Bon Air Shopping Center, Greenbrae. The association headquarters is in Santa Rosa.

Local vice president is Elizabeth Manning Deedy, and Marin programs are run by a 14-member committee, reported Mrs. Simpson.

The consolidation, she explained, came in order to cut down on professional staff costs.

No Action On Growth Plan For Petaluma

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Petaluma's environmental design plan to limit growth was presented yesterday to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors for approval and was kicked to the county planning commission for a detailed study.

Mayor Helen Putnam said she had hoped the supervisors would at least endorse the general policy of growth control, but the entire plan was sent to planners without comment or directions from the board.

She and planning consultant Corwin Mocine explained the plan to limit growth to 500 living units per year and urged that the county cooperate by also restricting growth on the city's perimeter.

Mrs. Putnam said the supervisors agreed they have adequate controls over subdivisions in the county area, but said applications for lot splits which bring subdivision-type developments in small increments would still cause a problem.

Supervisor Philip L. Joerger of Petaluma said he had reservations about the plan and many unanswered questions, but did not say what they were.

Carnival In Novato To Be Fund-Raiser

A neighborhood carnival will be held Aug. 20 at 55 Gustafson Court in Novato in order to raise funds for research and patient programs of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

Louis Block, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Block of Novato, will serve as ringmaster.

The carnival will begin at 11 a.m. and will feature games, booths and a food sale.

Last year, young Block's carnival netted $120. It was among more than 28,000 such carnivals held across the country and raising more than $755,000.

Black Caucus Asks Syphilis Reparations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 13-member congressional black caucus believes reparations should be paid to the families and victims of a government experiment on syphilis.

The House group in a statement Monday urged that "everyone responsible for these hideous acts of crime be brought to justice."

The members of Congress referred to the disclosure last week that the U.S. Public Health Service began a syphilis study 40 years ago in which 400 black men afflicted with the disease were denied penicillin after the drug was developed.

"The overall effects of this immoral revelation extend far beyond the lifelong sufferings of myriad black families and their unborn offspring," the statement said. "It poignantly reflects the deflated value that white people have historically placed upon black lives."

Bill Would Raise Minimum Sentence

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill raising the minimum sentence for first degree murder from seven to 14 years was approved Monday on a 25-0 vote by the Senate.

The measure by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, was sent to the Assembly without debate.

Under current law, a person convicted of first degree murder is eligible for parole after seven years. The bill would raise the term to 14 years.

Cost-Cutting Suggestion

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly has voted final approval to a $32,440 award to Fred Clawson, a state employe who saved the California Water Project about $868,00 annually by suggesting technical improvements on the water system.

Reagan Signs Bill To Regulate Kelp Collecting

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill allowing the state Fish and Game Commission to regulate the collection of kelp by beachcombers and other private individuals was signed Monday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure was authored by Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray, R-Santa Barbara. Currently, the commission regulates the commercial harvesting of kelp.

Here's a really clean one-owner little Volkswagen squareback station wagon that we just took in trade on a new Buick Skylark.

Retired Marin couple originally took delivery in Europe and toured for over a year before returning home. Clean as a whistle inside and out. A real buy at this price. Kelley blue book shows this wagon should sell for over $1400 but we'll sell for only $895. ZIW 349.

LOVEY-DOVEY

It would seem that love comes out ahead here. The scene is University Park in downtown Indianapolis; the players are a statue and two pigeons. The statue offered a fine perch for the birds' courting and, following an exchange of friendly pecks, they flew off into the sunset.

Eagleton Episode Had Drama, Surprise Of Political Novel

By JOHN HALL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was a plot that political novelists Fletcher Knebel and Allen Drury might have rejected as too bizarre.

"The Eagleton Secret" had all the drama and surprise of the Washington political novel. The main characters were:

—George McGovern, a former college professor who organizes a grassroots movement that carries him to the Democratic presidential nomination, only to discover his running mate had been under a psychatrist's care six years earlier and had been hospitalized for electroshock treatment.

—Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, a bright and enthusiastic newcomer to national politics, who faced the most trying week of his life.

The drama began in a recreation hall at Custer State Park, S.D. It was a sunny morning, cool and dry in the mid-70's. Few of the 100-odd reporters seated in the rustic hall suspected what was to come as McGovern and Eagleton entered the room with their wives.

Eagleton didn't seem the least bit upset on the way in and he flashed his wide, boyish grin—the same grin the television cameras picked up a week and a half before at Miami Beach just after he learned he was McGovern's choice as his running mate.

McGovern began to speak. Mrs. McGovern moved over to the seat next to Mrs. Eagleton and silently squeezed her arm.

Within minutes, Eagleton was on his feet, his body trembling with the weight of what he was about to say, and announced in a voice that seemed to be mixed with sorrow and determination that between 1960 and 1966 he had been hospitalized three times for treatment of what he called a "nervous condition...fatigue and exhaustion."

"I still am an intense person," he said. "I still push pretty hard, but I pace myself a great deal better than I did in those earlier years and for the past six years, since 1966 to date, I've experienced good, solid sound health."

There was a stunned, confused silence among the reporters.

Eagleton had not told McGovern about the illness before accepting the vice presidential nomination; that he had been under a psychiatrist's care during his hospital visits; and on two of the visits, he had received electroshock treatment.

Exactly when George McGovern first became aware of Eagleton's past was not clear. McGovern says the chronology has dimmed in his mind.

During the heat of the convention, rumors circulated that Eagleton was a heavy drinker and that he had some kind of a nervous condition. These rumors reached the McGovern staff as they celebrated the victory the night of July 19, testing the fruits of a 16-month campaign.

Gordon Weil, McGovern's longtime and trusted personal aide in the Senate, was given the job of investigating the rumors. But schooled in the master-serf relationships that exists between senators and their employes, Weil could not go far. The McGovern staff was already being attacked as arrogant and ruthless for their campaign that seized the party's leadership away from office holders, union leaders and local bosses.

Weil gingerly made a few telephone calls to Senate staffers, Missouri newspapermen and some senators. He found no confirmation and reported the matter to McGovern.

Eagleton had been on nearly every list submitted to McGovern for vice presidential choices. Eagleton was Catholic; exuberant, outgoing, well-liked; in good with organized labor; an ex-Muskie man. He was a contrast to McGovern, the son of a Methodist preacher, introverted, despised by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

McGovern labored into the afternoon of July 20. Finally, the call went through. By then, the rumors had been all but forgotten and only one question was asked: "Tom, are there any skeletons in the closet that might hurt our chances." The answer was "no."

Eagleton said he cosidered his past medical history closed and, in no sense, a skeleton—something he was ashamed of. It had nothing to do with criminality or immorality—just a young, 30-year-old man who had worked too hard to get John F. Kennedy elected as president and himself elected as state attorney general in 1960, and wound up exhausted, depressed and in the hospital for a month—to be followed by two more episodes, a week in 1964 and three weeks in September, 1966.

Eagleton did not mention the experiences, although he said he had discussed them with his wife when he first heard he was under consideration. McGovern did not ask, although he had heard the rumors.

Two days ater the final gavel fell, Knight newspapers received a phone call from a "Mr. X" who said he had information about Eagleton. "Mr. X" said Eagleton was a former "manic depressive" who had been treated with electroshock therapy. Knight began checking and word reached Eagleton's office.

Frank Mankiewicz and Gary Hart, McGovern's two top advisers, were roused out of a Virgin Islands vacation with a phone call from Eagleton's administrative assistant: a story was about to blow that could cause trouble. At a breakfast with Eagleton the next morning, the whole story came out.

When it was that McGovern decided, in his own mind, that Eagleton's presence on the ticket could not be tolerated may never be known. On July 26, the day after the press conference, McGovern walked on his terrace, shielded by a large rock. Finally, he walked toward a reporter. "I will not be stampeded," he said in a tense interview on a dusty driveway.

Friday night, he talked to reporters at dinner. He spoke of this "terrible Eagleton thing," dropping the pretense that he considered the matter closed and making it clear that the unprecedented process of dumping the vice presidential nominee had begun.

He told newsmen in his plane Saturday he did not know if a nation riden by dissent and self-doubt could tolerate a candidate with a history such as Eagleton's.

Monday night, the process was completed, the last chapter of "The Eagleton Secret" was over. Eagleton stepped down.

McGovern kept his own counsel. On the dusty driveway in front of his cabin, asked what kind of emotions he felt, he said, "I don't want to go into that."

Then he retreated behind the rock.

Nixon Drive To Open Labor Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sources close to President Nixon say he will launch his campaign for re-election in California during Labor Day weekend.

California, Nixon's native state, will be a crucial battleground in the race between Nixon and Democrat George S. McGovern. It has 45 electoral votes, the most of any state.

The sources said Monday that Nixon would make about four campaign stops each weekend when his re-election drive moves into high gear near the end of September.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Senate Passes Bills To Stop I.Q. Tests

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Two rival bills to abolish California's controversial group IQ testing program, criticized by many educators as unfair to minorities, have cleared their last major legislative hurdle.

The Senate passed and sent both measures back to the Assembly Monday for concurrence in minor amendments. The bills then would go to Gov. Ronald Reagan who would have the final choice of which measure will become law.

The more hotly contested measure by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, would outlaw virtually all types of group intelligence tests.

It would permit only individually administered IQ tests given by trained specialists and experimental group IQ testing for research.

Sen. Clair W. Burgener, R-San Diego, who carried the bill on the floor, said the bill would "dispel the myth that an IQ is a rigid measurement that doesn't change."

Sen. Mervyn Dymally, D-Los Angeles, said the tests are "inaccurate and prove nothing." He said the statewide tests are designed primarily for children of middle-class upbringing who speak English.

He said minority students who do not understand English or do not have middle-American cultural backgrounds often do poorly on IQ tests and are wrongly viewed as mentally retarded by teachers and administrators.

The big problem, he said, was that IQ scores carry a certain mystique or stigma that lingers with the pupil through the rest of his life, as contrasted with achievement tests that only pinpoint how the student is performing in certain studies such as math and reading.

The other major bill by Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento, would abolish the statewide tests now given to pupils in the sixth and 12th grades the same as under the Brown bill.

POLLUTION

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has passed a bill aimed at tightening enforcement of air pollution control standards despite objections that the measure was a "harassment proposal."

The measure by Sen. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, would make it more difficult for industries to obtain variances to air pollution control regulations.

It was returned to the Assembly Monday on a 26-1 vote for concurrence in Senate amendments.

The measure increases from three to five membership on hearing boards appointed by county air pollution control boards to determine whether variances should be granted to certain industrial firms.

STATE HIGHWAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation banning construction of a 14-mile stretch of state highway into Mineral King was rejected by the Senate Monday after an opponent argued that it was "premature."

The measure by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, which barely cleared the Assembly in May, failed on a 18-18 vote, needing 21 votes to pass. But it was kept barely alive on a reconsideration motion.

The bill, supported by the Sierra Club and opposed by the Department of Public Works and the U.S. Forest Service, would guarantee that the state is not subsidizing a $40 million road for the benefit of Disney Corp., which has plans for a ski resort in the high Sierra Valley.

COST OF DYING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —With opponents calling the measure a "rip-off," the Assembly narrowly passed Monday a bill making it tough for some kinds of memorial societies to provide low-cost funerals.

The measure, sponsored by the funeral directors' lobby and authored by Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, was approved on a 41-25 vote, the minimum required. But Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, delayed its return to the Senate for concurrence in amendments by asking for reconsideration of the vote.

The proposal is specifically aimed at the Telophase Society of San Diego, which funeral directors charge with using warehouses and beer coolers to store dead bodies before they are cremated.

NO EXEMPTIONS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly has defeated a measure giving the legislature power to grant tax exemptions for pollution control equipment after one lawmaker said it would give businesses a "gigantic open door" for new tax loopholes.

The proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, was rejected Monday on a 36-23 vote, far short of the 54 needed.

However, Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, floor sponsor of the measure, kept the proposal alive by asking for reconsideration.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, who said the proposal would give businesses new tax loopholes, also contended it would cost the state millions of dollars in lost tax revenues.

NEW STANDARDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has passed a measure to set up safety standards for pesticides after rejecting a move by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, to give farm workers extra protection.

"This bill just slams the door in the face of workers who are being injured," Petris argued. "There is no legal remedy for farm workers, no enforcement provisions.

"It's just window dressing to impress people that finally they (the Agriculture Department) are doing something," he said. "It doesn't add a weapon to the arsenal we need to combat the problem."

Nevertheless, the measure by Assemblyman Bob Wood, R-Greenfield, was returned to the Assembly Monday on a 25-8 vote for concurrence in minor Senate amendments.

FRONTERA (UPI) — The gas chamber is gone but the women's death row will remain. Its only tenants: The Manson girls.

Patricia Krenwinkle, Susan Atkins and Leslie Van Houten will not be executed for the Sharon Tate murders, now that the death penalty has been abolished. But they will serve out their life sentences in the special security unit remodelled specifically for their arrival at the California Institute for Women, Superintendent Virginia Carlson said Monday.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Victims Of Schizophrenia Fill 25% Of World's Hospital Beds

Schizophrenia is one of the most common of all mental illnesses. Its victims fill at least 25 per cent of the world's hospital beds. The phenothiazine drugs are most effective, but with or without treatment, one-third recover; one-third become totally disabled; and another third are turned into the outside world, not sick enough to be institutionalized, yet not well enough to live healthy, happy lives. The suicide rate from this disease is especially high in men.

Schizophrenia comes in many degrees. In the simple form, the sufferer is seclusive, withdrawn, idle, and talks to or laughs at himself. In his fantasy world, he experiences changes in perception, mainly in seeing, hearing, tasting, and smelling (hallucinations). The catatonic schizoid is mute and motionless. He can be likened to an inanimate object with no contact with the world of reality. Hebephrenic schizoids are silly and childish and delight in playing pranks.

THOSE WITH paranoid tendencies have feelings of persecution or are suspicious or bitter. They can be dangerous, especially when every act or gesture by someone else is misinterpreted as a threat to life and limb. They tend to be hyperactive. Everything seen or heard has malignant significance. Even when listening to the radio, they are sure some foreign power is plotting against them.

Very little is known about the feelings of the person whose mind is disturbed. Apparently intense mental suffering occurs during a schizophrenic illness. There is no doubt that at the onset, many are extremely depressed or so confused that they do not know which way to turn. Ordinary daily problems completely throw them into a spin. There must be a terrific struggle to maintain some semblance of sanity. On reaching the breaking point, however the victim loses control and is swept into a world of hallucinations.

IT IS HERE that details are lacking. Many develop an amnesia during these episodes; others must be relieved that the "pressure" is off and they are safely ensconced in their other world. But for the majority, schizophrenia must be a living hell.

HER WINGS 'CLIPPED'

Miss G. writes: Is there any way a young woman could stretch her height 1½ inches so she can become a stewardess?

REPLY

That's a bit too much to expect from stretching. If the airlines will not make an exception, face facts and look elsewhere for a career.

LUNG DISEASE

A reader writes: I have been told that lung cancer is not contagious, but tuberculosis is. Since both diseases produce a bad cough, what is the difference?

REPLY

Symptoms in both diseases may be the same, but the lesions are different and so is the outlook. Tuberculosis is an infection that responds to drugs such as PAS, streptomycin, or isoniazid. Cancer is a tumor that obstructs the bronchi and spreads elsewhere. It must be eliminated or else.

HIATUS HERNIA AND GOLF

D.G. writes: Is it safe for a man with hernia of the diaphragm to play golf?

REPLY

Yes, provided the exertion or bending over to pick up the ball does not aggravate abdominal distress.

NOT AN ALLERGY

A. I. writes: Is psoriasis considered an allergic condition?

REPLY

No. Allergic skin diseases usually are manifested as eczema or hives.

CONTENTED AND FAT

E. M. writes: A 32-year-old man who has been married for three months has gained 20 pounds. A recent examination showed that he has low blood pressure. Could his added poundage be responsible?

REPLY

No — his wife's good cooking and disposition.

LEG ULCER AND BEER

C. R. writes: An ulcer on my leg won't heal. Will drinking beer hurt it?

REPLY

Not unless you bump it against the bar stool or injure the lesion by falling. I assume you eat properly and are otherwise healthy. Meanwhile, find the cause of the ulcer and get proper treatment, such as the application of a local antiseptic and pressure bandages. Hospitalization may be needed to cover the open ulcer with a skin graft. It now becomes evident that drinking beer is a small part of your problem.

PREMATURE'S WEIGHT

Mrs. F. writes: What is the most a premature baby can weigh?

REPLY

Five and one-half pounds at birth.

FORMS OF HEPATITIS

M. K. writes: Is there more than one kind of hepatitis?

REPLY

Yes, if you refer to the numerous causes for inflammation of the liver.

CRABBY DRINKER

A reader writes: Are eight quarts of beer and several shots of whisky a day harming a 76-year-old man? He has arthritis and is always crabby.

REPLY

I hesitate to change the habits of an elderly person, but this man is drinking too much. Arthritis and age, rather than liquor intake, might be responsible for his ill temper. On the other hand, if his is a long-standing habit and the man is otherwise healthy, we can't object. After all, at 76, he may know what is best for him and putting him "on the wagon" may make him more crabby.

Mill Valley Distributes Sewer Cost

The Mill Valley City Council last night tentatively approved a schedule which distributes the cost of the proposed $142,000 Camino Alto pump station and sewer line project among the five participating sanitary districts.

The council withheld final approval of the distribution scheme until it collects written agreements from the participating agencies.

The project consists of a pumping station and sewer lines which link Miller Avenue to Sycamore Avenue and Camino Alto to the city's sewage treatment plant.

According to a schedule prepared by City Engineer Stanley M. Bala, the participating sanitary districts will pay in proportion to the assessed valuation of land which receives a benefit from the project, rather than only that land which is specifically served by the new sewer lines.

Under that definition, Homestead Sanitary District would be obligated to pay about $20,000 despite the fact that the new sewer lines will not carry Homestead sewage. Councilman Robert E. Capron said, however, that the new lines will relieve Homestead's existing sewer lines from excess sewage.

Under Bala's schedule, the breakdown in costs would be: Mill Valley, $103,061; Almonte Sanitary District, $14,245; Key Park Sanitary District, $3,478; Homestead Sanitary District, $20,314 and Alto Sanitary District, $506.

After Bala returned from a meeting of the Homestead Sanitary District board, the city's Public Works Director, Ross J. Benson, suggested that a joint powers agreement be signed by all participating agencies. The council agreed that a formal written document would protect the city against future misinterpretations of the agreement.

After instructing City Mgr. William H. Cunningham to contact Homestead and Almonte districts to learn their positions on the funding plan, the council continued the matter until its meeting scheduled on Thursday.

Mill Valley Parking To Remain A Nickel

Just as time seemed to be running out on Mill Valley's nickel-an-hour parking meters, the Mill Valley City Council last night delayed a proposal to boost the city's parking meter rate to 10 cents per hour.

The suggestion to double the city's parking meter rate was opposed by several local merchants in the audience who claimed an increase in parking rates would drive away their customers.

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to the council, stated it was "unalterably opposed" to raising parking fees unless the city made a firm commitment to acquire new off-street parking.

Chamber president Samuel W. Schneider said, "The psychological effects of such an increase would be very bad." He predicted that shoppers would abandon Lytton Square for the Strawberry Shopping Center or other free parking shopping centers if Mill Valley meters cost a dime an hour.

Councilman Robert E. Burton disagreed with Schneider's guess. "If I wanted to shop in Mill Valley, I would never be deterred if I had to put a dime in the meter rather than a nickel," he said.

According to City Mgr. William H. Cunningham, the parking meters currently raise about $16,000 each year, which covers the costs of replacing and maintaining the meters and paying the city's lone meter maid.

Planning Commission Chairman Ivan S. Poutiatine said he favored the idea of eliminating paid parking meters, but nonetheless approved of meters to ration time among many shoppers.

The council agreed that any increase in the rate ought to be accompanied by a commitment to move ahead with the city's off-street plans.

After Councilman Robert E. Capron asked how much it would cost to convert the meters from nickel-an-hour to dime-an-hour machines and what rates other cities in Marin County were charging, a motion was unanimously passed to continue the matter until Aug. 22.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

FIRE STATION — Hired the San Francisco architectural firm of Robinson and Mills, to draw plans for the city's new fire station, subject to satisfactory negotiations over fees and services. Robinson and Mills, which was selected from among 38 firms, will receive approximately 9.5 per cent of the construction cost as its professional fee.

FIRE TRAILS — Approved an expenditure of $1,500 for 15 fire gates to be placed across fire trails on the Northridge as a deterrent to garbage and trash dumpers, unauthorized vehicles and vandals.

COMMUNITY GARDEN — Added $300 to the city's parks and recreation account for the proposed community garden behind the city's corporation yard. The money will be spent to install a waterpipe near the 70 by 70 foot garden.

VISITING STUDENTS — Welcomed two foreign students from Japan and Finland, who are visiting the United States as part of an exchange program sponsored by the Lions Club.

MIDNIGHT — Accepted a suggestion by Councilman Gerald J. Hood that all council meetings adjourn at midnight unless a majority of the council vote to continue.

RETIREMENT FUND — Authorized the city finance director to transfer the assets of the Mill Valley retirement fund to the public employees retirement system of the State of California.

BUDGET — Reviewed each source of revenue in the 1972-1973 budget with City Finance Director Carl O. Reynolds in an effort to understand how estimates of upcoming revenues were determined.

MEETING — Adjourned to a closed session at 5 p.m. tomorrow to confer with the city's representatives on contract negotiations.

BUDGET SESSION — Scheduled another budget session to review already scrutinized departmental accounts at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Petaluma Sets Up Controls

By BONNIE BARD

The Petaluma City Council last night agreed to set up a development control board to recommend what housing units should be built under the annual 500-unit limit.

The council agreed that after developers submit applications this month for the coming year, such a board should review each application and recommend which should be built.

Members of the board would serve for two or three months until their analysis is completed and would then disband. The council tentatively said the membership should include two city councilmen, two planning commissioners, six citizens-at-large, two representatives of business or professions and one representative from four school districts including Petaluma, Old Adobe, Cinnabar and St. Vincent's.

BOARD TO JUDGE

Assisted by city staff members, the board would judge each plan on its conformity to the general plan as well as availability of services such as sewer, water, fire protection and schools.

Planning Consultant Corwin Mocine recommended the board also rate proposed developments on quality of design, provisions for open space, contributions to greenbelts and bicycle paths and access to the Petaluma River and creeks.

The council said it would establish explicit criteria for judging so developers would not be placed at a disadvantage.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert warned that developers must be given an avenue of appeal in the event their plan is not accepted. He called the approach to growth control "very difficult and novel" and said the council was treading on thin ice.

The council agreed that if a developer is dissatisfied with the rating the board gives him, he could return to the board for a new hearing. If he is still not satisfied, the council would hear his appeal.

Mocine warned the council to state all criteria carefully and to set quotas for the type of housing desired such as single family, multiple, mobile homes, low and high density. He said the city of Lompoc, N.Y. had put a similar plan into effect in 1969 and that the New York State Supreme Court had recently upheld it.

LIKE CONTEST

The consultant said that many of the decisions will be based on personal judgment on what constitutes an attractive development. He advised that each board member rate the development individually and that votes be tallied as in a beauty contest to determine the order in which developers are to receive permits.

Allotments for building with the 500-unit limit would be made by the city council based on recommendations by the board.

The council said that if it can pass the resolution setting a residential control system and adopt the proposed housing element this month, the board could be in operation in October or November in time to process applications for the building season to begin next spring.

In other business at the special session, the council approved an agreement with the Old Adobe School District for joint use of La Tercera Park in order to qualify for a $20,000 federal grant to fully develop the park.

The council will meet in regular session next Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Pair Must Face Music Thursday

Two men liked the piano bar at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael so much they tried to take it home with them and must face the music Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

Frank Correia, 37, of Berkeley, and William N. Rhodes, 43, of 139 Dominican Drive in San Rafael, were arrested at about 2 a.m. Sunday after the inn's chef reported noticing them trying to load the unwieldly circular bar into their automobile.

The heavily paded bar is valued at $550, according to police.

Both men were released on $1,000 bail, after being booked on suspicion of conspiracy and grand theft.

Peking Brass Gather To Give Tribute To Army's Anniversary

HONG KONG (UPI)—The New China News Agency (NCNA) today broadcast a detailed list of Chinese leaders attending their biggest public gathering in a year but gave no indication any vacancy has been filled in the Communist party's depleted Politburo or the military high command.

NCNA said the event was a reception held in Peking Monday night to celebrate the 45th anniversary of the existence of theChinese army.

Yeh Chien-ying, ranking military member of the party's military commission, said at the reception the army had "shattered the criminal schemes of the traitors, enemy agents and careerists" who had tried to seize power.

Although the military command vacancies have not been filled, Yeh said: "Our army is now more united and powerful than ever before."

Yeh's "criminal schemes" remark was an apparent reference to a plot reportedly led by former Defense Minister Lin Piao that was foiled last September. Chinese officials have said Lin died as a result of his role in the plot. There has been no indication what happened to other high-level military men involved with him.

It was the disappearance of Lin and his co-plotters that depleted the Politburo and left the army high command with top posts unfilled.

There has been some speculation in reports from Peking that Yeh would replace Lin as defense minister. But NCNA identified him in the lineup only as a member of the Politburo and as a vice chairman of the military commission.

Party chairman Mao Tse-tung was not present at the gathering but most of the other top leaders, including his wife, Chiang Ching, were. So was Premier Chou En-lai.

Some analysts specializing in Chinese affairs believe the Chinese leadership may be preparing to hold a high-level conference of some kind to thrash out differences that still exist and try to fill some of the vacancies. Such a meeting apparently was held in late May and early June but with little success, according to Peking-based diplomats.

Tax Shift And School Bill Revived

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A compromise $1.2 billion tax shift and school finance plan sponsored by Gov. Ronald Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti bounced back from defeat today wearing new clothes.

The proposal, inserted into a rival Senate-passed bill by an Assembly committee, is expected to speed through the Assembly and be returned to the Senate as the legislature prepares to recess for three months on Friday.

But the legislation still appeared to face an uphill struggle in the Senate where some Democrats have treated it with outright hostility.

The Moretti-Reagan proposal, which Moretti said would provide the average California homeowner with a $200 a year tax reduction, was voted a new lease on life by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

The committee, with only two dissents, amended the provisions of the Moretti-Reagan bill into a $950 million school finance plan by Sen. Ralph Dills, D-Gardena, and then forwarded the completely rewritten proposal to the Ways and Means Committee on a 11-3 vote.

The original Moretti-Reagan bill was defeated last week by the Senate Finance Committee in favor of the Dills plan, which had called for a $600 million sales tax increase and $350 million in surplus budget funds to be spent for additional aid to local schools.

Pressed as a legislative alternative to the so-called Watson property tax limitation initiative on the November ballot, the compromise would provide an estimated $575 million in homeowner, renter and business inventory tax relief during the year starting next July.

To finance it, the statewide sales tax would be increased from a nickel to six cents on the dollar, bank and corporation taxes hiked, motor vehicle fees boosted and personal income taxes raised if federal revenue sharing did not occur.

Representatives of the Reagan administration, Moretti, Dills and the California Teachers Association negotiated privately in advance of the Revenue and Taxation hering to reach a compromise.

Dills, carrying his bill for the teachers association, did not protest the committee's "hijacking" of his legislation and said he will work "vigorously" to have the bill voted final approval by the Senate.

After Assembly approval, the Dills measure would have to return to the Senate for concurrence in amendments—in this case an entirely new bill. The Senate often sends drastically amended bills back to committee for hearing in such cases.

"I'm prepared to ask for their concurrence in Assembly amendments," Dills told reporters.

Dills asked the committee to approve an amendment increasing between $40 million and $50 million extra state aid for school programs at the expense of money previously earmarked for property tax relief. The committee complied.

Moretti told the committee the compromise represented an opportunity for the legislature to make good on long-promised property tax relief and at the same time provide more money for schools. It would provide $404 million in property tax relief to homeowners this year.

"The fact is you have the choice of something or nothing," he said, "and I want this bill very much."

Moretti, a potential candidate for governor, added, "I honestly believe that the legislative process is on trial here. Everybody in the state is waiting to see whether we are going to respond to the two critical issues of property tax relief and school finance."

But Assemblyman Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, voiced concern that provisions freezing local property tax rates at the current level and requiring a vote of the electorate to raise them, would deny cities and counties funds needed for such things as fighting crime."

Jack Merelman of the County Supervisors Association agreed, adding, "These limitations would set county government back 100 years."

Supporters of the measure included the League of California Cities, Los Angeles city schools and the state school administrators and school boards associations.

Man Stays Home To Catch Thief

A San Anselmo man, missing coins from a coin collection over the past three weeks, has caught an 11-year-old boy redhanded, police reported yesterday.

According to police, Eugene Orloff of 112 Madrone Avenue said he stayed home from work Friday to catch the thief that has looted his collection on several occasions in recent weeks.

He caught the boy trying to enter his home, according to police.

The 11-year-old youth and another 11-year-old boy were cited to juvenile authorities, police said.

Former Marin Resident Nabbed

A 19-year-old San Franciscan has been arrested on suspicion of stealing about $680 worth of clothes and jewelry from a Sausalito house in which he used to live with three roommates.

When police arrested him at his former address, 319 Fourth Street, he was reportedly wearing boots, a ring, a shirt, and a belt — all said to have been stolen from his old roommates on July 2 or July 19.

Pollock was booked into Marin County Jail with bail set at $1,500.

Charged with grand theft and possession of stolen property, he was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to enter a plea today.

Collett Unhappy With Easy Life

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Who says professional football training camp life is rough? For Elmer Collett of Mill Valley it has meant a lot of time in bed, some swimming, dinner and then more rest.

But don't be misled. He would much rather put his time on the practice field bumping heads with his teammates getting ready for the start of the 1972 National Football League season. He suited up and worked out yesterday for the first time in a week after being out of action with a back injury. Being in bed was not his idea; it was on orders from team doctor Lloyd Milburn.

I-J photog Alfred Arn and I looked in on Collett last weekend during a vist to the 49er camp.

"I feel just like I'm in a hospital," the former Tamalpais High School star said while resting in his room at Goleta's Fontainebleu Hotel where the 49ers are quartered during their training camp days at University of California, Santa Barbara. "All day I'm lying here in traction, then I swim for about 15 or 20 minutes, change my clothes just before dinner, then eat. I'm really getting fed up with this routine."

COLLETT, A YOUNG man of 27 who played at College of Marin before transferring to San Francisco State, said he hurt his back the first day of practice, and really aggravated the injury at the team's first scrimmage, July 22. He hopes to be able to make the bell when the 49ers open their exhibition season Saturday night in Jacksonville, Fla., against the New York Jets.

Elmer agreed that if he were a rookie, missing this much practice would be costly to his chances of making the team. But since he's a five-year veteran, the layoff shouldn't affect his chance of being one of the 40 players left when the original 66-man roster is eventually whittled down.

"They know what I can do," he declared. "I would like to be a starter. I think I'm just as good," he said in reference to starting guards Woody Peoples and Randy Beisler. Elmer, you must remember, was a starting guard his rookie season and was picked for the Pro Bowl in his third year. He lost his job as a starter in 1970 to Beisler, who the 49ers obtained from the Philadelphia Eagles in trade for George Mira. Collett now is a member of the special teams for kickoffs, punts, etc.

ANOTHER WOUNDED warrior who is quickly getting himself ready for action is Cedrick Hardman, defensive end who is recovering from off-season knee surgery.

"It's on a day-to-day basis," Hardman said in that slow, deliberate way of his during picture day last Saturday on the practice field at UC Santa Barbara. "I'm doing a lot of running, some isometrics. . .I'll be ready by the first league game."

Looking up, the man who makes things rough on quarterbacks said, "This is the first time I've put on football shoes since the Pro Bowl game. But I'll be ready." I knew he meant it.

STILL ONE MORE injured player limping on the sidelines was wide receiver Terry Beasley, the 49ers' No. 1 draft pick out of Auburn University. He has a broken big toe on his right foot.

Beasley is listed as 5-foot-11 but I think that is stretching a point. In addition to his lack of size, the red-headed Beasley has a boyish face that would make him a sure winner on "What's My Line?" (Pro football? Never.)

Terry said he doesn't think hs lack of height is any hindrance and denies the days of the little receiver (ala Tommy McDonald of Philadelphia) are over. "It's not size," he said. "The important thing is to be able to run and to catch the ball."

And he sure can do that when he's healthy.

All Eyes On Thomas In San Diego Camp

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

How long is Duane Thomas destined to stay in San Diego?

That's the question many pro football observers were asking Monday after the San Diego Chargers gambled by obtaining the controversial halfback from the Dallas Cowboys for Mike Montgomery and Billy Parks less than an hour before the deadline for inter-conference trades at midnight.

Never has one player said so little and been the subject of so much speculation as Thomas was last year.

He was traded to the New England Patriots after he got into a contract dispute with the Cowboys. But he quickly was sent out of the Patriot camp after a disagreement with coach John Mazur over what kind of playing stance he should use and also refused to complete the physical exam.

He returned to the Cowboys and hardly said a word to his teammates or to the press for the rest of the season. But no one has ever doubted his abilities on the football field and he led the Cowboys to their first Super Bowl crown with his superb running.

After the season, he was arrested in Greenville, Tex. for the possession of marijuana and was given a suspended sentence. He then walked out of the Dallas training camp this year before returning to play in the Cowboys' victory over the College All-Stars. But Thomas was fined when he missed the Monday practice and meetings.

If Thomas and the Chargers can stay on good terms, there is no doubt the Chargers have picked up one of pro football's best running backs. The Cowboys obviously had come to the point where they felt a change of scenery for Thomas would be good for both the Cowboys and Thomas.

The Cowboys figure they're good enough to win without Thomas but it's an interesting point that they've never made the Super Bowl without him.

A puzzling aspect of the deal was the acquisition of Parks by the Cowboys. He is one of the bright, young receivers in pro ball and was leading the NFL with 41 catches before he suffered a broken arm last year. But since the Cowboys already have Bob Hayes, Lance Alworth and Ron Sellers, they seem to be loaded with wide receivers.

Montgomery is a second year back from Kansas State, who ran for 228 yards, caught 28 passes and completed three more for the Chargers.

While the Cowboys were un-

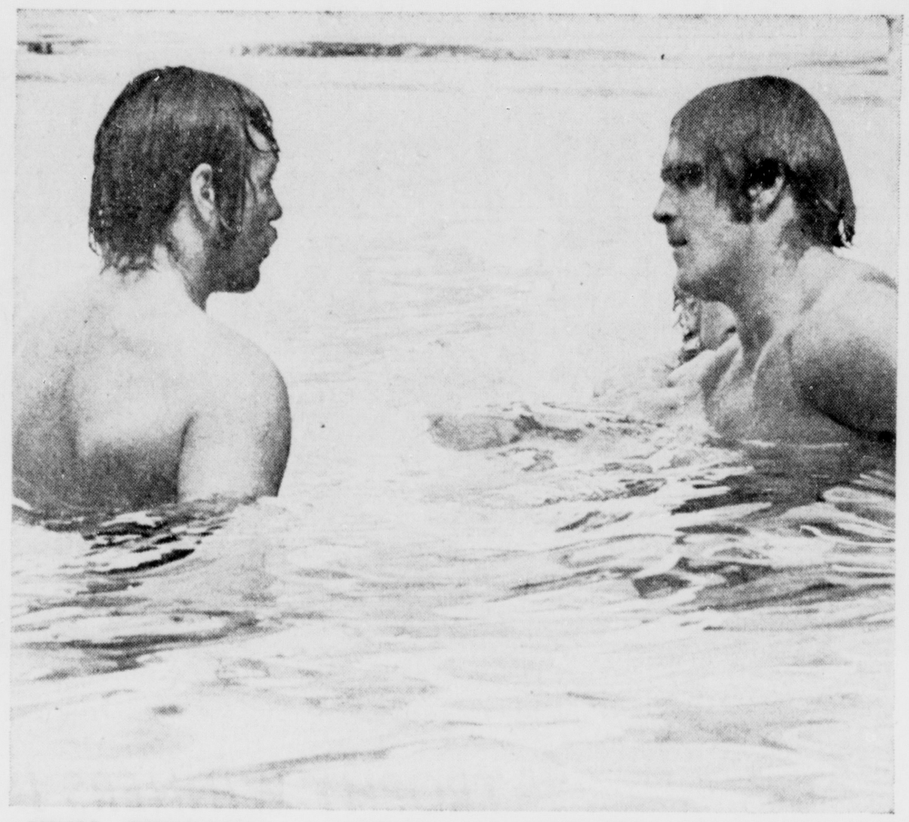
AILING BACK — San Francisco 49er guard Elmer Collett of Mill Valley was out of practice for more than a week with a back injury and spent much of the time in this hospital bed in his room at the University of California, Santa Barbara, training camp.



SWIM THERAPY — Collett (right) got in some swimming as part of his therapy for a back injury that kept him off the practice field. With Collett in the pool was center Forrest Blue. Collett joined his teammates on the practice field yesterday.

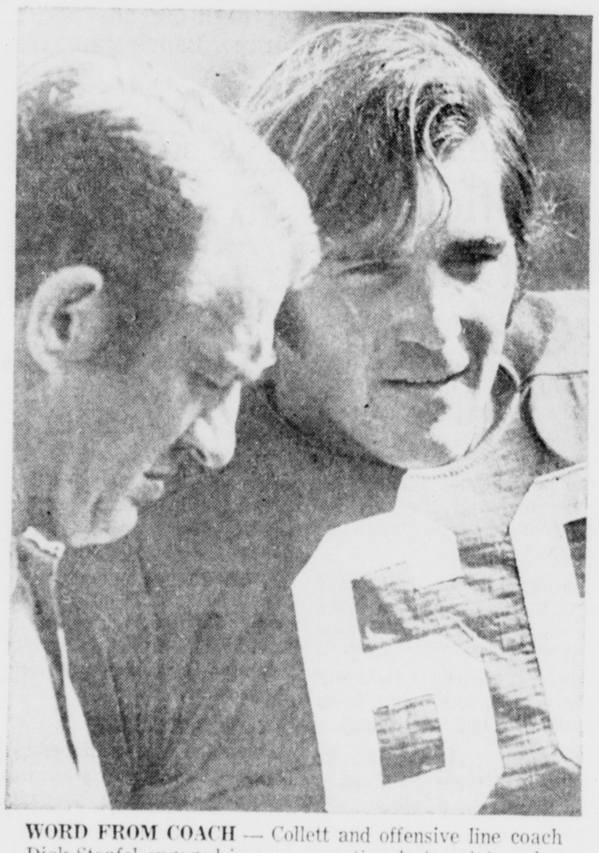
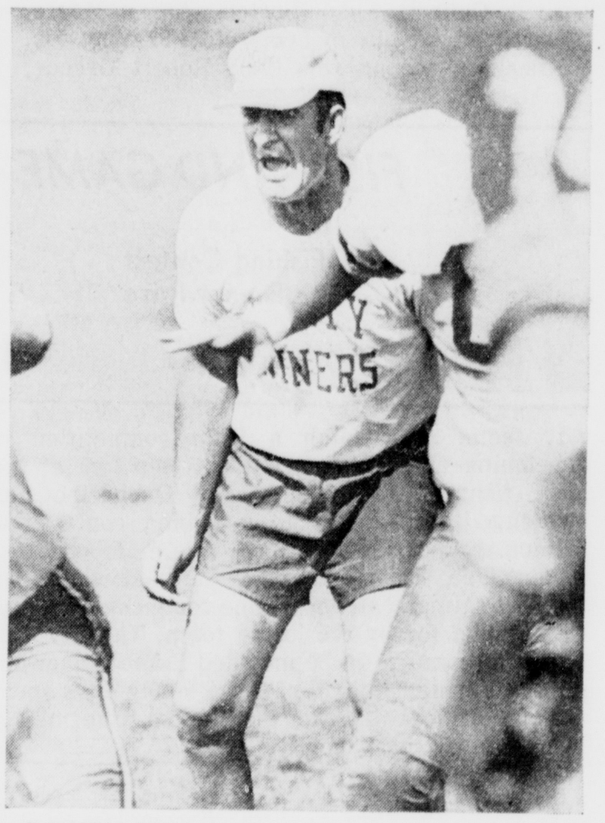
MEAL TIME — Collett and other members of the 49ers are shown during an evening meal at the Fontainbleu Hotel in Goleta where the team is headquartered.



WORD FROM COACH — Collett and offensive line coach Dick Stanfel engaged in a conversation during picture day last Saturday on the Niners practice field.



BOOMING VOICE — Whit Collett missed on the practice field was the low, booming voice of Stanfel, shown putting the offensive linemen through their paces.

Giants In L.A. For 3 Games

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The San Francisco Giants, whose avowed aim is to overhaul Los Angeles, play the Dodgers in the first game of a three-game set tonight. The game will be televised on KTVU, Channel 2, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The Giants go into the series 6 1-2 games behind the Dodgers and in need of a sweep to get closer to their goal. Ron Bryant, a pitcher on the way up, goes for San Francisco tonight while Al Downing, a pitcher seemingly on the way down, pitches for the Dodgers.

The Giants concluded their season's work in Riverfront Stadium Monday night with a convincing 7-2 victory over the National League West frontrunning Cincinnati Reds while the Dodgers were bowing to Atlanta, 4-3.

Don Carrithers, a winner only twice in eight previous starts this year, went all the way against the Reds on a seven-hitter to post his third victory. He came out of a 28-day exile in the bullpen to do the job and may have won himself a spot in the rotation.

Bobby Bonds got three of San Francisco's 12 hits, including his 17th homer, while Chris Speier went 3-for-3 and collected two RBI. Carrithers helped himself with a two-run double.

The victory left the Giants at 44-54 but a long 15 games behind the Reds. The Dodgers are 8 1-2 games back in third place while San Francisco is in fifth place.

Richardson, Vella Are New Raiders

SANTA ROSA, (UPI) — John Vella finally is a member of the Oakland Raiders.

The rookie tackle from Southern California signed his contract with the Raiders Monday, and if he has any regrets it's that he didn't play in the College All-Star game last week.

The Raiders also acquired wide receiver Gloster Richardson from the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice. The 6-foot-2, 200-pound veteran from Jackson (Miss.) State, beginning his sixth year as a pro, was an arch-enemy of the Raiders for four years as a member of the Kansas City Chiefs.

"As a kid I always dreamed of playing in the All-Star game," Vella said after agreeing to terms with Oakland, "but my agent advised me against playing as long as I wasn't signed because if I got hurt it would have left me in a poor bargaining position."

He was rated as a first round pick by the Oakland front office and the Raiders admit they were surprised when he was still around for the second round.

Neither side revealed terms of Vella's contract but the rookie said he was more than pleased.

KTIM-AM radio (1510) will broadcast the Little League Sectional tournament game involving Marinwood from Sacramento tomorrow at 5:55 p.m., and will air each subsequent game Marinwood plays, station manager Bob Dinsmore has announced.

Chargers Obtain Tim Rossovich

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) —The San Diego Chargers completed their second major trade before the National Football League deadline today when they acquired recalcitrant linebacker Tim Rossovich from the Philadelphia Eagles in exchange for next season's No. 1 draft choice.

Less than 24 hours earlier, the Chargers revamped their offensive attack by trading for another maverick, Duane Thomas, the Dallas Cowboys' top rusher last season.

Rossovich, who stands 6-4 and weighs 240, had not reached contract agreement with the Eagles at the time of the trade, which was announced shortly before the NFL trading deadline.

Windsor Is Traded For Future Pick

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—Ted Kwalick, not that he needs to, can stop worrying about footsteps.

Bob Windsor, who lost his job at tight end to Kwalick last year and was fighting in training camp this summer to win it back, no longer is a member of the 49ers.

The club Monday night traded him to the Boston Patriots for the Pats' No. 1 draft choice in 1974, leaving Kwalick as the only tight end in camp with any experience.

Monday was a day of roster juggling as the club cut seven players to get down to a total camp complement of 58. Released were defensive back Jerry Brown, a ninth round pick from Northwestern; defensive lineman Leon Pettigrew, a 13th round pick from San Fernando Valley State; offensive lineman Ron Davis, a 16th round pick from Virginia State, and free agents Larry Brown (placekicker) from San Jose State, defensive back Grady Hurst of Arizona State, defensive back Jimmy Brooks of Eastern Kentucky and quarterback Charles Richards of Richmond.

TWO-HITTER

Vida Blue Back To Old Ways

OAKLAND (UPI) —Vida Blue is back pitching the way he did a year ago, and that has to be both good and bad news to the rest of the American League.

All Blue did in 1971 was carry the Oakland A's to the A.L. West title and win both the Most Valuable Player and Cy Young Awards.

This year, the sturdy lefthander ran into contract problems with A's owner Charlie Finley, and by the time their differences were resolved the season was well underway.

NO WALKS

Monday night, with a fine turnout of 19,423 looking on, Blue pitched a two-hitter as the A's beat the Texas Rangers, 2-0. Vida struck out only five batters but he didn't walk a man, and when he pitches that way he has to be a winner. .

"I've got control of my curveball now," Blue said after beating the Rangers for his fourth victory in nine decisions. "I've had a good fastball right along but it's taken me some time to get the curveball down. Now, I feel I can win a few."

Blue retired the first 17 Rangers in order before rival pitcher Rich Hand, figuring he had nothing to lose, bunted safely for the first Texas hit. Hand, who gave up only two hits while striking out eight in 7 1-3 innings, caght A's third baseman Sal Bando backing up and he beat out his tap easily.

BACKED UP

Bando was playing in on Hand on the first pitch, which the Texas pitcher swung at and missed.

"I saw him backing up after I missed the pitch," said Hand, "so I decided to give it (bunt) a whirl. In my mind it was as clean a hit as it could be."

Bando came charging in for the ball but he couldn't get it out of his glove and when he finally did, it was too late, although Sal threw anyway. The throw was wide of first baseman Don Mincher but Hand was across before the ball got to Mincher.

While Hand's Texas teammates and manager Ted Williams agreed it was a clean hit, A's skipper Dick Williams and Bando disagreed. Blue seemed undisturbed and said he thought it was a hit.

'CLEAN HIT'

"Of course I hated to lose the no-hitter," said Vida, "but it looked like a clean hit to me. The big thing is we won the game."

Toby Harrah got Texas' other hit —a clean single to left leading off the ninth—as a pinch-hitter for Jim Mason. Blue then retired the next three men and called it a night.

"When Blue can get the job done in 109 pitches," said Dick Williams, "he's pitching the way he should. He got his breaking ball over when he wanted to and that was the difference. Actually, this is his third straight good performance."

Joe Rudi drove in both Oakland runs Monday night on sacrifice flies.

The A's open a two-game series with the Kansas City Royals tonight with Ken Holtzman pitching against Paul Splittorff.

FISH AND GAME

A Fishing Contest With Dinner Prize

By AL GIDDINGS

It seems as though a little competition is developing at Loch Lomond between two of the local fishing boats there. Joe Garbarino has challenged Bob Locke to a fishing contest for salmon. Each boat is to have five members as a fishing unit. The members of the boat which has the best salmon catches will be recipients of a fine dinner paid for by the losing team. The wives of the fishermen are to be included in the dinner-out part in payment for all of those lonely days spent at home while waiting for the big-fish fishermen to bring home "the bacon."

LAST SATURDAY, they had a trial run, fishing out off the Slide Ranch and out at the Middle Grounds. The day ended up with Garbarino's boat bringing back 12 salmon, which topped Locke's boat, which had eight. All of the fish measured between 20 and 23 inches, just within the legal size limits.

Of course, Garbarino was elated and now figures he has the bet in the bag. I warned him that I think that Locke is playing with him like a cat with a mouse! I've been invited to join Garbarino's team, but I don't know.

LOCKE'S TEAM used bait whereas the other team used the new rubber-like squid lures. With so many shakers, naturally the squid lures, pink or green, fished better and more efficiently. If a strike was missed, unlike the real bait lures, no replacements had to be made. The bait fishermen had to keep continually busy checking for damaged herring or anchovies. But the squid lures haven't been proven on large fish, and that could make a difference too. More on this as the contest develops.

Jerry Kraus, one of the anglers on Joe's boat, had a sad day. He couldn't buy a strike on his rod, so the rest of the anglers came up with the nice gesture that Jerry was to take any of the rods (if he got there first) that was having a strike. He finally made it to an active rod and was happily playing a fish - which eventually turned out to be undersized, so a throwback! In the meantime, his rod took off, and another character aboard naturally grabbed it. This fish turned out to be the biggest of the day!

YOUNG TOM WETMORE and his dad of Mill Valley came in with two nice limits, and Mickey Locke and his wife had a 23 pounder to show off.

I checked the realtor, Bill Timmer of San Rafael, who put in a few hours trolling a pet spoon around the Marin Islands. He had two stripers, one of which was tagged.

Out at Tomales, approximately 60 boats fished the bar area and the salmon grounds. Enos Foster, who was there, said he saw very few flounders, one halibut and one salmon landed. That run of big salmon is way overdue as is the one off Duxberry and Muir Beach. I talked to Joe Mello, who has gone commercial, and in eight trips out of Tomales, his take is one 23-pound halibut and one 27-inch salmon from the bar area. Right now, things seem to be tough all over!

ON SUNDAY, I was out by the Point Reyes cliffs, and looking down it was interesting to see the Blue Horizon with its Sunday crowd aboard having a good go at the rockfish. The ocean was flat calm, so I'm sure he and his fishermen were having a ball.

Hunters preparing for the opening of the early deer season on Aug. 5 today were given a mixed forecast from the Department of Fish and Game.

REPORTS BASED on field observations of Department game managers indicate the buck take will be up in the counties of San Luis Obispo, Monterey, San Benito, Marin, Sonoma, Lake and Napa. In Mendocino County, one of the top deer producers in the state, the total is expected to be about the same as last year. In the San Francisco Bay region counties of Contra Costa, Alameda, Santa Clara, San Mateo and Santa Cruz the number of deer taken by hunters probably will be below last year's figure.

One factor expected to bring about increased hunting activity in the early season area is a change in the tag regulations which will permit hunters to take deer in both early and late season areas.

Williams' Bat Paces Cubs' Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Billy Williams' ascendency to the National league batting lead was done in much the same manner that has typified his entire major league career—with consistent hitting and without great fanfare.

Williams cracked out four straight hits Monday to back the six-hit pitching of Ferguson Jenkins as the Chicago Cubs completed a sweep of their four -game series with the St. Louis Cardinals with a 4-0 triumph.

In other National League games, Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 2-0, New York topped Montreal 4-2, Atlanta edged Los Angeles 4-3, Houston nipped San Diego 3-2, and San Francisco ripped Cincinnati 7-2.

Williams raised his average to .346 with his four safeties to bypass Houston's Cesar Cedeno in the NL batting race.

Williams has never won a batting championship, home run or RBI title during his career. And at age 34, Williams wouldn't have any objections to adding one of those titles to his many accomplishments before his playing days are over.

The Chicago outfielder, a veteran of 13 seasons, credits much of his success at the plate to the Cubs' cozy ballpark, Wrigley Field.

"I believe that Wrigley Field makes a better hitter out of me," Williams said. "In the big park, you take that all-out swing and, as a result, you take your eye off the ball. In Wrigley Field, I know I don't have to pump to hit the ball out, so I keep my eye on the pitch better. And I also take a shorter swing," he added.

Williams' consistency is marked in the field as well as at the plate. He set the National League record for most consecutive games played (1,117) before sitting a game out back in September, 1970.

Jenkins, posting his 14th win against nine losses, hurled his 19th complete game of the season in beating the Cardinals for the first time in three games this year.

Bobby Soxers Lose; Play Again Tonight

Mid-Peninsula pounded out 15 hits yesterday evening to defeat the San Rafel Bobby Sox all-stars girls softball team, 15-3, in the Area Tournament in San Mateo.

San Rafael is still alive in the double-elimination tournament, and will face North Palo Alto tonight at 7:30.

A. L. ROUNDUP

Allen's 2 Homers Power White Sox

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Dick Allen is the kind of guy who makes superlatives seem almost ordinary.

So, on a day when Mickey Lolich won his 18th game, Vida Blue pitched a two-hitter and Sparky Lyle saved both games of a Yankee doubleheader sweep over Baltimore to impress Earl Weaver with the importance of relief pitchers, it was still Dick Allen who stole the show.

Naturally.

Allen, the much-maligned and traveled standout who has found a home in Chicago, smashed two inside the park homers—how's that for hustling — to lead the White Sox to an 8-1 rout over the Minnesota Twins Monday.

The performance had manager Chuck Tanner singing the praises of the player who has been traded three times in three years.

"I believe Dick Allen is the best player in the major leagues. He not only hits for power but also for average. He knocks in runs for us about 80 per cent of the time when he comes up with men on base. He's my Swiss watch," Tanner said.

Allen's first inside the park homer scored Pat Kelly and Luis Alvarado for a 3-0 first inning lead. Allen circled the bases after his line drive bounced away from centerfielder Bobby Darwin, who slipped trying to field the ball. Allen's second blast also bounced away from Darwin, who tried to make a shoestring catch in the fifth inning.

Allen's hits were his 12th and 13th homers in July and boosted his major league-leading total to 27. They enabled Stan Bahnsen to coast to his 13th win on a six-hitter.

Tanner said, "I sympathize with Darwin. Allen hits the ball so hard it often acts like a knuckle ball. Both balls broke sharply away from Darwin and earlier this year he hit a drive at Mickey Stanley that broke about 10 feet."

Allen, naturally, took it all in stride.

In the other American League games, New York swept a doubleheader from Baltimore 5-2 and 2-1, Detroit downed Boston 5-2, Oakland blanked Texas 2-0, Kansas City shut out California 1-0, and Cleveland won two from Milwaukee 3-2 and 1-0.

2 Marinites Grab Titles In Ski Meet

Mike Suyderhoud of Petaluma and Mike McGinley of San Rafael grabbed over-all honors in the men's and boy's classes, respectively, in the California state water skiing championships over the weekend in Berkeley.

Suyderhoud, competing despite an injured knee, finished second in slalom, tricks and jumping but racked up enough points to win the over-all title. McGinley was first in tricks, second in jumping and third in slalom.

Bob La Point of Novato won boys slalom and jump, giving Marin County a sweep in boys events. His brother Kris, of Castro Valley, won the men's slalom.

Fourteen-year-old Larry Boive of Bel Marin Keys was second in boys tricks and third in boys jumping.

Kilcoyne's Batting Leads Softball Win

Bill Kilcoyne hitting for the cycle last night because he couldn't come up with a mere single, but his double, triple and home run led MacArthur's to a 10-6 victory over Ad Lite in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league play at Albert Park.

In other action, Sons of Sicily powdered Perry's Delicatessen, 13-4; Mary Brookes defeated the Ballbusters, 8-6; Joe America topped Jolly Rogers, 11-7; and Hub City whipped Timmer, 9-2.

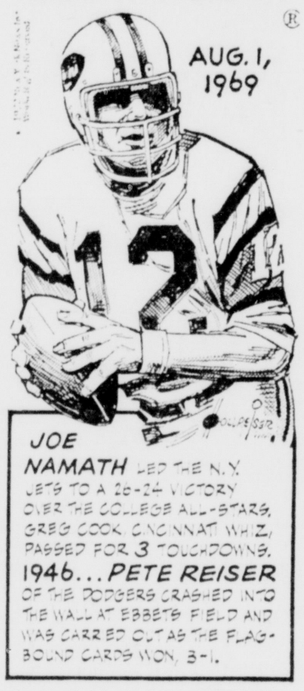
THIS DAY IN SPORTS



Nicklaus Prepares For PGA

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UPI) —It's the questions about it that pain Jack Nicklaus, not his right index finger.

Nicklaus arrived at Oakland Hills Country Club for a Monday practice round wearing just two thin drug store bandages over the finger, which recently had the back portion of the nail surgically removed to cure an infection.

He promptly made himself at least a co-favorite again with Lee Trevino for the 54th annual Professional Golfers' Association championship by eagling the 521-yard, par five second hole.

Which probably means that with no finger problem and the week layoff it forced, smiling Jack would have got a double eagle on the first of the only two par fives on the 7,054-yard course.

"It feels fine. It feels fine," Nicklaus said with just a minor touch of irritation in his voice at yet another question on the status of his celebrated digit. "It's the questions about it all the time that I don't like.

"There hasn't been any pain in it since an hour after the operation," he said. "It's not unusual for me to lay off a week before a tournament.

"The biggest thing about it was sitting around," Nicklaus said, while looking over a little mail in front of his clubhouse locker. "You don't get in shape that way."

If the $200,000 tournament started today, "I wouldn't be as sharp as I'd like to be," he said.

"I probably don't believe any of the top four or five will win it," Bob Goalby said. "You can eliminate Jack because of the finger."

loading Thomas, their No. 1 challenger in the NFC—the Minnesota Vikings—was having problems of its own. Defensive back Charlie West walked out of camp because of a dispute over the "interpretation" of his contract.

West, Clinton Jones and Gene Washington have been involved in a dispute over contract terms. They first said they wanted to negotiate together. Then they agreed to terms individually but Jones and Washington haven't reported yet and West walked out after reporting.

Another free agent, John Henderson, also hasn't come to terms but a Vikings' spokesman said he's "likely" to sign a contract "soon."

The Washington Redskins acquired offensive tackle Mitch Johnson, who had retired as a player for the Cleveland Browns, for a future draft choice. He is expected to fill the hole left vacant when Jim Snowden was injured in training camp.

The St. Louis Cardinals picked up reserve lineman Mike Siwek from the Washington Redskins on waivers. The Cards had released him last year but decided to take a second chance on him.

Don Parish, the veteran linebacker acquired from St. Louis last year, was suspended Monday by Los Angeles coach Tommy Prothro. He got in an altercation with an unidentified assistant coach. Prothro said it was the first player he has ever suspended in his career and said he will try to trade Parish.

Lee White, who said he was retiring five days ago when he left the San Diego camp, returned Monday and said he was attending to personal matters during his absence.

Bright Look For Houses Of Fabrics

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I own 100 shares of House of Fabrics (ASE) bought at 25⅝. I am wondering if I should sell with the competition in this line. — M. C.

A. House of Fabrics is the leading domestic specialty fabric chain with 298 retail outlets nationwide. It is highly probable that shakeout in the industry would be a plus for the firm. While competitive pricing is prevalent, House of Fabrics takes inventory write-downs on a monthly basis to keep prices up to date and to avoid any unusual year-end adjustments.

Following an excellent first quarter, House of Fabrics recently announced that its second quarter profit would be flat due to inclement weather and Easter falling in the first period. Revenues for the period should come in at $12.9 million, a 13 per cent gain year to year.

The second quarter notwithstanding, House of Fabrics is expected to show overall improvement for the year. The present 8 per cent industry growth rate is healthy and with the company's proven merchandising record and buying/distributing efficiencies, House of Fabrics should continue to outperform this pace. Averaging down is justified here.

Q. Kimberly-Clark has been strong recently. Why and is it a buy now? — R. D.

A. A leading producer of trademarked consumer products, Kimberly-Clark (NYSE) recently reported second quarter earnings (ended June) of 60 cents a share, a 71 per cent improvement over the 35 cents posted in 1971's comparable period. Sales were recorded at $243 million, up nearly 8 per cent from the $226 million in 1971. This, plus the overall improving trend in the paper industry, has bolstered shares.

The company has compiled a rather erratic earnings pattern over the years, mainly a reflection of the highly fragmented and cyclical nature of the industry. However, as Kimberly's first half statistics indicate, strong gains are being made by most paper companies as production and the pricing structure have improved. Stock offers appreciation potential and may be bought on weakness.

Earnings Rise For Union Oil By 4 Per Cent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Union Oil Co. of California's net earnings increased 4 per cent in the second quarter of 1972 over the same period last year, the company announced yesterday.

President Fred L. Hartley said earnings for the three months ending June 30 reached $27.9 million, compared with $26.9 million in the second quarter of 1971.

Total revenues for the first half of 1972 stood at $1.19 billion, the highest in the firm's 82-year history, a spokesman said. Revenues for the first six months of last year were $1.16 billion.

Net earnings per average common share outstanding for the three months were 77 cents in 1972 and 74 cents in 1971. Total net earnings for the first half of this year were $57.7 million, up $1.1 million for the same period last year.

Hospital Corp. Has Record Fiscal Year

I-J Special Report

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Hospital Corp. of America reported record revenues and earnings for the first half of its current fiscal year, with net income up 27 per cent over the same period last year.

Total operating revenues reached an all time high of $79,079,000 for the six months ended June 30, 1972, up 26 per cent over last year, and net income increased to $5,198,000 or 58 cents per share compared with 50 cents for the comparable period a year ago.

THE CURRENT CRAZES

Cowhide Donnybrook Developing

NEW YORK (UPI) —The craze of America's youth for leather jackets, high cut boots and broad belts of leather is on a collision course with a worldwide shortage of cattle hides.

The shortage has produced a political donnybrook in Washington.

Commerce Secretary Peter Peterson recently put restrictions on the export of American hides, holding them to last year's level of 15.1 million. Peterson acted after mushrooming European purchases of American hides had pushed the price up from 14 to 30 cents a pound.

Promptly, Rep. Garham Purcell, D-Tex., whose district is in cattle country, moved to amend the Export Control Act to stop restricting hide exports. He said he feared Peterson's move would simply hold down prices ranchers could get for their hides without any compensating benefits to American consumers. Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said he would press the same amendment in the Senate.

"Congressman Purcell couldn't be more wrong," Irving Glass of the Tanners Council in New York told United Press International. "The rise in the cost of hides so far can cost Americans as much as $2 in the retail price of a pair of shoes."

He said the restrictions the Commerce Department has put on exports are mild and cannot cause any drop in the price of leather. "The best that can be hoped for is that they will prevent a further runaway advance," he said.

In contrast, Glass said, the other leading cattle hide producing countries, Argentina, Brazil and India, have totally embargoed export of hides, thus forcing the shoe and leather industry of Europe and Japan to depend on the United States.

Glass said the trouble started in Argentina where mismanagement by the government wrecked the Argentine cattle industry so badly that the country, once the world's greatest meat exporter, no longer produces enough beef for its own people and there are no hides left to sell abroad, European shoe and leather goods makers then bid up the price of American hides.

"We had a couple of tanneries close in the United States because of the resulting hide shortage," Glass said, "and American shoe manufacturers were hit hard. They saw Europeans grabbing a bigger share of our shoe market by buying American hides, making shoes at lower European labor costs and shipping them to the United States."

Commerce Secretary Peterson and shoe industry leaders believe the export curb on hides will enable the industry to increase output about 7.3 per cent in the last five months of this year and halt price boosts. Domestic shoe output fell 6.3 per cent last year.

The leather craze of the younger generation started before the cattle hide shortage became acute and many of the youngsters will settle for vinyl substitutes. But most of the real afficionados want genuine leather, and they have to pay through the nose for it now.

Lab Tests Fail —Bremer Trial

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI)—FBI experts called as prosecution witnesses acknowledged today they were unable to produce laboratory evidence linking Arthur H. Bremer to the gun used in the shooting of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

They testified at his trial they could not find Bremer's finger — prints on the gun, trace the bullets to it or find any powder residue on Bremer's hands to show he had fired a weapon the day of the attempted assassination.

Robert A. Frasier, an FBI ballistics technician for 31 years, said the five bullets taken from the four persons injured in the May 15 shooting were fired from a .38-caliber caliber revolver but that none had enough microscopic markings to enable him to trace them to the same caliber weapon Bremer bought last January in Milwaukee.

Frasier said the bullets had been mutilated in passing through the bodies and that their lead alloy was too hard to record probable markings from the revolver's barrel.

Frasier also said an analysis of paraffin tests given Bremer did not show the usual high levels of barium and antimony produced when a person fires a gun. However, the agent added, the residues can easily be removed from the hands by washing or even just by putting the hands in trouser pockets.

Thurmond Williams, an FBI fingerprint examiner for 15 years, testified he found two partial prints on the gun but they were too small and distorted to trace them to Bremer or anyone else.

They were preceded to the stand by three medical witnesses.

Three surgeons testified on the extent of injuries to Wallace, an Alabama state trooper and a campaign worker when the shooting occurred at a Laurel, Md., shopping center May 15.

In telling the jury of six men and six women the effects of Wallace's wounds, Dr. Joseph Schanno said, "there is over a 90 per cent chance that he will not walk again without the aid of mechanical braces."

Drs. Peter James and Ricardo Longoria who treated the others injured in the shooting and taken to the same hospital also testified.

Defense attorney Benjamin Lipsitz tried to thwart the prosecution's line of questioning through repeated objections — 15 in the first 35 minutes.

Bremer came to court clean shaven for tha second day of the trial. Three witnesses were unable to identify him positively Monday, citing a beard he had grown while awaiting the trial.

During a recess, newsmen asked Bremer if he had shaved under court orders.

"If Nixon don't have to give press conferences," he said peering between two burly deputies, "I don't either."

During the jury selection in the first day of the trial Monday, Bremer smiled endlessly. Once he stuck his tongue out at a spectator, smiled broadly and chuckled to himself.

FBI Director Claims Hijackings Down

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Acting FBI Director Patrick Gray today defended law enforcement's handling of airplane hijackings.

"When you look at the record you see we are doing an excellent job of cutting down the number," he told a news conference. "When you look back to 1969, when these things started, 82 per cent were successful. Now, in 1972, it's down around 21 per cent."

Gray said that the agencies involved, especially the airlines, "are doing something right and are on the way to solving the problem."

"Where we have to stop these hijackings is on the ground with flight screening and similar devices," he said.

"Our first concern is always for the preservation of human life."

Gray stopped in Albany on his tour of the 59 FBI field offices around the country.

Gray, who was named acting director in May by President Nixon, denied, however, that his tour of FBI facilities was part of a campaign for permanent appointment.

"The position of director is a position for which a person does not campaign," he said. "The position seeks the man."

Gray said he would submit his resignation to President Nixon after election day "so that he will have a free hand" in naming a permanent director.

Registration Drive

Some 200 Republican precinct workers will man a door-to-door registration drive throughout San Rafael today from 5 to 9 p.m. The drive is part of a statewide "victory vanguard" organized by the California Committee to Reelect the President.

Court Rules Pay Board Can't Act

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U. S. District Court has ruled that a 34-cent hourly wage increase for 92,000 aerospace workers is beyond the jurisdiction of the Pay Board.

Judge George L. Hart said the wage increase was part of a 1968 contract, although it was not paid until 1971. In his opinion Monday, Hart said the Economic Stabilization Act, which the Pay Board executes, could not enforce wage controls retroactively.

Hart did decree that the Pay Board could regulate a 17-cent hourly increase negotiated by the International Association of Machinists and the United Auto Workers last year.

Both pay boosts combined to form a 51-cent package that the Pay Board trimmed last Jan. 13. The board approved the 34 cents, but said the remaining 17 cents would have to be deferred until the second year of a three-year contract signed last December.

Hart said the 34 cents was part of a cost of living guarantee in the 1968 pact. He said it was contained in the new contract only to the extent of spelling out the exact amount of the increase that would be coupled with the newly negotiated 17-cent raise.

Hart said the board could rule on the 17-cent raise.

The average hourly wage was $4.30 last Dec. 31. Hart's ruling meant that it would be increased to at least $4.64.

Plea Made On Reduced Charge

Raymond Herbert Barnes III, 20, of Oakland pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a reduced misdemeanor count of burglary in connection with the theft of $69 from a Fairfax church last September.

Barnes had earlier been accused of a felony count of the same charge.

He is to be sentenced Sept. 15.

He was arrested after the money was stolen from the office of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church.

Fire Rekindled By Arsonists

Arsonists used paint thinner and other flammable liquids today to rekindle a fire which Saturday destroyed the $42,000 Eric Murphy residence in Corte Madera, according to Chief Frank L. Nelson.

Firemen were called at 4:28 a.m. to the burning remains of the two-story frame structure at 173 Summit Drive.

The second fire caused additional damage to the charred timbers and the portion of the house interior still intact.

The blaze was under control in about two hours, firemen said.

That's $30,000 worth of marijuana being checked by Detective Michael Cale in the Petaluma police station. He and fellow officers, acting on a tip, raided a second floor apartment yesterday at 124 Eighth Street and on a porch found row on row of plants containing the weed from seedlings to six-foot-high specimens. A 13-year-old girl found alone in the apartment was turned over to juvenile authorities and several other persons are being sought.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

Democrats' Rough Row To Hoe

By COURTNEY R. SHELDON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. George McGovern's legislative and leadership qualifications are in for a rough-and-tumble going-over by Republicans regardless of who runs with him.

And White House aides now have hope that they can take the offensive on inflation and employment issues — quite a switch from several months back.

The script for the Republican campaign was evolving well before the pulling and hauling over Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, which ended yesterday with his withdrawal from the Democratic ticket.

While the GOP emphasis will be on President Nixon's record, particularly on what they feel is "progress toward peace," White House spokesmen and GOP leaders already are exchanging jab for jab.

The effort will be to keep McGovern on the defensive as often as possible — and the Eagleton rhubarb has served to do this without quotes from the White House.

Nixon's close-in adviser on domestic affairs, John D. Ehrlichman, said of McGovern: "He has no record, no proven record. You're hard pressed to say anything he has done in the Senate, for instance, that's of any moment.

"He's had no executive experience to speak of, except as administrator of that food program in the Kennedy administration which was not terribly well run, as a matter of fact."

Ehrlichman's remarks in an interview with this correspondent will likely have their parallel in stinging speeches by Nixon administration officials and other Republican leaders in the next three months.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Arizona, told a Scottsbluff, Neb., audience that "nearly all countries in the world, except Hanoi . . . have no need nor want for George McGovern . . . have no use for a Benedict Arnold, one who could sell out his friends and allies."

McGovern is giving Nixon some early pounding, too. He said Nixon had "stepped beneath the dignity of his office in bragging that "we could finish off North Vietnam in an afternoon" . . . He apparently lacks an abiding moral sense, and that is deeply to be regretted for our entire society."

Ehrlichman's comments were in response to a question of what McGovern's assets with the voters could be.

Ehrlichman replied that he was very hard-pressed to list any. "I don't think, really, he has had a test within the broad range of voters. He's had very narrow support in the Democratic primaries."

Only in tactics for the primaries and the Democratic convention did Ehrlichman concede some pluses for McGovern.

"He's got a couple of smart fellows working for him who understood primaries and who understood conventions, this particular convention. And that wasn't too hard because they wrote the rules. Now, whether

EAGLETON QUITS

New McGovern Task: A Mate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, with the "painful" task of dropping Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton behind him, searched today for a new running mate who can help get his presidential campaign back on the fast track he had hoped would take him to victory over Richard M. Nixon in November.

McGovern, who persuaded Eagleton to step down at a two-hour conference Monday night, said he had not yet decided on a replacement. The Democratic presidential nominee said he would make a recommendation to the Democratic National Committee "within a few days."

"We are going to be very cautious and very careful in making the vice presidential nomination," said McGovern, whose plans for a fast start in the campaign against Nixon were wrecked by the week-long controversy over Eagleton's health background.

Speculation immediately centered on some of the same men mentioned as vice presidential prospects at last month's Democratic National Convention — Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy in-law, and former Party Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

Eagleton, who met newsmen with McGovern to announce the decision, said today he would make no recommendation to McGovern on a successor.

"This is a decision that should be entirely up to Sen. McGovern," he said in a television interview (NBC Today show). Eagleton, ironically, performed the duties of the vice president Tuesday morning when he presided over the Senate for a short time after its opening. Vice President Spiro Agnew and President Pro Tem James Eastland, D-Miss., were absent.

At the Democratic National Committee, where the successor to Eagleton will be formally chosen, officials said the first task would be to clear up a series of credentials challenges against new members. After that, an emergency meeting will be called by the new national chairman, Jean Westwood, to select a new vice presidential candidate.

McGovern's recommendation —as it was at the Miami Beach convention —is expected to be controlling.

At the White House, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said President Nixon has not contacted Eagleton since the senator was dropped from the ticket and has no comment on the matter.

Ziegler said he raised the development in conversation with the President and "he said we really have nothing to say on that."

Eagleton signed and sent off his formal letter of resignation this morning, saying "there is no rancor in my heart." The letter contained much of what he said in his withdrawal statement Tuesday night, adding: "I therefore resign as vice presidential candidate on the 1972 Democratic ticket."

In jointly announcing the decision, McGovern had said he has made "no decision more painful or difficult."

McGovern and Eagleton announced at a news conference in the Senate Caucus Room Monday night their "joint decision" that Eagleton step down from the ticket. It came only six days after the 42-year-old Missourian disclosed at an equally dramatic joint news conference in the Black Hills of South Dakota that he had been hospitalized three times for psychiatric reasons.

Eagleton is the first vice presidential candidate ever to accept the nomination and later resign from the ticket.

"In the joint decision we have reached, health was not a factor," McGovern said in a prepared statement. "But the public debate over Sen. Eagleton's past medical history continues to divert attention from the

Reactions Mixed To Eagleton

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Despite a majority opinion among Democrats that it was proper for Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton to withdraw as vice presidential candidate, there was little optimism today that the decision would appreciably enhance the presidential campaign of Sen. George S. McGovern.

"McGovern's fight is an uphill battle and Eagleton was like a brake," said San Diego attorney Eugene Therieau. "Any drag on the campaign was more than McGovern could afford to carry at this point."

"I'm very disappointed," said Massachusetts Committeewoman Helen Rees. And South Carolina Committeewoman Barbara Sylvester said she was a "big supporter of Eagleton's and I think he was the selection of the convention and it should have remained that way."

Washington State Chairman Neale V. Chaney, an Eagleton supporter, said, "As of the moment I'm of a mind that Sen. McGovern should also withdraw and we should start over again."

Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton said he believed that Eagleton made the right decision. Many voters would be hesitant about his reaction under pressure if he happened to become president, Rampton said.

Hawaii Gov. John A. Burns said the "regrettable" decision was "obviously" sought by McGovern. "I believe that most Americans are compassionate enough to understand that the Senator's past health problems are not an issue in the election in November."

Colorado Chairman Bill Leavel said, "I think he is a fine man who got caught in a tough situation. I think he would have done a good job."

While most reaction was muted, Missouri Democrats were bitter.

"McGovern has made the major blunder of his life," said St. Louis Mayor Alfonso J. Cervantes. Missouri chairman Delton Houtchins said, "It was a raw deal...They can count Missouri out as far as I'm concerned this fall."

Generally, Democratic officials had mixed feelings— regret for Eagleton and belief that the campaign would now center on the economy and the war.

Indiana Chairman Gordon St. Angelo said that it was "too bad it had to come to this." But St. Angelo said he thought Eag-

Merger Proposal Gets Approval In Terra Linda

Agreements Announced By CSD; Public Hearing Set For Monday

The directors of the Terra Linda Community Services District last night approved proposed annexation of that community to San Rafael.

Their action paves the way for a public hearing Aug. 7 in San Rafael by the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission.

The district board announced some changes in the merger agreement worked out in the last few weeks by officials of Terra Linda and San Rafael.

San Rafael had agreed to increase its fire commission and parks and recreation commission from five to seven members in order to seat representatives of annexed areas. But, according to San Rafael City Atty. Fred C. Robbins, this cannot be done since the size of commissions is regulated by city charger.

San Rafael, according to district chairman Robert M. Bennet, instead has agreed to place a proposition on the April ballot which would give the city council the power to regulate the size of commissions.

Terra Linda residents at last night's meeting were concerned that their recreation facilities would be swallowed up by San Rafael, and that residents would loseontrol over them.

There were suggestions from the audience that the Terra Linda Recreation District not be annexed with the rest of the area.

Director Vernon H. Nicholson said that this would raise taxes by 10 per cent without increasing recreation services in Terra Linda. He also said that the plumbing and swimming pool at the center need expensive repairs.

The directors did agree to negotiate for an annual pool fee for Terra Linda residents instead of a daily rate.

The directors also agreed to insert a provision in the annexation agreement giving Terra Lindans control over local activities — such as the swimming team and a nursery school — now conducted in the recreation center.

A provision that all district reserve funds be used for the acquisition of open space in the vicinity of Terra Linda also was added to the agreement at the suggestion of residents.

These amendments to the original terms of the annexation must be agreed to by San Rafael before Monday's agency formation commission hearing.

The board announced that Terra Linda Fire Chief George Walser would enter the San Rafael Fire Department with the rank of captain at no cut in his present $1325 monthly salary.

In other action, the board voted to hold a public hearing Aug. 22 on a proposal to detach the Lucas Green property from the Terra Linda District.

McGovern's Defense Cut Rejected By Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate rejected today a proposal by Democratic presidential nominee George S. Mcgovern to cut President Nixon's defense budget by $4 billion this year.

The vote was 59 to 33.

It was the first legislative test of one of the major campaign isuues raised by McGovern.

The South Dakotan has pledged that if elected President, he will trim more than $30 billion from military spending over the next three years. That would give the country a defense budget of about $55 billion.

In a floor speech on behalf of his amendment, the Democratic candidate told the Senate that Nixon has "told Congress that we invite inflation by anything we do to build up our own country, to care for our own people and to improve the quality of life in our own society."

"But that view has nothing to do with reality," McGovern said in his first full-scale Senate speech since winning the nomination. "We must consider the real sources of inflation.

"It comes from the reckless war in Indochina. It comes from the bombs, the bullets, the planes and missiles which we have piled up beyond any rational need," he said. "And if we accept the $100 billion arms obligation represented here, we will be adopting a program of guaranteed ruinous inflation for years to come."

McGovern took his $100 billion figure from independent studies of defense spending which he quoted in his 30-minute speech to a sparsely attended Senate session.

He said if the $4 billion Nixon seeks to start buying weapons for delivery later is approved, it would lead to a $100 billion defense budget by 1975. The bill being debated would hold military spending this year to the level of the last budget — $77.6 billion.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., who resigned as McGovern's running mate today, supported the nominee in a speech in which he charged Nixon had engaged in "blind escalation of the arms race." He said the President proposed a speed up in development of the Trident submarine as "an obvious effort to stall an economic recession until after the election."

The Democratic presidential candidate, who has made arms spending a chief campaign issue, has said he wants to trim military spending for the current fiscal year to help Nixon meet his goal of holding federal spending to $250 billion. McGovern said the $4 billion could go to social programs.

McGovern's maneuver offered the first test of his political strength in the Senate since he won the Democratic noination last month. It focused attention upon his disagreement with Nixon over what direction defense spending should take.

McGovern was joined by other Pentagon critics in offering amendments to the procurement bill. Among them:

—A plan by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., to halt Selective Service inductions by the end of this year. Hatfield argues the Pentagon has thwarted efforts by the Congress and the White House to move toward all-volunteer armed forces.

—An amendment by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., to force an end to American bombing of North Vietnam.

—A proposal by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to prohibit the Pentagon from spending any money or signing any contracts for any experiments that use human beings as guinea pigs.

Beefed-Up S. Marin Waste Plant Urged

An environmental advisory group to the Marin Municipal Water District has recommended that the waste water treatment plant planned for Southern Marin be prepared to reclaim all its sewage when it opens late in 1975.

According to spokesman John T. Schulte, the environmental advisory subcommittee urged that the new facility go beyond requirements imposed by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The reclaimed water could be used for irrigation, industrial cooling and recreation purposes, Schulte said.

Previously, the advisory committee proposed only that the new plant begin reclamation of waste water when possible. That recommendation has been bolstered to encourage the water district to prepare for reclamation as soon as the plant opens.

The group also encouraged the water district to recycle waste water as soon as possible.

Recycled water, Schulte said, is pure enough to drink. The new plant would not be able to recycle water until the district constructs a lake in which its reclaimed water can be stored.

Another 'No' From Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy today repeated his rejection of second place on the Democratic ticket with presidential nominee George S. McGovern.

In an interview with UPI, Kennedy said the door barring a race for national office this year is "just as closed and just as locked" as it was last month when he refused to make himself available for the party's vice presidential nomination.

Kennedy acknowledged he had talked with McGovern since the decision was made Monday night to drop Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton from the ticket, but he declined to say whether McGovern had asked him to take Eagleton's place.

Anderson Retracts Story After Eagleton Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Columnist Jack Anderson, acknowledging he had damaged Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's vice presidential chances by reporting he had been arrested several times for drunken driving, retracted his story today after a 45 minute meeting with the senator.

"I think the story did damage to the senator and I owe him a great and humble apology for that," Anderson said.

He said he had sent investigators to Missouri and in the meeting with Eagleton had gone over "every scrap of evidence I have."

Anderson told newsmen he was "totally satisfied there is no evidence and I have come out here to retract the story in toto."

Eagleton, who joined Anderson in the brief news conference, called Anderson a "distinguished journalist" and "a man of candor" and said he was "very pleased with the statement he made."

The Missouri senator then said "the book is closed" on the matter.

Anderson said that if there were photostats of drunken driving records carrying Eagleton's name, "I believe they were phoney."

He said he was satisfied "there were no arrests for drunken driving and the only arrests are those on record." These showed Eagleton had been arrested once for speeding and another time for an accident on an icy road.

Anderson apologized to Eagleton on Sunday during a television interview for releasing the story without having investigated the charges thoroughly but he refused at that time to retract the story until he had investigated further and met with Eagleton.

Ninth Game Under Way In Chess Championship

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —World chess champion Boris Spassky opened the ninth game of the $250,000 match with his usual queen pawn today, then relaxed for 10 minutes while waiting for American challenger Bobby Fischer to arrive.

Fischer, who has been late for every game, nodded curtly to Spassky, studied the board for 45 seconds and moved his knight to king bishop three.

Spassky trails Fischer by two points, 3-5. The Russian needs 12 points to retain his title but Fischer needs 12.5 points to win.

Spassky postponed Sunday's game because of a cold.

However, the illness that struck Spassky may have been more than a cold. It may also have been a not unprecedented malady for Russians who play Fischer.

Spassky's cold came two days after he suffered what he said was "one of the worst defeats" in his 20-year career.

Spassky resigned the eighth game on the 37th move last Thursday after making a "childish , almost crazy mistake on the 19th move " according to grandmaster Miguel Najdorf of Argentina.

Air Strike On Haiphong

SAIGON (UPI) — Carrier-based U.S. Navy pilots striking deep in North Vietnam left a Haiphong shipyard in flames, the U.S. command said today. Communist artillerymen this morning launched a 70-rocket barrage on a big air base near Saigon.

Jet fighter-bombers from the USS Saratoga conducted the first attack ever on Haiphong shipyard Number 3 within the city limits. Their attack left three large fires burning, the command said. The shipyard contained a sawmill and was being used for salvage and fabrication of shallow-draft boats.

At dawn today, Communist gunners shelled Bien Hoa Air Base, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, with 70 rounds of Soviet -made 122mm rockets. One American and a Vietnamese civilian were killed. Fifteen U.S. troops and 24 Vietnamese were wounded, according to official figures.

Two U.S. Marine A4 Skyhawk jet fighter-bombers and two propeller-driven A1 Skyraiders of the Vietnamese air force were damaged in the attack.

It was the largest shelling ever of Bien Hoa and the heaviest bombardment this year of any American base in Vietnam, the command reported.

U.S. B52 bombers dropped more than a million pounds of explosives near Quang Tri, Monday the 35th day of the South Vietnamese drive to recapture the northernmost provincial capital, sources said. The air assault supported a 20,000-round government artillery attack directly on the Communist-held inner citadel. North Vietnamese troops overran the city May 1.

Field reports said intensive shelling and bombing of Communist strongholds in and around Quang Tri is going to increase.

"We're going to throw so much artillery in there that we'll be able to walk right in without seeing a living soul," a U.S. adviser to South Vietnamese marines told UPI reporter Ted Kurrus.

But Communist resitance to the Quang Tri campaign continued. South Vietnamese units reported a 160-round mortar and artillery attack on their positions two miles northeast of the city and a second mortar assault followed by a ground attack on units stationed a half mile away. Spokesmen reported light casualties in both incidents.

Saigon troops reported killing 35 north Vietnamese attackers in a long battle four miles south of Quang Tri.

The South Vietnamese command also reported 24 Communists killed in two clashes 35 miles to the south near Hue, the command headquarters for the 20,000-man push to recapture Quang Tri. One of the Communist attacks was preceded by a 400-round mortar barrage, spokesmen said.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu told graduates at the National Defense College that the only lasting solution to the Vietnam War would be a ceasefire throughout Indochina under international supervision.

"A ceasefire for South Vietnam only between the Americans and the North Vietnamese, with the release of prisoners of war, is a great danger for South Vietnam," Thieu said. "...Even if we have peace, the Communists will maintain their political war."

The U.S. command today announced the deactivation of 10 more army units, totaling 1,007 men. Included in the "stand down" was the 361st Aviation company "Pink Panthers" who flew AH1 Cobra Helicopter gunships. After raids on Communists positions, the haughty 361st, would drop leaflets saying: "Congratulations! You have just been killed by the Pink Panthers."

The Saratoga pilots Monday also attacked surface-to-air missile sites around Haiphong, North Vietnam's second largest city, including one raid on a six - missile site.

Pilots from another carrier, the USS Kitty Hawk, caused six secondary explosions at the Vinh vehicle repair facility 137 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone.

Thieu Raps Hanoi-U.S. Ceasefire

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today a ceasefire negotiated between Hanoi and Washington would be a "great danger for South Vietnam."

Thieu, in a speech during graduation ceremonies at the National Defense College, said the only lasting solution to the war is an internationally controlled ceasefire for all of Indochina.

"There is only one way to force the North Vietnamese to talk seriously and that is to destroy North Vietnam—destroy their war industry," Thieu said. "Let us do it this way for six or seven more months and we will come to a ceasefire for all of Indochina."

The ceasefire, he said, would be "with international control that will open the way for an end of the war and a long lasting peace."

Thieu and many other government officials — even those who generally oppose the president's policies—are worried that the United States will negotiate a separate military ceasefire with North Vietnam, abandoning the South Vietnamese to work out whatever kind of political settlement they can with Hanoi.

"A ceasefire for South Vietnam only between the Americans and the North Vietnamese, with the release of POWs, is a great danger for South Vietnam," said Thieu. "For Vietnam and its internal affairs even if we have peace, the Communists will maintain their political war."

"I believe the ceasefire should be obtained for all of Indochina," said the president.

Dissolution Notices Delayed: No Funds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A judge has ordered the San Francisco county clerk to start mailing out notices of dissolution of marriage, a duty the clerk said he has been unable to do since February because of lack of funds.

"It is appalling where this judge must mandate the county clerk to perform duties required under the law," Superior Court Judge Ira A. Brown Jr. said in his ruling Monday.

Six women lawyers filed a class action lawsuit June 29, claiming San Francisco was the only county in the state not mailing out a "notice of entry of judgment."

The document is prescribed by the Judicial Council of California.

The attorneys contended lack of the notice might make the court decrees totally ineffective.

Hunger Strike In Embassy In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—A hunger strike by two holders of dual Soviet-Canadian citizenship and their Soviet spouses squatting in the Canadian Embassy entered its second day today with no move being made to eject them.

An embassy spokesman said Mrs. Nadia Demidenko, 33, and Jim Lenko, 34, and their Russian spouses entered the embassy Monday of their own free will and the decision to leave also should be their own. The four are protesting Soviet refusal to let them go to Canada.

The four remained in the embassy overnight. The only other person in the building was the night watchman.

Bike Reflectors Would Be Required Under Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly voted final legislative approval Monday to a bill requiring that bicycles sold in California after Jan. 1, 1974, be equipped with red reflectors on each pedal or on the side of the cycle.

The measure by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, was sent to the governor on a 48-0 vote.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Warsaw Pact Meeting

MOSCOW (UPI) — Leaders of the Warsaw Pact nations conferred yesterday in the Crimea and probably got their first major briefing from Leonid I. Brezhnev on the Nixon summit, diplomatic sources said today.

Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, probably also told his East European counterparts about current progress in Soviet-American relations and the status of Soviet-Egyptian ties following withdrawal of Soviet military advisers, the sources said.

Tass, the offical news agency, listed leaders from all the Warsaw Pact nations as attending the session, which it described as a meeting of "leaders of Communist and workers parties of Socialist countries now on a brief rest in the Soviet Union."

Grass Law Eased

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Canadian government announced yesterday it will lower penalties for the possession of marijuana but stopped short of legalizing the drug as was recommended by the Ledain Commission.

The government announcement came some two months after its commission urged no penalties for simple possession or cultivation of cannabis, or marijuana, for personal use.

Health Minister John Munro said the government would increase aid to drug education programs while lowering penalties and placing marijuana-related offenses under the jurisdiction of the Food and Drug Act.

Farm Income Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Net farm income will boom this year to a record of about $18.1 billion, up $2 billion from last year and $1 billion over the previous record set a quarter of a century ago, the Agriculture Department predicts.

Department economists, in a revised "Farm Income Situation" report, clung to earlier predictions that net income this year would be about $2 billion better than in 1971. But the 1971 income figure, previously put at $15.7 billion, was revised to $16.1 billion, pushing the 1972 estimate up also.

Shaw Is Off The Hook

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A federal court has barred District Attorney Jim Garrison from prosecuting a perjury charge against Clay Shaw, the man he has accused of a presidential assassination conspiracy.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday upheld a U.S. District Court ruling which found that the "prosecution would cause great and irreparable injury to Shaw."

The perjury charge against Shaw grew out of his trial on charges that he conspired to assassinate the late President John F. Kennedy.

He was found not guilty at that trial but Garrison contended Shaw lied during testimony.

French Nuclear Test

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — France has carried out a third atmospheric nuclear test in the Mururoa Atoll area 800 miles southeast of here, unofficial sources said today.

They said the newest blast in the current French testing campaign came either Friday or Saturday and may signal the end of the 1972 series.

There was no confirmation from French officials.

Bomb Threat Sentence

ATLANTA (UPI) — An airline passenger who made a bomb threat pleaded no defense to the charge yesterday and was sentenced to five years in prison by U.S. District Court Judge Charles A. Moye Jr.

Paul Edward Hastings, 50, service station attendant from Bladensburg, Md., received the maximum sentence for the threat. While in prison he will be enrolled in an observation and study program which could bring reduction f the sentence or probation.

Hastings, two told Moye he had "too much to drink," was charged with telling a Delta Air Lines co-pilot May 19 during a flight from New Orleans to Baltimore that "I have a bomb in my pocket that could blow this ship right out of the air."

The plane landed at Atlanta where Hastings was removed and charged with making a false bomb threat.

Security Set For GOP

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Police Chief Rocky Pomerance said yesterday he has the same security plan for the Republican National Convention as he had for the Democratic convention last month.

"We seem to have arrived at a good formula and see no reason to change," said Pomerance. "We will continue to provide the necessary security and protection without needless displays of power of the type that lead to 'confrontations.'"

Pomerance said that, based on what he knows now, he expects the Republican convention to pose no greater security threat then the Democratic convention.

POWs Names Released

TOKYO (UPI) — North Vietnam's official news agency today published the names of four American military pilots it said were captured after their planes were shot down last Saturday and Sunday.

The Vietnam News Agency (VNA) said the pilots are: Capt. James David Kula, 25, based in Takhli, Thailand, captured July 29; Capt. Melvin Kazuki, 27, based at Takhli, Thailand, captured July 29; Lt. Col. William John Breckner, 39, based in Udorn, Thailand, captured at Hanoi June 30, and Lt. Larry Donald Price, 25, based at Udorn, Thailand, captured near Hanoi July 30.

All appeared to be U.S. Air Force personnel.

False Advertising Accusations Leveled In Government Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government report says manufacturers of cars, electric razors and television sets have failed, upon demand, to prove all the claims they make in the advertising.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the Senate consumer subcommittee, said Monday in releasing the report that it showed "that a substantial number of ad claims are backed by nothing but hot air."

The report could become the basis of false advertising charges made against the manufacturers by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

About a year ago, the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection ordered 32 firms to back up with documented proof 282 claims made for their products in advertisements.

The bureau's staff, analyzing the material submitted, said, "serious questions as to the adequacy of data to support the claims they purported to document arose in about 30 per cent of the responses."

"Many claims were documented in a most impressive manner," the report said.

Moss, whose subcommittee oversees administration of the truth in advertising law, submitted the report to the manufacturers for their comments.

The firms challenged the bureau's evaluation. They said the bureau had overlooked some of the documentation.

For example, the Ford Motor Co. claimed in an ad that its low-priced Pinto "never needs waxing."

The FTC staff said the "sole support" from Ford for that claim was an assertion that Ford uses quality paints "capable of maintaining an acceptable appearance for an extended number of years."

Not so, said Ford. In a letter to Moss, it pointed to "exposure tests" made on painted panels to Florida sunshine for at least 12 months.

"Ford's engineers are of the opinion that 12 months' exposure in southern Florida is the equivalent of three years exposure to ultraviolet sunlight under average climatic conditions in the United States," Ford said.

Despite the rebuttals submitted by the companies, Moss contended that the FTC's ad documentation claim "has been successful, indeed startling, in revealing the widespread and flagrant absence of adequate substantiation for advertising claims and the overriding need for a systematic means of holding advertisers' feet to the fire of public scrutiny."

Students' Year In Germany Set

Two Redwood High School students will spend their junior years at the Friedrich Schiller Gymnasium in Preetz, Germany, under Redwood's international student exchange program.

They are Monica Moore, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James G. Moore of Kentfield, and William Chrisman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Chrisman of Tiburon.

Martina Bendler and Kristiane Steinhause from Preetz will attend Redwood this year in the exchange, which is sponsored by the Schultz Foundation of Greenbrae.

In another Redwood exchange program an English teacher, Russell Hill, and his family will spend a year in Blandford, England, while British teacher Michael Dove will teach at Redwood.

Plan Revealed To Assassinate Ho

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A plot by high level American officials to assassinate North Vietnamese leader Ho Chi Minh was opposed by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the attempt was never made, according to the author of a history of U.S. intelligence operations.

R. Harris Smith, whose book deals with the office of Strategic Services (OSS), predecessor of the CIA, told a news conference Monday that he heard about the assassination plot from a former CIA officer, but said he had no documentation.

"The plot was conceived by a retired high-level State Department official, but was opposed by the CIA director and was never put into effect," Smith said.

The suggestion was considered at the highest levels of government and was turned down by the White House at the CIA director's recommendation, Smith said.

"CIA got into the act because they were the ones who would have had to carry out the plot," he said. "They opposed it as politically foolish, stupid and insane."

Smith said the man who gave him the information did not say when the plot was conceived, but that it must have been between 1966 and 1969, because these were the years the informant was active in the CIA. He was influential in both the Johnson and Nixon administrations, Smith said.

Smith, 25, a former CIA analyst, told the news conference he did not use the incident in his book because Ho was still alive at the time he was working on it. The North Vietnamese leader died on Sept. 3, 1969.

Smith met newsmen on the publication date of "O.S.S.: The Secret History of America's First Central Intelligence Agency," published by the University of California Press.

Smith tells in his book of the OSS backing of Ho Chi Minh during World War II.

"The OSS felt an emotional rapport with Ho," Smith said. "They felt he was fighting to free his country from the Japanese and also to free it from colonialism.

"An OSS medic once saved Ho's life in the jungle and then 20 years later the CIA, which followed the OSS as America's intelligence agency, apparently saved his life again by its opposition to the assassination plot," Smith said.

Smith wrote his history of the OSS after interviewing more than 200 former employes and going through thousands of documents, some still classified, at the Hoover Institute at Stanford University. He is currently working on his doctorate in political science at UC Berkeley.

FARMING — 19TH CENTURY STYLE

Right out of the 19th Century came these steam engines, chugging their way into the annual gathering of the Michigan Steam Engine and Threshers Club in Mason. The oldtime steam threshers' reunion was held last weekend and showed spectators how the old machines used to process wheat.

Sanitary Board Gives Sewer Job

The Novato Sanitary District board last night awarded a $76,149 contract to M. G. Rodrigues Construction Co. of Oakland to construct a force sewer main along Railroad Avenue, according to Bill L. Bayles, assistant engineer.

The bid was the lowest of 11 opened last Monday.

The contract calls for construction of 2,190 feet of 27-inch main from the Olive Avenue pump station to Rose Avenue to connection with an existing main. The engineer's estimate of the job was $88,650.

Work, expected to take a month, is to start Aug. 25.

The board also received a preliminary district budget of $378,653 for the current fiscal year. A public hearing is set for Aug. 17, with adoption expected on Aug. 28, Bayles said.

The Novato Sanitary District Board also:

PLANS — Approved plans for Pleasant Valley unit 7 — 44 houses on 19 acres at the end of Center Road for Condiotti Construction Co.

ANNEXATIONS — Approved annexation of approximately an acre on Mill and Vineyard Roads and of approximately two acres on Virginia Avenue at Villa Place, both for Robert Hune.

CONNECTIONS — Approved temporary connections, prior to annexation into the district, forSinaloa Park subdivision of 13 lots on 4.4 acres on Mill Road, a lot on 2080 Mill Road for Steven Hall and a lot on 900 Simmons Lane for George Worden.

Fairfax Officer Is Given Leave

Fairfax police officer Onad (Dee) Carver has been granted a leave of absence without pay until November, 1972.

Carver, who defended former Fairfax police chief James R. Orr during the Orr hearings, has been on sick leave without pay since last November.

According to City Administrator Robert E. Crowe, Carver said in a July 6 letter that to continue police duties at this time would be "detrimental to my health and well being."

Crowe said that Carver claims a stomach illness is "service related" and although the State Compensation Insurance Fund has rejected his claim, the officer has appealed. The city must retain Carver without pay until that case is decided, Crowe said.

"His continued presence on the force will be reviewed in November," Crowe said.

Man Badly Hurt In Road Crash

A 23-year-old Mill Valley man was seriously injured at 2:15 p.m. yesterday in an auto crash on Shore line Highway jus south of Highway 101 in Tamalpais Valley, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Murray Garson of 396 Pine Hill Road was reported in serious condition with a chest injury today in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital.

The Highway patrol said Garson had driven his car onto the shoulder of Shoreline Highway to pick up a friend. When his car crossed the southbound lane, it was struck by a car driven by Carol Linda Shlain, 31, of 315 Carrera Drive, Mill Valley.

The patrol said Garson had failed to yield right-of-way.

Work Areas On 101 Tomorrow

Projects in progress on Highway 101 which will alter traffic patterns or affect the flow of traffic tomorrow, were announced today by the state Division of Highways.

Sections of freeway involved are:

1. South of Cotati between Railroad and Sierra avenues, outside northbound lane closed 6 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. to permit slab replacement.

2. Near Sportsmans Lodge north of Novato, one southbound lane at a time closed 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to permit sandblasting and striping.

Dentists Will Ask Water Fluoridation

Several dentists from the Marin Dental Association will ask the North Marin County Water board to donsider fluoridation of the water when the board meets at 8 p.m. today in the district office.

Manager Eugene Churchill said that the dentists have asked to argue the benefits of fluoridating water.

The board will name a representative to meet with representatives of Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino Counties on the future Potter Valley water plans.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. now operates a 50-year old dam in the valley and diverts the water to the Russian River, he said. The federal power commission and state fish and game commission want the water diverted to the Eel River and the southern counties are concerned because they are dependent on the Russian River as a source of water.

Other items to come before the board include an intertie with Marin Municipal Water District for transfer of surplus water; release of water from Nicasio Reservoir into Papermill Creek to supply west Marin; a request for emergency water to an area between Inverness and Inverness Park and a report on a request for irrigation water at Point Reyes Station.

Schools' Filming Attempt Fails

A film about educational goal-setting planned by the Marin County Schools Office and a Marin-based film company has been abandoned because expected state funds did not materialize.

Roger Falge, an administrative assistant at the schools office, said today a $150,000 state grant from the Department of Education fell through.

The venture, originally due to be completed in September, with Hartel Productions, was for six films of 12 to 15 minutes length to interest the public in setting school goals.

Falge said attempts also had been made to secure Office of Economic Opportunity funds for the film project but these, too, were unsuccessful.

Novato Extends Plan Deadline

Pair Will Enter Pleas On Kidnap

Two 18-year-old youths, arrested last week in Humboldt County on suspicion of a Novato kidnapping, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Charged with kidnappin g robbery and car theft were David Wyatt Miley and Dale Robert Minot, both of whom gave home addresses in Venice, Los Angeles County.

They are suspected of kidnapping Terry Mark Schenebert, 20, of Petaluma, at knife point on Highway 101 in Novato. Schenebert said he was forced to drive the two youths, whom he had picked up hitchhiking in San Francisco, to an orchard, where they took his clothes, money and car.

The two were arrested Thursday in the stolen car by Humboldt County deputies and brought to Marin County Jail Saturday.

They were to enter pleas today.

Marinite Pleads Guilty To Felony

I-J Special Report

Harvey is to appear in Superior Court for trial on Sept. 25.

He was arrested March 21 in San Francisco after allegedly selling $250 worth of heroin to a police informant, narcotics agents said. Agents said they found both methamphetamine and cocaine in Harvey's possession when he was arrested.

New Duties Go To Meter Maids

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Meter maids here have been authorized to double as litter ladies.

Mayor Ralph Perk said Monday the city's 15 meter maids will hand out tickets for littering in addition to their regular chores of citing parking offenders.

Perk said the ladies will especially be on the lookout for merchants who sweep litter in front of their stores into the street.

"If we stop this practice, Cleveland can become a much cleaner city," Perk said.

great national issues that need to be discussed."

"Ladies and gentlemen, look at the news," McGovern added in reply to a question. "It has blotted out the war, it has blotted out the economy and it has blotted out the central issues."

It was obvious that Eagleton did not want to quit the ticket. The former Missouri attorney general said he spent the first 15 minutes of his 102 minutes with McGovern "in my lawyer-like marshalling of evidence" in support of staying on the ticket. McGovern said Eagleton disagreed with his judgment about public reaction.

"I thought that in another two or three weeks if I crisscrossed this country, that pretty soon it would run its course," Eagleton said.

Paying tribute to McGovern's courtesy and gentlemanliness during the week, Eagleton said he bowed to the presidential candidate's belief that time was of the essence and that issues must be addressed promptly.

"I will not divide the Democratic party, which already has too many divisions," Eagleton said. "My personal feelings are secondary to the necessity to unify the Democratic party and elect George McGovern president of the United States."

McGovern said several times that he was "fully satisfied" that Eagleton's health is excellent. He said he talked to three of his doctors in recent days, and they reported that Eagleton had suffered from depression but had reached "full recovery."

Judges Named For County Fair

Five judges, representing a variety of the arts, have been named for the second annual film competition at the 1972 Marin County Fair, scheduled for Aug. 31 through Sept. 4.

The judges include architect Aaron Green; KQED-TV producer Emiko Omori; James McBean, critic, writer and member of the film department at the California State University at San Francisco; film maker Bruce Connor and Fred Padula of Canyon Cinema of Sausalito a university colleague of McBean.

The film competition is open to independent film makers from the nine Bay Area counties with judging to be held Aug. 12 at the College of Marin.

Innocent Plea To Grand Theft

Douglas Anthony Patricks, 24, of San Francisco pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of grand theft and concealing stolen property in connection with the theft of an expensive bicycle.

Patricks was accused of stealing a 10-speed bicycle from William Coleman of San Anselmo after he allegedly tried to sell stolen auto parts to an off-duty sheriff's lieutenant.

No charge was filed against him in connection with the auto parts because the owner refused to testify, but Patricks was later accused in the bicycle theft.

A jury trial was set for the week of sept. 5.

School Vandalism Is Fall Meeting Topic

Ways of reducing vandalism in San Rafael schools will be discussed at a conference of parents, police officers and school officials to be called shortly before school opens next month, Supt. John F. Plank said today.

The most recent destruction was the breaking of 18 windows at the Santa Venetia Middle School on July 22, when vandals shot BB guns and threw rocks through $1,100 worth of glass.

The vandalism took place at the site of construction of an addition to the school due to open in September and scheduled to house about 250 additional pupils who will be bused from East San Rafael.

Sheriff's officers suggested after the most recent destruction it might be cheaper in the long run to hire a watchman, especially for weekends.

Plank said today that the school district occasionally has assigned custodial personnel to all-night duties at such times as halloween.

He said, "These things come in rashes," and while vandalism, especially window breaking, seemed to have been high this summer, there have been fewer school burglaries than in other years.

He said parent-teacher association officers have suggested giving rewards for information about vandals' identities as a possibility for reducing the problem. This and other suggestions will be hashed out at the conference, for which a date has not been set.

leton's departure "would help Indiana and probably help many other places."

Oklahoma Gov. David Hall said, "This makes it possible for McGovern to debate the President on the real issues, not charges and countercharges made by people."

Florida committeeman T. Wayne Bailey said, "One hopes that this will clear the air."

"This will allow us to quickly refocus on the problems of the economy, the war and the lack of leadership in the Nixon presidency," said California Chairman Charles Manatt.

In the south where McGovern's candidacy has been received coolly, officials were reserved.

Texas Chairman Roy Orr, who opposed the ticket, said he would wait to see "who McGovern picks—Mr. Eagleton certainly didn't help the ticket's chances in Texas."

Louisiana Committeewoman Mary Low Winters said, "We certainly need all the help we can get. Sen. Eagleton's judgment was certainly in the best interest of the party."

Some Democrats began pushing their favorites to succeed Eagleton.

Orr, saying "Of course I'm speaking only as a Texan," cited Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas. South Carolina Gov. John C. West said he prefers Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey or Mills.

Wisconsin Committeeman Donald Peterson named Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana and former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

California Committeewoman Mary Ledesma said, "I'm afraid we need a Ted Kennedy at this point to offset some of this publicity."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie was mentioned by Oklahoma Committeeman J. C. Cobb and Illinois Chairman James Ronan.

College Budget Hearing Slated

A public hearing on the Marin Community College District $13.9 million budget for fiscal 1972-73 will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. when the district board meets at the Kentfield campus.

Trustees also will be asked to accept state and federal funds for a child care center at the college and to authorize remodling to house the center.

Preliminary plans for Unit 1 of Indian Valley Colleges will be up for approval. Two workshop sessions on the plans were held recently by board members.

Opening Times In Sky Chart: A.M. Not P.M.

The first two sentences of the August Sky Chart Story, which was carried in last Thursday's Independent-Journal, were incorrect.

The story, which is supplied by the Christian Science Monitor, should have started:

"Today, through Thursday — The waning crescent moon passes near Saturn and Venus in the eastern sky on these mornings. The moon is in conjunction with Saturn at about 8 a.m., local daylight time, on the 4th, with Venus at about 4 a.m., local daylight time, on the 5th."

The original copy gave the two times as being "p.m." when they should have been "a.m."

3 Injured As Car Leaves Road

A San Rafael man was injured in an auto accident at 10:30 p.m. yesterday on Shoreline Highway about a mile north of Calle Del Mar, Stinson Beach, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Charles Paganini, 20, of 600 Point San Pedro Road, was reported in satisfactory condition today with a fractured ankle at Marin General Hospital.

According to the patrol, a car he was riding in slid off the road and crashed into a utility pole. Two other persons, Timothy A. Howard, 20, of Sausalito, the driver, and Susan M. Hoeschler of 48 Tweed Terrace, San Rafael, another passenger, received minor scrapes and bruises.

A 1953 flatbed Chevrolet truck, license number J56935, was taken Sunday or Monday from the numicipal lot at Third and Cijos streets in San Rafael, owner Joseph Did Cardinalli told police.

ISSUES

they understand broad, electoral campaigning and politics has yet to be established."

For all of this, Ehrlichman said it is "way too soon" to predict how close the election could be in November. "We had all kinds of reporters writing in '68 that the Democrats would never pull a campaign together . . . Humphrey finally was able to find a railroad station and get on the train."

What is the top domestic achievement that the president will take to the voter?

"Well, as of right now, I suspect it may be the economy where we've begun to see some very, very positive results.

"Inflation rate cut in half; purchasing power and real earnings up, the highest rate in nine years; adding new jobs at the highest rate in the last nine years; gross national product rising at an unprecedented rate; all across-the-board, real economic achievement."

Should the president get out on the campaign trail earlier than October?

"I don't know where that thing came from," he replied. "I think people that are talking about a three-week campaign shouldn't bet too much money on it."

Asked if he expected McGovern to reshape his opinion on some of the critical issues of the campaign, Ehrlichman said:

"I don't think he's got that option. He's locked himself in. He wants to cut $58 billion out of the defense budget which means he wants to remove the Sixth Fleet from the Mediterranean, close all our naval bases except one on each coast and all the implications of that. He said that, and he said it in categorical terms. He's framed that issue and that is the issue we are going to join.

"On Vietnam the same thing. He says he'll be out of there in 90 days regardless of the prisoners. He says his follow-up will be to go and beg for the prisoners. Now he said that in very clear, unequivocal terms and frames the issue. And we'll join that issue.

"He sponsored a $6,500 (per family) welfare bill, 97 million people on the welfare roles. That's inescapable; He frames that issue. He says he wants to give everybody $1,000 a year . . ."

Is amnesty a good issue?

"Amnesty is a question that exists that has to be addressed by anybody who's president sometime in the future. It is an inescapable subject of controversy in the country."

What about abortion?

"I don't see that as very much of an issue between the candidates. The president has stated his personal convictions on the subject. McGovern has pretty well taken it out of the campaign or tried to by saying he thinks it's a state-level issue. The president hasn't tried to impose his personal convictions on anybody else through the device of federal law or anything of that sort."

Group Forms To Back Open Space

A grass roots group of 30 San Rafael residents has formed a campaign organization to back the city's open space bond issue, scheduled for a special election Sept. 19.

The group plans a door-to-door campaign and is soliciting volunteers to canvass neighborhoods, according to Eric Eitreim and Jerry Russom, co-organizers.

The bond issue would involve an increase in the city's tax rate of about 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, raising $2.25 million for open space purchase.

Building Plans To Be Considered

Plans for 22 apartments in five buildings at the southeast corner of Olive and Railroad avenues will be considered by the Novato Plan Review Committee at 8 p.m., tomorrow in the Novato Community House.

Charles W. Dennis has submitted the plans for the apartments.

Other items to come before the committee include signs for Cinema II at 5390 Redwood Highway, Frank Howard Allen Realty at 945 Front Street and Warden's Liquors at 878 Grant Avenue.

$1,700 In Tools Stolen From Shed

Tools valued at $1,700 have been taken from a shed on the Highway 101, bypass route under construction. Robert W. Gagan of Freeman-Sondgroth contractors reported yesterday to Novato police.

The theft occurred June 11. The company said it wanted to inventory its loss before notifying police.

Daughter's Beauty Puts Minister Out

ATHENS, Ala. (UPI) — The Rev. Charles Marshall, who was ousted from the Hobbs Street Church of Christ after his blonde daughter won a swimsuit contest, has been offered a new church. It was formed by about 200 members of the old church who disagreed with his dismissal.

The elders of the Hobbs Street church fired Marshall because his daughter, Becky, 17, appeared in a one-piece swimsuit and won the Spirit of America beauty pageant July 4. Marshall said the church had approved Becky's participation in the contest and one of the elders took the portrait photograph that also won Becky the title of "Miss Photogenic."

WASTE

After a one-year waiting period, the reclaimed water could be treated like regular water out of the district's watershed, Schulte added.

The advisory group also recommended that Improvement District A be maintained as a government agency until a bond issue to raise funds for a Southern Marin waste water treatment plant is on the ballot.

Improvement District A was set up in 1971 to study consolidation of eight Southern Marin sewage agencies and subsequently was instructed to do all preparatory work and planning, short of holding a bond issue to finance the project.

Project manager Schulte said a bond issue probably would not be ready for the voters until June 1973.

The subcommittee also accepted the resignation of its chairman, Dr. Pat Wennekens, who is moving to Alaska. Wennekens served as chairman for nine months, ever since the subcommittee's inception. The group postponed its decision on Wennekens's replacement until it meets next on Aug. 10.

MORTAR'S SECRETS SOUGHT

Marin and Sonoma County historians think this blackened brass mortar has had a long and interesting existence, but they've been able to trace its ownership back only 20 years. The handcrafted mortar such as doctors and apothecaries formerly used is 5.5 inches tall and weighs six pounds. It was found among the belongings of a longtime Marin County resident who died recently. The historians said that after more information about the mortar's past is gathered, it will go to an appropriate museum. They asked that anyone with knowledge of the antique call Mary Ellen Quesada before noon any weekday at St. Francis Episcopal Church in Novato.

Novato Reshaping General Plan

By JEFF GREER

Novato city councilmen and planning commissioners slogged through flood, earthquake and fire hazards last night, to give the city planning staff "direction" in its marathon task of revising the Novato General Plan.

Both bodies agreed that Novato's citizens need better protection against the three forms of disaster, but they refused to ban new development in the city until firm guidelines can be drafted.

"We can't stop the world while we catch up with it," said Councilman Fred F. Ruegg.

The planning staff had suggested a moratorium on all new development in the Novato Creek and Rush Creek watersheds until the city "derives a computer model" of how the creeks would behave if new development increases storm water runoff.

The council and planning commission informally approved the computer idea, which probably would be prepared by engineers at Stanford University or the University of California at Davis. Planning aide Mark Westfall said the cost had not yet been learned.

The planners split 3-3 on the building freeze with Commissioner Beverly Ehreth absent on vacation. Mayor F. Wayne Sartain recalled that the council earlier sided 3-2 against such a moratorium.

During the joint session that lasted more than four-and-one-half hours, several councilmen including Sartain and Ruegg again challenged the realism of any or all Novato population predictions for the year 1990.

Ruegg called allowing the general plan to put "any ultimate limits at all on population. . . a pipedream." He urged "planning for the worst" but the two bodies made no move to revise population predictions on which the general plan is being prepared.

Turning to fire hazards, the councilmen and planners quickly adopted Fire Chief Jack Kidder's recommendation that all new developments more than 200 feet above sea level be required to provide their own water supply for adequate fire protection in homes.

The city officials showed confusion as they listened to a series of geologists and soil experts debate the potential dangers of the Mount Burdell fault and other lesser faults in the Novato area.

Salem Rice of the California Bureau of Mines reported that no earthquake had been scientifically observed in Novato during recorded history.

"It's a probability game — nothing is certain," soils engineer Robert T. Lawson explained.

Councilman George C. Quesada said he believed the worry over temblors was "a tempest in a teapot" because citizens already were adequately protected by the uniform building codes.

But the council and commission favored staff proposals that all new construction in the Novato alluvial zone or on bay mud be designed to heed earthquake danger and that all existing structures in the two zones be "inventoried" and their owners warned of any hazards found by inspectors.

The two panels unanimously agreed to staff suggestions that would require design review for all ponding areas and levees for earthquake and landslide risks. All development on the San Pablo Bay shoreline also would be scrutinized for the danger of Tsunami or tidal waves.

The requirement may figure prominently in the city review of developer John Kenney's latest proposal to build more than 2,000 homes on the old Sartori Ranch in Black Point, south of Highway 37. The council and commission agreed last night to a joint meeting either Aug. 29 or Aug. 31 when Kenney's consultants will present plans for the huge development. The plans feature homes strung along a series of islands; the rest of the existing pasturelands would be flooded.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the hearing date would depend on which night the Novato community meeting hall will be available.

Mattson added the joint meeting will not be a formal public hearing. The planning commission will have its own hearing on Kenney's master plan later.

The council faces another key decision when it meets at 8 p.m. Aug. 24 to review the recently completed Novato Creek watershed survey. The council must choose within the next few weeks whether to endorse Army Corps of Engineers plans to spend about $11 million to channelize the creek for flood control, or to keep Novato and Rush creeks "natural."

During last night's flood discussions, Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste warned that if the city agreed to the Army project, some form of development control still might be needed in the seven years it would take to complete the flood control project.

Quesada, however, declared, "I think we're going to have to accept some level of flooding, find out what areas are going to be inundated and warn the people — or we're going to spend an awful lot of money."

He added, "I really have serious doubts about the computer model" capability of predicting future developments' impact on flooding.

Ruegg challenged the recently prepared watershed report as "not objective" and "suspect. . . it starts out with a premise and then tries to prove it." He said the "natural" creek proposal "obviously doesn't give a high level of protection and could cost $78,000 a year" to keep the creeks open. He charged the "Novatans may love their creeks but they sure abuse them" by filling them with refuse.

He condemned all building moratorium suggestions and said "we've got to move now with the information we have now. One of the things wrong with the City of Novato is we keep trying to get all the data" before acting.

Despite the rejection of their watershed moratorium hopes, the planning staff gained a 3-2 endorsement of Mattson's stand that the city eventually must review all previously approved developments' master plans. Sartain, Quesada and Councilman David Price Jones favored the reviews, stressing that full public hearings would be needed if the plans were to be dovetailed into the revised general plan.

The council and planning commission agreed to hold another joint session at 8 p.m. next Monday to continue their review of general plan sections. Mattson explained that staff members want opinions on the proposed sections dealing with conservation, open space land use, circulation and airport policeis.

War Protests Force Laird To Cut Short Ohio Talk

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)— Antiwar demonstrators shouting "we don't believe a word you're saying," Monday interrupted a speech by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird about America's efforts to get out of Vietnam and return to a peace time economy.

Laird temporarily silenced the approximately 50 demonstrators by promising to answer questions after his speech. But the antiwar chants and heckling resumed during the question and answer session, forcing Laird to call it off.

There was no violence and no arrests were reported during the demonstration, which occurred while the defense secretary was making a brief inspection tour of the former Clinton County Air Force Base in Ohio. Laird stopped at the base en route here to observe construction of the newest jet fighter in the Air Force, the F15, being built by McDonnell-Douglas Corp.

The Defense secretary also stopped Monday in the Harrisburg, Pa., area to accept thanks for Defense Department aid to victims of flooding caused by hurricane Agnes.

Study Group Defends TV Survey Methods

NEW YORK (UPI)—A private study group Monday defended the methods used in its recent survey which found "a significant degree of bias" in television news coverage of the Democratic presidential primary and the Vietnam War.

The American Institute for Political Communication, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization, reaffirmed the findings of a survey published July 7 which indicated the three major television networks were pro-McGovern in the primaries and anti-Nixon on the war.

However, the institute also reaffirmed that "the great bulk of the reporting on the news shows was straightforward and objective."

The methods and objectivity of the survey had been criticized by network officials and one of the institute's board members resigned earlier this month claiming the survey was published without his knowledge.

In its special report on the survey titled "Bias as a Factor in Network Television News Coverage," the institute said the study was based on the work of five "carefully selected" monitors who viewed evening news programs over a 10-day period (June 1-14, exclusive of weekends).

The report identified each news segment found to be biased by the monitors, gave the names of the reporters and included a "degree of bias" rating given each episode on a seven-level rating scale.

While the names of the monitors zere not disclosed, the report said all five were recent college graduates, under 30 years of age and political liberals—"persons whose normal prejudices are those with which the networks have been charged."

The monitors recorded both the amount of broadcast time allotted to each news segment as well as their subjective feelings on whether the content was "slanted" in its approach to a candidte or the government's Vietnam policies.

A majority of the monitors found 33 episodes biased—seven for ABC, and 13 each for NBC and CBS.

One instance of bias cited by the monitors involved the allotment of more than twice the air time to George McGovern than that given to Sen. Hubert Humphrey on CBS and ABC and more than 30 per cent on NBC.

It's Official For Butterfly

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —It took the dog-face butterfly a while—43 years to be exact— to become the official California state insect.

The state Blue Book, published by the Legislature, shows that etomologists in 1929 selected the small, orange and yellow butterfly as the California insect.

But lawmakers did not act until this year, and Gov. Ronald Reagan signed a bill Monday to make the designation official.

The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Naddy, R-Fresno, who moved it through the Legislature at the request of some fourth grade elementary school children.

The butterfly, also known as the dog-head, is found from the San Francisco Bay region to San Diego.

New Zealanders Will Consume More Pop

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — New Zealanders are expected to drink 6.5 gallons of soft drink a head this year — two gallons more than five years ago.

Cordial manufacturers, who supplied this figure, compare it with an average of 12.8 gallons in Australia and 18.1 gallons in the United States.

Funding Plan On Hilarita Project Set

The federal government and the sponsor of the Hilarita housing project have agreed on $2,703,000 to fund the 112 moderate-income apartments in Tiburon.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development, which previously proposed $2.5 million, and the housing project's sponsor, the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, which requested $3 million, settled on the compromise amount, according to ecumenical association president Edwin G. Weed.

The housing department will guarantee the ecumenical association's private loan and subsidize its interest payments over 40 years. According to Weed, the federal government's interest subsidy for the project's first year will be about $162,000 and that subsidy will decrease each year as tha $2.7 million loan is paid off.

Weed said he expects a letter formalizing the agreement to arrive from the housing department's area headquarters in San Francisco within two weeks.

If formal agreement is reached without snag, construction could begin in the middle of September and be completed by August of next year.

'Laugh In' Regular Is Mugged In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— Alan Sues, "Big Al" of television's "Laugh In," told police Monday muggers knocked out two of his teeth, cut his lip and stole his car. Sues, in rehearsal here for a play, said it happened Sunday night as he went to his car near the theater.

"Some guy jammed something against the rear of my neck," Sues said.

RUBBER BAND STRINGING

Another World Record Rewritten By Marinites

The Guinness Book of World Records never had it so good.

Two San Rafael youths today claimed the world's record for rubber band stringing after looping some 27,400 of the elastics together in a string that stretches — untugged, they say — for 3.54 miles.

The feat took Steven Littman, 15, of Portola Avenue and Kenneth C. Aeschlimann, 14, of 1 Carmel Court, about a month to complete, according to Reda Aeschlimann, Ken's mother.

She said that Ken Littman, an I-J newspaperboy, would dismantle the world's biggest reported rubber band for use on his newspaper route.

The reported world's record is the fourth record which Marin youths have broken in as many weeks.

July 1 six Kentfield girls claimed title to a hopscotching record after hopping for 32 hours. Last week, three Peacock Gap youngsters gained fame by constructing a house of cards using 32 decks or a total of 1,685 playing cards.

On Friday, two San Anselmo teen-agers broke the reported world's Ping Pong endurance record after 51 continuous hours of ball-batting.

And tomorrow . . .?

Judge Enters Plea For Youth

A San Francisco youth, arrested in Sausalito while said to have been wearing stolen women's clothing, has been sent by a Marin judge to the Community Mental Health Center for 72 hours of psychiatric observation.

William Jesse Davis, 19, was wearing a red and blue floral print dress, makeup, a gold earring and was smelling of perfume, police said. The wardrobe was said by officers to have been taken from the Alta Mira Hotel.

Judge Peter Allen Smith, who ordered Davis to undergo observation, on Thursday entered an innocent plea for the youth.

Damages Awarded In Train Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The husband and four children of a Sunnyvale woman killed in a 1969 Southern Pacific train accident have been awarded $350,000 in damages.

A superior court jury last week awarded $450,000 to the family of a man killed in the same accident in the first of eight cases seeking a total of $4.7 million from SP and two other companies.

The award Monday was to Joffre Wong, his two children and two step-children for the death of Mrs. Irene Wong, 41, who was a key punch operator for a bank.

Four persons were killed and 18 injured when an eight-inch pipe 50 feet long rammed through a window of a passenger car of an SP train traveling through San Bruno en route to San Francisco in 1969.

The jury found in June that SP was not negligible, but held that a subsidiary, Southern Pacific Pipelines Co., and Alex Robertson-Bakersfield Construction Co. were responsible.

The surprising Maverick.

It's a comfortable, 6-cylinder American compact that's actually priced below the Volkswagen 113.

If you can afford a Volkswagen 113 – or almost any little import – you can afford a Maverick. Look:

FORD MAVERICK	2-door	6-cylinder	$2,140.*
VW 113 (Super Beetle)	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,159.*
TOYOTA COROLLA 1600	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,109.*
DATSUN PL 510	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,306.*

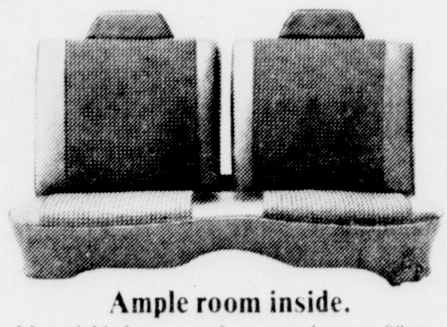
*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for 2-door models. Excludes dealer preparation charges, if any, destination charges ($160.00 for Maverick), California emission system ($13.87 for Maverick), title and taxes.

NOTE: People ask us how we can afford to offer a roomy, 6-cylinder compact at about the same price as the little imports.

First, we've been making small cars since 1908. Experience helps.

Second, we haven't changed Maverick—except for mechanical improvements—since we first introduced it. That kind of continuity helps to control costs.

Third, recent currency revaluations and devaluations have helped restore the competitive stance of American manufacturers.



Ample room inside.

Maverick's front seat, for example: over 8" more shoulder room than Volkswagen 113.

There's no wasted space inside Maverick. At the same time, none of that small-car crowded feeling.

Most little imports give you 4-cylinder engines. Maverick gives you a 6-cylinder engine.

It's smooth. It's reliable. It lets you accelerate into turnpike traffic with confidence and hold your own on steep hills. And it delivers surprisingly good gas mileage.

Maintenance: Even simpler, more convenient than the little imports.

VW, for example, recommends normal service every 3000 miles or three months, whichever comes first. On Maverick, it's 6000 miles or six months. So Maverick's recommended service interval is twice as long as Volkswagen's.

We also designed Maverick to be a simple machine to care for. In fact, we've even prepared a manual which tells you how to do many maintenance jobs yourself.

One more convenience: there are over 5,600 Ford dealers in the country. VW has about 1,100.

A good car for long trips.

Maverick's rear track is 2.9" wider than Volkswagen's. Its wheelbase is 7.7" longer. There's a bit more weight, too. By themselves, these differences aren't very big—but they can add up to a big difference in the way Maverick drives and handles the open road.

Why Not Restrict Use Of Handguns?

The latest attempt at political assassination, against Gov. George Wallace, has spurred another spate of arguments for and against gun control.

With each successive political assassination or attempted assassination, proponents of gun control appear to be gaining new converts, but not enough to overcome the opposition.

That opposition is deeply ingrained. Any attempt to restrict the individual's right to bear arms goes against American tradition, particularly in the Far West where the rifle and the six-shooter are considered by many the signs of masculinity.

The same ones who willingly register their cars and motorcycles (even bicycles, on occasion) and pay annual fees for the privilege of using them, would consider it a personal affront to be restricted in any way on gun ownership and use.

The resistance to gun control legislation appears to be more emotional than logical. Some of the arguments are exploded as myths by Franklin E. Zimring, professor of law at the University of Chicago, writing in the Christian Science Monitor. Zimring is associated director of the university's Center for Studies in Criminal Justice.

The assertion that "the handgun is a useful tool of household self-defense" is a myth, says Professor Zimring.

"The homeowner's gun rarely protects him against burglars, who seek to elude him, or the occasional robber, who counts on surprise and a weapon of his own to render the homeowner helpless. The loaded handgun in your home is much more likely to accidentally kill someone in the family than to save his life."

Another myth: Gun laws can't work because criminals don't obey laws anyway.

"There is a grain of truth to this," acknowledges Zimring. "But it is nonetheless a dangerous oversimplification." If this argument is valid, he points out, then we might just as well say that all criminal laws are futile because all who violate them are indeed criminal. Only by cutting down on the transfer of guns from legitimate to illegitimate owners or reducing the total supply of handguns can we cut down on the role of guns in violence.

Another myth: Legitimate citizens are not part of our gun problem, so why restrict them.

The truth is that the majority of all gun homicides are committed by persons without serious prior criminal records, according to the professor.

Statistics such as those compiled by Professor Zimring indicate that far more Americans are killed or injured than are protected by unrestrictive use of handguns in private homes. In the face of such evidence, the ownership and use, at least of handguns, should be restricted if not banned.

For sportsmen who want to hunt, and those who need the "security" of weapons in the home, the rifle and shotgun should be just as effective.

Legislators Bogged Down In Partisan Bickering

(During Earl G. Waters' vacation, his column is being written by his guests. Today's column is by Hugh Flournoy, state controller.)

By HUGH FLOURNOY

It should be apparent by now to anyone who is watching the Sacramento scene that 1972 will not be a year of great accomplishment.

Of course, it's an election year and so the pundits and the politicians often cite that fact as an excuse for not accomplishing what the taxpayers expect and the voters were promised in campaign oratory during the last election.

Unfortunately, the Capitol has become so bogged down in partisan politics — so unwilling to compromise on issues — that state government today is at an impasse.

The State Constitution called for reapportionment of the Legislature last year and more than a year later nothing has been done because of partisan bickering between some within the Legislature and between the Legislature and the Governor.

FOR SEVERAL years now, leaders of both parties have promised California's taxpayers substantial tax reform. But little of major significance has been enacted into law.

For even more years, the critical problem of financing our public schools has been acknowledged by all who were willing to face up to the fact that the present system is unfair and inequitable. But still there is no real improvement.

More recently, leaders in both the executive and legislative branches have acknowledged the need to preserve and protect our precious coastline. And still nothing is done.

Why, the citizens ask, aren't their needs met?

THE ANSWER IS that there have been several fundamental changes in California politics resulting in a significantly changed nature of state government.

The real foundation for much of the current partisanship is the abolition of cross-filing in 1959 and the impact of the "one-man, one-vote" ruling of the United States Supreme Court.

Prior to 1959, California candidates could run for office and win nomination by both parties. Under cross-filing, they could win office in the primary election. That system put a premium on candidates and incumbent legislators who de-emphasized partisanship while simultaneously emphasizing a desire to represent the broad cross-section of voters in their districts.

However, cross-filing was abolished. Then came the "one-man, one-vote" principle. That ruling significantly enhanced the Legislature's ability to gerrymander the state in reapportionment.

THE END RESULT is that in most legislative districts in California the real election is in the primary where only the party "faithful" can participate. There now is no premium on appealing to a broad cross section of the voters and, in fact, the opposite is true — party loyalty is the key to winning re-election.

Probably the most realistic way to keep California from following the Eastern states — where partisanship dominates everything — is to change our primary system, perhaps moving to a blanket primary.

Under this approach, the voter can choose which party primary he wants to vote in for each separate office, regardless of his registration, and a candidate can appeal to that broad cross-section for support.

CALIFORNIA'S CITIZENS certainly recognize the lack of action by the Executive and Legislative branches because they are sponsoring what may be a record number of initiatives on this fall's ballot. That is tangible evidence that many people are tired of waiting for the Legislature and the Governor to get something done.

Perhaps the blanket primary system — which opens up the Primary to all the voters and therefore makes those who are elected more responsive to their constituencies — would be a proper step.

Such a step would probably eliminate the partisan impasse in Sacramento.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Belvedere Firemen Get Compliments

Tuesday afternoon (July 18) there was a Belvedere fire from an unattended stove (?). There was a strong wind from the north. Although the house was destroyed, the two homes on either side were unaffected, although three homes at Corte Madera further apart from each other were destroyed 10 months ago. Compliments for competence should go to the Belvedere Fire Department for speed and dexterity.

While on fire, the Sausalito retiring chief's suggestions could well be implemented countywide — use of firemen as building inspectors to pre-plan attack when fires do break out, and push for fire resistant construction and repair to buildings. Is cement impregnated wood still made to resist fire as in airplane construction during World War I?

Vote To Restore Death Penalty

God help the poor peaceful and tranquil citizen (and his or her family) who become victims of crime — rape, kidnapping, tortuous burglary — heinous crimes.

The Supreme Court rationale in voiding the death penalty brought tears to my eyes.

I most sincerely want to express my shock along with District Attorney Bruce Bales and Supervisor Louis H. Baar, both of whom made such succinct statements: "This is but another example of our highest courts usurping the function of the Legislature — I hope that I am wrong but I predict a new vista of violence in America. The five justices who voted to outlaw the death penalty must accept the responsibility for any bloody consequences" . . . "suddenly the great Supreme Court thinks we have been doing things wrong all these years."

They are our two elected officials who are courageous enough to openly express concern for responsible and peaceful citizens.

Let us show our appreciation for these brave men by voting in November for restoration of the death penalty in California and perhaps join forces for a nationwide constitutional amendment movement to overrule the Supreme Court for the sake of God, Country and Family!

And now the American Civil Liberties Union wants to void the signatures of over 1,000,000 people to place this issue on the ballot. My civil liberties and constitutional rights are threatened and may be taken away should they succeed in nullifying the right of the people to vote on this issue. I PROTEST!!

Fluroide Causes Fluoride Problems

I find it unbelievable when other countries such as Sweden are banning fluoride by law because of the many ecological and physical problems caused by this pollutant, and many fluoridated towns are abandoning it, sadder and wiser, that Marin comes limping in with a petition to put it on the ballot again.

But what really astounded me when I pointed out fluoride pollution facts to a young woman petition canvasser, was her, "Oh, I don't know anything about it. They're paying me and I need the money!"

Who are paying her? The chemical companies? Our tax money? If this is sponsored by funds donated to the Children's Dental Health by the Public Health Service, we are paying for it. Why should professional promoters get the help of our tax money?

If these paid petitioners are successful, the people who will have to educate the public with the most recent scientific evidence against the now-outdated fluoride approach will have to pay for it out of their own pockets.

I could apply an old saying, "Something is rotten in Denmark," but at least in Denmark they don't allow fluoridation.

Do Not Coddle Young Criminals

Tell me it isn't true! Tell me it was a misprint! With regards to I-J item "Term of only six months for young (22 plus yrs.) offenders"; are you serious in your reporting that "The California Supreme Court has ruled that youthful offenders may be released after six months imprisonment no matter what crime they commit." I may be against Capital Punishment, but there are limitations.

Chief Justice Donald R. Wright, in my books, is wrong! The case cited was on an appeal by "Larry G. Chambers, a Long Beach youth convicted of armed robbery and use f a firearm during the commission of a felony." Granted, the sentence he received . . . "to a minimum of 10 years in jail", would only have made him a better armed robber under the guidance of more "qualified" persons, but to allow anyone who carries a gun and is convicted of such and also of producing said firearms in the process of a robbery to do a six months term is completely insane. Are we not overly-identifying with the "criminal" who is "too young to know better" but is old enough to pull the triger?

Granted, our prison system is not a system in any way shape or form, it is a rampant river that is "drowning" all of us in and out-mates, but to let these "kids" do what the hell they please with only "six months" before them, should they get caught is pure stupidity with a capitol "S".

Changes should be made in the prison system and fair is fair, but should we not try, just a bit, to be fair to both parties that are involved: the criminal and the victim? I don't like it any more than you, but wouldn't it be wiser on the part of a potential "victim" to demand that the "criminal" stays in prison until we can come up with something that may held the criminal to re-adjust into life and become a tax payer and a "potential victim" on his own?

In the meantime, as a person who sees more grey than black and/or white; more good than evil in people; and much more wrongs that should be righted, say this: Wright you are Wrong.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Who says advertising doesn't work!"

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Aug. 1, the 214th day of 1972 with 152 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo.

Francis Scott Key, who wrote the Star Spangled Banner, was born Aug. 1, 1779.

On this day in history:

In 1790, the first U.S. census showed a population of 3,929,214 in 17 states.

In 1907, the U.S. Air Corps, now the Air Force, was founded.

In 1966, Charles Joseph Whiteman killed his mother and wife, then fatally shot 13 other persons with sniper fire from the top of a tower at the University of Texas. He wounded 32 others before police killed him.

Humphrey's Primary Concern Is To Help Fellow Senators

WASHINGTON — Who really lucked out at the recent and largely unlamented Democratic convention is still in dispute. Listening to the losers, you are sure it is not the winner, Sen. George McGovern.

One who counts himself lucky is Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey. He says that he came to realize — it was a belated realization — that if by some miracle he had been nominated, the convention would have been torn to pieces and he would have endured two days of bitter humiliation and anguish.

Now, he says, he can devote himself to being a good senator which is the ambition his wife, Muriel, has cherished for him all along. What is more, he is going to give most of his campaign time to helping fellow Democratic senators pull out of the doldrums in which many of them now are. If the election were held today, Humphrey is frank to say, the Republicans would score a net gain of not less than five seats for a majority of the Senate in the next Congress. That is a bleak prospect for a party that has so long had the prerogatives of control with powerful committee chairmen running the show.

HUMPHREY IS NOT the only Democrat in the Senate who seems likely to take the split-level approach to the campaign as the AFL-CIO has now done. They have spoken kind words about the McGovern-Eagleton ticket but, like the Russians in the sleigh as the wolves close in, you have to decide who can be saved and who must be sacrificed. The breath of the Republican wolves is very hot.

The disclosure by Sen. Thomas Eagleton of his illness and psychiatric care has caused new dismay among Democratic senators. Besides putting another obstacle in the way of the national ticket it seems to reflect on the Senate itself.

THE DANGER signals are not hard to spot on the Democratic side of the Senate. Two dropouts are causing concern. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico is retiring after a long and distinguished career. The Democrat seeking to hold his seat is a relative newcomer with the felicitous name of Jack Daniels.

In Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris stepped down for the obvious reason that he knew he could not win re-election. In a crowded field of 16 candidates in the Aug. 22 primary Rep. Ed Edmondson, who has had 10 terms in the House, is expected to win. He will face a formidable candidate in Dewey F. Bartlett, former governor of the state.

South Dakota, Sen. George McGovern's home state, offers for the Democrats working in the Senate vineyard a note of cheer. Sen. Karl Mundt, absent from the Senate for nearly three years following a paralyzing stroke, is not running for re-election. The Democrat after that seat is James G. Abourezk, one of the two South Dakotan members of the House. Elected in 1970, he is an odds-on favorite, since the assumption is that the native son at the head of the ticket will certainly carry his own state.

THE SOUTH, where once the very label of Democrat carried the certainty of victory, has its own gloomy perspective. Alabama's Sen. John J. Sparkman, at 72, faces Winton M. (Red) Blount, the fast-talking salesman who, as postmaster general, put over on the nation the postal service. This last is surely not an accomplishment to boast about, since the mails have improved little if at all while rates go steadily up.

Virginia offers an interesting example of the New South in Sen. William B. Spong Jr., challenged by an arch-conservative who speaks for the traditional South. William L. Scott, serving his term in the House, is trying to put the ultra-liberal label on Spong, who was elected six years ago with the support of labor and blacks. With the exception of 1964 Virginia has gone Republican in every presidential election in the past 20 years.

RECORDS OF the past give slight encouragement to the split-level strategist seeking to elect Democrats to Senate and House while keeping comparatively mute on the head of the national ticket. Tossing one passenger, perhaps even the driver, out of the sleigh is bound to create a dispirited atmosphere of doubt and uncertainty. The Republicans have a strong counter in an appeal for support for the President's policies in Congress, rather than a government divided against itself.

Belated though it was, Hubert Humphrey's moving renunciation was grounded in party loyalty. But his first allegiance is to the friends in the Senate who feel themselves threatened.

LOUIS CASSELS

Senator McGovern Alienated Jewish And Catholic Voters

The vast majority of America's Catholics and Jews have traditionally been Democrats. This year, a large number are likely to vote Republican.

That is the consensus of Catholic and Jewish leaders who are intimately familiar with trends and attitudes in these two large religious communities.

There are several reasons for this historic shift in political allegiance.

THE FIRST IS economic. Rising affluence has caused many Catholics and Jews to identify with the haves rather than the have-nots. "There is no question about it," says Rabbi Louis Bernstein, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, "a lot of Jews are swinging to the right in lolitics."

Racial issues have played a part in the swing to the right, particularly among so-called "ethnic" Catholics and among Jews who live near black neighborhoods in big cities. Many Jews who once considered themselves liberal allies of black men in the struggle for civil rights now feel that they are targets of virulent anti-Semitism among blacks and have become defensive about it.

MOST IMPORTANT issues in switching Catholic and Jewish votes, however, are (1) abortion and (2) Israel.

Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, is trying to sidestep the abortion issue by saying it's one for states to decide. But Catholics know—and Republicans won't let them forget it— that McGovern was saying only a few months ago that "abortion is a private matter which should be decided by a pregnant woman and her own doctor." In other words, he favored abortion-on-demand, with no legal restrictions.

THIS POSITION is deeply repugnant to many Americans —not only Catholics— who feel that the state has a responsibility to provide protection to the most helpless form of human life—a quickened but unborn fetus.

President Nixon has squarely aligned himself with this latter sentiment—and again you can rest assured this point will be made perfectly clear in the election campaign. On April 3, 1971, Nixon said:

"From personal and religious beliefs I consider abortion an unacceptable form of population control. Further, unrestricted policies of abortion on demand I cannot square with my personal belief in the sanctity of human life—including the life of the yet unborn."

JEWS AREN'T much concerned with the abortion issue but are quite concerned about American support of Israel. The general feeling of the American Jewish community, according to qualified informants within it, is that Nixon has proved himself a stalwart supporter of Israel, both in diplomatic maneuvers and in shipments of U.S. arms, including Phantom jet planes.

McGovern, on the other hand, is widely remembered among Jews as a man who once advocated making Jerusalem an open city. No amount of present and future waffling on that issue will erase the memory or the distrust of McGovern it inspired among Jews.

McGOVERN INDICATED at the Democratic convention in Miami Beach that he is aware of the possibility of large-scale Catholic and Jewish defections from the Democratic fold. He sought to placate Catholics by choosing one as his running mate and by having his forces defeat a proposed platform plank advocating abortion on demand. He tried to make character with Jews by having his name placed in nomination by a Jew and by having his delegates write into he platform a plank pledging firm U.S. support of Israel.

It is possible, however, that some Catholics and Jews may consider these gestures too little and too late.

Taking all in all, it appears probable at this moment that the two major religious components of Franklin D. Roosevelt's famous Democratic coalition will take a walk this year.

Cotati's Youthful Councilmen Enjoy Their Prominent Status

Four months after taking office, most new city councilmen settle into a dreary routine of meetings and learning the ins and outs of city government. In Cotati the young councilmen elected in April have yet to become predictable.

The feat of unseating three middle-aged incumbents and placing themselves in the council majority has sent them on a power trip that has lasted for four months and shows no signs of abating.

NATURALLY, THE under 30 trio brought a great deal of interest to little Cotati, and while they all complain of the publicity they've received, it's obvious they adore it. Mayor Annette Lombardi, 25, is collecting newspaper clippings from around the country that feature her, and Stephen Laughli, 25, who's done some newspaper writing, is trying to work out deals to write a few magazine articles on the council.

Geoffrey Dunham, who'll reach the golden age of 30 next spring, proudly tells of how he is recognized on the street by strangers. While passing through tiny Point Arena in Mendocino County, Dunham stopped in a tavern where he was floored when the bartender asked, "Hey, aren't you one of those new councilmen down in Cotati?"

MISS LOMBARDI, who rejected the women's lib role a few months ago, is now on the kick. She prefers to be addressed as Ms. Lombardi and wants her title changed from councilman to councilwoman, but says she'd settle for councilperson. Since she was officially elected as a councilman on the ballot, it looks like she's struck with the masculine title.

The Golden Gate Bridge and Transportation District may soon feel the council's wrath. When a new police chief is appointed, one of his first directives will probably be to see that every bus is ticketed if it exceeds the 25-mile per hour speed limit through Cotati. Miss Lombardi said she regularly clocks buses traveling at 45 miles per hour and says the campaign has taken on a personal meaning since a bus nearly ran down her 12-year-old brother a few weeks ago. She said the boy leaped into a ditch in time, but that his bicycle was mangled beneath a wheel. "The driver didn't even stop," she said angrily. "For all he knew, my brother could have been under that wheel too."

DUNHAM JOKINGLY suggested the city could impound buses and hold them until the bridge district promises to make drivers slow down.

The councilmen say they're surprised that a recall petition hasn't yet started making the rounds, but feel they would withstand a recall election anyway.

Democrats-For-McGovern Is Gathering Momentum

WASHINGTON — In a direct challenge to the "Democrats for Nixon," a new political organization has been incorporated in Washington this week with the unlikely name of "Democrats for McGovern."

The chairman, Partridge Wankleman, opened the storefront headquarters last Thursday on Pennsylvania Avenue, just three blocks from the White House. We went to a cocktail party celebrating the festivities and had a few moments with Wankleman.

"This is a grass-roots movement," he explained. "There are many Democrats who are fed up with Nixon, and we want to welcome them into our party."

"THAT'S A GOOD idea," I said, "but according to the polls, there aren't too many Democrats who have indicated they would vote for McGovern."

"The polls could be wrong," Wankleman said. "There are some Democrats who want to vote for McGovern, but at this stage, they're not willing to speak up. We hope that by starting this organization we can make it possible for them to work for our candidate. We're not asking them to stop being Democrats.

"All we're asking is that they search their consciences and vote for the best man, even if the best man is George McGovern."

"That's pretty hard for a Democrat to do," I said.

"WE'RE OPTIMISTIC. As a matter of fact, we've already signed up three Democratic senators and four Democratic governors and that's only the beginning. Our people are now working on Democratic congressmen. I wouldn't be surprised if at least half of them didn't come out for the McGovern ticket."

"That's a good start," I admitted. "I suppose you won't go after people like Mayor Daley or George Meany."

"We will, eventually. But at the moment, we'd rather attract Democrats who are on the fence and could go one way or another. We want those who will work for McGovern even if it's against their philosophy."

WANKLEMAN SAID the "Democrats for McGovern" were printing buttons, bumper stickers and posters. They were also seeking testimonials from well-known people associated with the Democratic Party in the past. Money seemed to be the big hitch.

"We can find Democrats for McGovern, but we can't seem to find many who will support him financially."

"How do you find them?" I asked.

"WE'RE WORKING from Democratic Party lists. We send out mailing to the Democrats, asking if they would be interested in supporting our candidate. It's amazing how many we've heard from. Last week, out of 1 million letters, we received 1,678 affirmative replies."

"That should give the Republicans something to think about," I said.

"I believe one of the reasons for the success of the organization," Wankleman said, "is we promise them that even if they support McGovern, they can still vote the straight Democratic ticket for other races. This has reassured many Democrats who might otherwise think they were turncoats."

"WHERE DID YOU get your idea for the 'Democrats for McGovern'?"

"Strangely enough, from the Republicans. When they started 'Democrats for Nixon,' it occurred to us that some Democrats deserved another choice. So we organized the Democrats for McGovern, to give them a place to go."

"Will you have storefronts like this all over America?" I asked.

"We hope to. This is the race to the finish, and if we can prove that even Democrats will vote for McGovern, then perhaps the independents might go along with us."

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Mark Edward Estrada, 21, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge that he possessed a pouch of marijuana on June 16.

Estrada, who has no fixed address, is also accused of having a prior felony conviction for the same crime, which could affect the sentence he may get.

He was arrested by a sheriff's deputy who said he saw a pouch of what appeared to be pot on Estrada's car's dashboard after he was stopped for a defective tail light.

Pleads Guilty To Drug Charge

William Homer Hammond, 37, of Gate 6, Waldo Point, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge that he sold heroin to a narcotics agent in June 1971.

He is to be sentenced Sept. 11 by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner.

Hammond was arrested in December 1971 on a warrant charging he had sold dope to agents on a red houseboat in the Gate 6 area.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Mr. Quiz:

Famous people like the U.S. President must get a lot of birthday wishes. Recently a friend of mine got 106 cards and was delighted because she had never gotten that many in her whole life. This started me to wondering. Who holds the world's record for receiving the most number of cards and letters on a birthday?

Signed: Wondering.

Dear Wondering:

Yes, President Nixon gets a bushel basketful of greeting on his birthday. However, the heaviest outpouring came to a television personality a couple of years ago. Theo Goetz, who stars on the daily TV soap opera, "The Guiding Light," got 39,000 letters and telegrams when word of his 69th birthday was mentioned on the air. Can anyone you know beat that?

Happily: GBG.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

William Clark (1770-1838), co-commander of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

Francis Scott Key (1779-1843), American lawyer and poet.

Sammy Lee (1920-), U.S. Olympic champion (platform diving).

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The Columbia river in the Northwest was first discovered by the Lewis and Clark expedition.
2. Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner."
3. On his birthday today, Sammy Lee will do a running 3½ somersault from a diving board — a stunt he performs each year at this time.

ANSWERS

1. FALSE; 2. TRUE; 3. TRUE.

If you enjoyed reading "Crime and Punishment," you will adore curling up with today's hand. The murder took place in the bidding; the retribution, during the play of the cards. The scene of the crime was the Americana Hotel in Miami Beach, a plush hostelry where the World Bridge Olympiad took place a few weeks ago.

DIAMOND BID

Paul Soloway, of the United States bridge team, opened the South hand with one diamond, relying on the playing strength at that suit to make up for the slight deficiency in high cards. West doubled, and North stretched a trifle to redouble.

East might have bid one spade, but he chose to pass, expecting to bid at his next turn. After the redouble, South was expected to pass and leave the next move up to his partner; but South rebid his diamonds to show that he had a good suit but very little defensive strength.

TOO GOOD

Soloway thought his hand was a trifle too good for a simple rebid of two diamonds. His jump to three diamonds was a misdemeanor. But North's jump to five diamonds was a crime. Punishment was not long in appearing on the scene.

West opened the seven of hearts, and Soloway won with dummy's ace. He ruffed a heart to get his hand and led a spade. West stepped up with the ace of spades and wisely returned a trump.

LEADS A CLUB

Declarer won and led a club. Now he could make his ambitious contract if the defender who had the ace of clubs did not have the last missing trump.

But I told you this was a Dostoyevskian tale. Jeremy Flint, of the English team, stepped up with the ace of clubs and produced another trump. This limited declarer to just one ruff in the dummy. He could ruff one club and discard one on the king of spades, but he would still have a club to lose — and that meant down one.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♥ - Q 9 8 7
♦ - 10 8
♣ - A 5 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

If partner responds one diamond, you can show the hearts; and if he responds, instead, in a major suit you can raise. The hand is a dead minimum opening bid, but there is no harm in opening with minimum values.

Misquote Claimed

Sausalito Police Capt. David Malkin reported yesterday that he was misquoted by the Independent-Journal last week in connection with the description of a young woman — 24-year-old Lynn Maureen Derrick — found murdered Wednesday in a Sausalito street. Malkin said he had not made the remarks attributed to him in the I-J, but declined to clarify what had been said.

Inmate Escape Try: 3 Die

NORFOLK, Mass. (UPI)— Katherine Elliott was wearing a long skirt Monday when she checked in to see her husband, a convicted murderer, at Norfolk prison colony. Under the skirt, officials theorized today, she had strapped two handguns to her legs.

Her husband, Walter, 32, used the guns in an attempted jail break, killing a guard and civilian employe and wounding another guard. Then after 5-½ hours, his escape attempt thwarted, Elliott shot his wife and killed himself.

Mrs. Elliott was in critical condition today with a bullet wound in the head.

The bodies of Elliott, who was serving a life sentence for the 1968 slaying of a woman, and his wounded wife were found when a dozen troopers wearing bullet-proof vests stormed a cellblock at the medium security prison where the couple had barricaded themselves.

John O. Boone, corrections commissioner, said officials were trying to find out for certain how Mrs. Elliott smuggled in the weapons. A woman normally has her handbag searched but no metal detector is used, one source said.

Prison guards openly criticized Boone because his alleged permissive handling of convicts set up the abortive break. "It's gonna be interesting," one guard said, "to hear him (Boone) explain his way out of this one."

Melvin Bernstein, a spokesman for the State Department of Corrections, said shortly after the visit between the Elliotts began about 9:30 a.m., Mrs. Elliott loaded the handguns and gave them to her husband. He shot a guard in the arm, and said he was making an escape.

"He ran outside and shot another guard and then ran back and shot the first one in the head," Bernstein said. The first guard, James Souza, 29, died of the wounds. Alfred J. Baranowski, 54, an instructor who was wounded a short time later, died shortly before 5 p.m.

The other wounded guard was in satisfactory condition today.

Elliott and his wife left the visiting room and barricaded themselves in Unit 73. A chaplain appealed with Elliott to surrender but the inmate refused.

More than 150 state troopers moved inside the prison, about 20 miles south of Boston, and about 1:40 p.m. began firing tear gas into the dorm. The barrage lasted until 3 p.m. when a dozen troopers started a room by room search for Elliott.

Boone said Superintendent George Bohlinger was informed last week that Elliott might try to escape and Bohlinger "initiated action," but he was not specific about what the superintendent did and conceded rumors of escape tries are frequent in prisons.

Hatch Act Is Declared Unconstitutionally Vague

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1939 Hatch Act prohibiting federal workers from partisan political activities has been ruled unconstitutionally vague by a panel of three federal judges.

"This is a classic case of a statute which in itself on occasion has a 'chilling effect' unacceptable under the 1st Amendment," said Judge Gerhard A. Gesell.

Judge Barrington B. Parker concurred in the 2 to 1 decision handed down Monday. Dissenting was Judge George E. MacKinnon of the U. S. Appeals Court.

Gesell and Parker sit on the U. S. District Court for the District of Columbia.

The National Association of Letter Carriers and six federal workers from the Washington metropolitan area asked the court in a suit filed March, 1971 to enjoin the U. S. Civil Service Commission from enforcing provisions of the Hatch Act.

They specifically challenged a clause that prohibits employes of federal executive agencies or the District of Columbia from taking "an active part in political management or political campaigns" subject to being fired or suspended without pay.

The court said the law incorporated by inference more than 3,000 rulings made by the commission between 1886 and 1940.

"No one can read the Act and ascertain what it prohibits," Gesell said in the majority opinion. "Any conscientious public servant concerned for the security of his job...must feel continuously in doubt as to what he can do or say politically."

Gesell said the commission has acted responsibly in trying to apply the law. He blamed Congress for not giving the commission authority or sufficient standards to enable the commission to act with clarity. "Our's is not a form of government that will prosper if its citizens, particularly federal servants, must live by the mottos 'Better Be Safe than Sorry' and 'Don't Stick Your Neck Out,'" Gesell wrote.

The Supreme Court has refused to consider any appeals since upholding the Hatch Act twice in 1947.

AT&T Says Charge Of Bias A Bum Rap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the world's largest corporation, charged today it has been "unjustly maligned" by Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) charges of job discrimination.

On Dec. 10, 1970, the commission asked the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to block an AT&T request to raise long distance telephone rates by some $250 million on grounds the company discriminates in the hiring and promotion of women, blacks and Mexican-Americans.

"In its zeal in trying this case against the Bell system, the EEOC has failed to recognize that the primary reason the Bell system exists is to provide communication service to the American public, not merely to provide employment to all comers, regardless of ability," a company official said.

John W. Kingsbury, assistant vice president for human sources development, was the chief witness whose written testimony was filed today with the FCC in rebuttal to the discrimination charges.

AT&T accused the EEOC of "ignoring the realities of the labor market and the company's business of providing good telephone service at reasonable cost."

"If the Bell companies were to act upon the EEOC's opinion that they should require less skill or ability of those they hire, it would be difficult to continue to provide quality service," Kingsbury said.

EEOC has charged that the company which comprises the Bell system, an organization of about 800,000 employees, kept women in much less desirable jobs such as telephone operators and did not train minorities as it did whites.

IRA Vows New Guerrilla Warfare

BELFAST (UPI)—A massive British military presence enforced quiet on former Irish Republican Army (IRA) strongholds throughout Northern Ireland today but an IRA official pledged a new campaign of guerrilla warfare in retaliation.

The largest British military force ever assembled in Northern Ireland—21,000 troops—moved into Belfast, Londonderry and other Ulster towns in armored vehicles at dawn Monday and tore down IRA barricades erected to keep the army from entering the "no go" areas.

The troops met little resistance and the silence throughout the province was broken today only by occasional sniper shots and answering British fire. British troops searching for arms arrested 24 persons but released four after questioning.

Sean MacStiofain, chief of staff of the militant Provisional IRA wing, said in Dublin Monday night that the Provos "in accordance with a prearranged plan" deliberately avoided battle with the British armored task forces.

"This decision was taken to avoid the very heavy civilian casualties that would have occurred if open resistance had been employed," MacStiofain said in a statement.

"Our struggle will continue in accordance with the principles of guerrilla warfare," he said.

An army source said the guerrilla plan would fail.

"Sure, there'll be plenty more sniping and bombing and terrorism but whatever tactics the IRA try, they'll fail," he said. "And if the Irish authorities cooperate, they'll be wiped out."

British army officers said it appeared most IRA gunmen had fled to the Irish Republic and the rest were lying low and making only occasional sniping forays in the newly occupied areas.

This jibed with reports from the Republic which told of Provo retreaters grouping in County Monaghan and the towns of Buncrana and Dundalk.

"MacStiofain's talk of wanting to avoid civilian bloodshed is pure propaganda," a British officer said. "This is classic guerrilla tactic as expounded by Mao Tse-tung—in the face of a superior enemy force, you just retreat."

Novato Man To Face Two Sex Charges

A 22-year-old Novato man has been arrested on suspicion of rape and sex perversion, Novato police reported yesterday.

Steven Rex Hickman of 740 Sunset Parkway, was released on $5,000 bail from Marin County Jail and is scheduled to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

According to Novato police, Hickman met a woman, whom he had been dating for about a month, at awedding Saturday in San Francisco. Instead of taking her to her San Rafael home, he drove her to Novato and he forced her into the house he shares with three other men.

Inside he beat her until she submitted to natural and unnatural sex acts, police reported. The girl reported to police that she screamed, but it did not awaken the other residents of the house.

Westwood Asks Probe Of Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic National Chairman Jean M. Westwood has asked a congressional investigation of the awarding of the space shuttle contract.

She said Monday that five directors of the firm that won the contract, North American Rockwell, contributed to President Nixon's 1968 campaign.

"The award of this contract to North American Rockwell ... raises questions of ethics," she said.

But Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., defended the award of the $2.6 billion space contract. He said it was "not any boondoggle."

Prosecution Not Ready In Hearing

Burglary and car theft charges against Michael Mattson, 21, of no known address have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court because the district attorney was not realy for a preliminary hearing.

However, the district attorney's office said it will refile the charges against Mattson, arrested July 18 on a warrant charging him with breaking into a Kentfield home and stealing a car in San Mateo May 27.

The case against codefendants Arnold Roy Turner, 20, of Pacifica, and Robert Burch Turner, 24, of Burlingame was previously dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

Black Wins Service In Moose Club

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court, ruling Monday in favor of a black state legislative leader, ordered a Harrisburg Moose lodge to serve Negroes on grounds it was a "public accommodation."

The ruling was a victory for state Democratic Majority Leader K. Leroy Irvis, who had argued unsuccessfully against the constitutionality of the organization's bylaws before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The nation's high court, using as a guide state court rulings that Moose Lodge 107 was a private club, ruled against Irvis' argument that the lodge's refusal to serve him violated the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment.

Irvis began his court battle in 1968 when he was refused service at a lodge near the state Capitol although escorted by two members of the club.

He appealed to the Pennsylvania Human Relations Comission, and the U.S. District Court in Harrisburg.

The commission ruled the Moose Club was a "public accommodation," sometimes rented to groups for dinners or parties, and ordered the club to lift a ban on blacks in order to retain a state liquor license.

The commission ruling was overturned in Dauphin County Court and the state Superior Court.

A three judge district court panel ruled the state was participating in discrimination since it had provided the license, but the ruling was reversed in the U.S. Supreme Court decision.

In Monday's action, the state Supreme Court said the lodge cannot be stopped under state laws from discriminating when it sets up qualifications for members.

However, the high court ruled "having gone beyond that point and by making its facilities available to non-members, it may not do so on a discriminatory basis in violation of the Human Relations Act."

Bus Swerves Over Cliff, 24 Killed

SEOUL (UPI)—A bus carrying about 40 people to a summer resort swerved to avoid an oncoming vehicle and tumbled down a cliff into 30 feet of water at the base of a dam near Seoul today, police said.

Police said 24 people were killed and 12 survived the accident at Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

Reports Say Sadat Expelled Russians After Coup Attempt

LONDON (UPI) —Diplomatic reports reaching here said today a section of the Egyptian army rebelled against President Anwar Sadat on May 25, but the power grab failed.

The diplomats said some 1,000 members of the elite "special forces" under Brig. Gen. Samir El-Tanawi took part in the rebellion.

The reports from the Middle East could not be immediately confirmed by government sources here and abroad.

About 10 of the ringleaders, including Tanawi, were arrested, the diplomats said.

The diplomats said the move was believed to be one of the reasons Sadat decided to expel Soviet military advisers from Egypt.

Details of the incident are still not clear but diplomats said there were two versions about the objectives of the rebel troops.

One version said they planned to overthrow Sadat.

The other said they planned to place an ultimatum before the president that he should concede a list of demands. Head of the list was the removal of the Soviet advisers. If Sadat refused the plan was to unseat him from power.

The note said:" The United States, which out one of the two superpowers, gives Israel all the aid that is necessary to encourage it to commit more aggressions...The Soviet Union, which is the other super power, has failed so far to give us the aid that would enable us to liberate occupied lands and regain our rights...

"The time has come to revise the policy of excessive reliance on the Soviet Union...this policy has failed to realize the liberation of the land five years since the defeat took place...the time has come for Egypt to become a security zone between the two super powers, even the major powers...

"An alliance with the devil is not objectionable in itself unless it mainly serves the interests of the devil. This is bound to happen unless the ally is the devils equal."

In a speech in May, Sadat publicly rejected the note and promised it would be made public. It never was because of pressure from the Soviet Embassy.

The diplomats said that early on the morning of May 25, about 50 helicopters, each carrying some 20 fully armed commandos of the "special forces," gathered in the Belbeis area, northeast of Cairo, where there is a major military airfield.

Reports said the troops planned to land at two places—near Sadat's home in the Guizeh suburb of Cairo, and near the radio station.

War Minister Lt. Gen. Mohammed Ahmed Sadek was apparently notified of the situation at Belbeis and immediately took charge in a counteraction.

There was no detail how the rebels were foiled but the diplomats said Tanawi and the ringleaders were arrested and secretly referred to trial.

Tanawi was subsequently replaced by Col. Mahmoud Abdulla.

The diplomats said Sadat obliquely referred to the power move in a major speech July 24 when he talked about his differences with the Soviet Union.

Sadat said he considered, after President Nixon's summit meeting in Moscow, that a" pause with our friend (the Soviet Union) is necessary to talk and be frank."

He then added: "Our differences continued from March 1971 until today. The differences were concealed, although they caused me domestic troubles."

The diplomats said the army move was a factor in the expulsion decision but Russia's reluctance to supply Egypt with advanced weapons was still the main reason Sadat ordered the advisers out.

Jane Fonda Plans Campaign For Peace

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jane Fonda, just back from Hanoi, says she is going to suspend her acting career until after the November elections to work full time in the peace movement.

"Genocide is more important than anyone's career," she said on her return home Sunday when asked about moves under way to boycott her movies because of a broadcast she made from Hanoi. "People that are considered radical today will be considered normal years from today," she said.

PIER DOOMED?

Paul Gorman, 13 (left), and Bill Christmas, 14, both of Tiburon, fish next to the Cove Apartments from a popular pier slated by the county for demolition as part of a flood control project. Its fate will be decided Thursday by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission at 2 p.m. in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco. The state wants a replacement, but the county claims it would be too costly.

5 Areas Get Camino Alto Cost Shares

The Homestead Valley Sanitary District board last night tentatively approved distribution of the cost of the proposed $142,000 Camino Alto Sewer project among the five participating sanitary districts.

According to board member Gustaf F. Wolf, the board's acceptance was conditioned on approval of its district engineer, Edward Nute, and arrangement of financing the district's share of the costs.

The district's share, according to a schedule worked out by Mill Valley City Engineer Stanley M. Bala, would be about $20,300. That figure is based on the district's portion of the total assessed valuation of the land to be benefited by the new pumping station and sewer lines.

The board also scheduled a budget session at 8:30 p.m. Monday in the faculty room of Homestead School.

Building Resembles National Capitol

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Missouri State Capitol, completed in 1918, resembles the national capitol in Washington more than any other statehouse.

Built on a bluff overlooking the Missouri River, it houses many works of art.

No Way To Prevent Moon Mail, Slayton

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Donald K. (Deke) Slayton, boss of the astronaut corps, said today the Space Agency could not prevent the Apollo 15 crew from taking unauthorized envelopes to the moon and later offering them for sale.

The crew never made any money off the $150,000 sale of 99 envelopes but the three astronauts were reprimanded. One crew member, James B. Irwin, retired from the Space Agency effective today.

Slayton, director of flight crew operations at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the incident was "a breakdown in internal discipline.

"That was obviously against the rules," Slayton said. "It should not have happened. You can write four pages of rules to cover it, but it's like someone going out and shooting somebody. There's a law against murder, but that doesn't change anything."

Slayton's comments were his first expanded public statements on the incident.

"When you are going to trust these guys with a few hundred million dollars worth of equipment in about three hours for 10 to 15 days, you have got to have confidence in them; otherwise we are all in the wrong business," Slayton said.

Irwin, David R. Scott and Alfred M. Worden were authorized to take 232 stamped envelopes to the moon but smuggled another 400 aboard their moon ship for the July, 1971, mission. They proposed to establish trust funds for their families in exchange for the envelopes but backed out of the venture.

The Space Agency forbids astronauts to commercially gain from personal items taken into space.

Sen. Clinton M. Anderson, D-N.M., planned a hearing Thursday on the moon mail incident. The Apollo 14 astronauts took 200 silver medals on their 1971 flight but with Slayton's approval.

Ten-Story Fall Kills Woman, 71

A 71-year-old woman, who apparently was pruning a balcony shrub, fell to her death from a 10th story apartment today at the Tamalpais Retirement Residence, Greenbrae.

Laura Freeman Redmond was found on a patio 10 floors below her apartment at 7:10 a.m. by a nurse, county coroner's investigator Keith C. Craig said.

Craig said that when he and Larkspur Police Chief Howard Clark visited Mrs. Redmond's apartment, they found a step ladder leaning against the railing of her balcony.

Near the ladder was a pair of pruning shears and a bucket of prunings next to a tall shrub in a tub. Craig said Mrs. Redmond apparently had been reaching to prune the shrub and fell over the railing.

Governor's Wife To Fill Ellender Post

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Saying women are not involved enough in politics, Gov. Edwin Edwards Tuesday appointed his wife, Elaine, to fill the unexpired term of Sen. Allen J. Ellender.

Ellender, the president pro tempore of the Senate, died Thursday. He was 81.

Edwards said the appointment of his wife to the $42,500 a year job was a "meaningful but symbolic gesture that would indicate my feeling that women are too little involved in public affairs."

Edwards also said he wanted to appoint someone to Ellender's seat who would not be a candidate in the fall, would not use the appointment for personal or political gain and would be willing to resign following the election of Ellender's successor Nov. 7.

Once Ellender's successor is elected, Mrs. Edwards will resign and the governor will immediately appoint the person elected in November to give him a seniority edge over other freshman senators.

Fire Safety Session To Be Saturday

A structural fire which took the life of a 41-year-old Terra Linda housewife on July 17 has sparked a meeting on fire prevention by the Santa Margarita Homeowners Association.

The association will meet Saturday at 10 a.m. in Santa Margarita Valley Park to discuss recent fires, fire prevention and home fire protection, according to Charlotte Schmid, association secretary.

She said that San Rafael Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci will demonstrate fire alarm systems and safety devices as well as mobile equipment.

The fire meeting comes in the wake of the death of Helen M. Wolz, who died in a blaze in her home at 731 Del Ganado Road, and a recent rash of grass fires, Mrs. Schmid said.

Plan Against Busing Near House Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment to outlaw busing for the purpose of school desegregation was cleared for a House vote today by the rules committee.

The action was a victory for antibusing forces, who have been trying for a year to get a House vote on the amendment.

The rules committee vote, if sustained by the House, would remove the amendment from the judiciary committee, where it has been bottled up and permit an immediate House vote.

The rules committee postponed until next week action on another antibusing bill — President Nixon's proposal to prohibit any new federal court busing orders until next July 1.

The committee decided on the postponement so as to wait to see what happens in the House Education and Labor Committee on still a third anti-busing proposition.

The latter bill would set guidelines for the federal courts to follow in overcoming unlawful school segregation that prohibit crosstown busing of elementary school children.

Nuclear Steel Mill

TOKYO (UPI) — The Japanese government said today it will try to build the world's first nuclear powered steel mill by 1979, and earmarked $25 million for research on the project.

Garage Sale U.S.A.

(If we have it in stock, you get it on sale.)

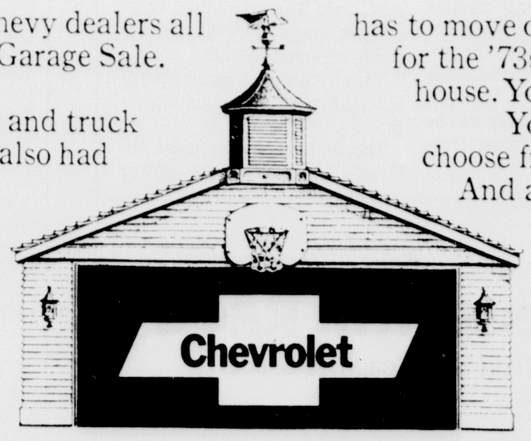
Remember, buckling your seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with.

Last year over 6000 Chevy dealers all across America had one big Garage Sale.
It was a big success.
Because every new car and truck they had in inventory, they also had on sale.
So they're doing it again this year. Right now, in fact.
And it's your best chance of the year to save on a new Chevrolet.
Because your dealer has to move out all his '72s to make room for the '73s. (He gets a chance to clean house. You get a chance to clean up.)
You'll find a good selection to choose from. In all shapes and sizes. And all priced to go.
So see your friendly neighborhood Chevy dealer now while his Garage Sale is going on. See how much you can save. Then go and see some of the U.S.A.



Building a better way to see the U.S.A.

NOVATO DAY CAMP

Children Learn About Surroundings

By DOROHY NEWELL

Ten eager youngsters arrived yesterday morning at Pioneer Memorial Park for another week of activity at the day camp sponsored by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department.

Before they began their project for the day one of the youngsters went down to Novato Creek and came back with a bottle of sticklebacks, a type of minnow.

"I scared them into the bottle," he said. But it wasn't long before he took them back and released them.

The youngsters, ages 7 to 12, are given a variety of programs including nature study, hiking, fishing, archery and trips, but on this Monday morning they were engaged in arts and crafts. Most of the youngsters wanted to try decoupage — cutting pictures from magazines and gluing them to boards and varnishing them — while three of the youngsters made octopuses out of bright yarn.

After their projects were finished, John Howard, a parttime employee with the department, asked the youngsters if they would like to take a walk to the creek, but it wasn't long before they came back laughing, as they were told by a woman across the creek that they were trespassing on private property. John soon found another game to keep them busy. Using bits of clay as darts, they tried to hit the center of a figure on the side of the black cement pool.

The day camp program will continue for another three weeks. Parents bring the children to the park at 10 a.m. and pick them up at 3 p.m. They bring their own lunches. Residents are charged $7 per week per child and non-residents $9 per child.

Mrs. Virginia Burbank, who is employed in Novato but lives in Petaluma, has three children attending the day camp this summer. She said she has sent her children to several summer camps, but the day camp in Novato is really offering much more than any of the other programs. She said the youngsters are eager to go to the camp each day.

"Young people are in charge of the program and really relate to the youngsters," she said.

Included in the cost of the program are several excursions with all other youngsters in the parks and recreation department. They have been on a ferry boat ride, to a Giants baseball game and during the final week of camp, Aug. 14 to 18, they will attend the ice follies.

Trudi George, student at California State College, Sonoma, is director of the daycamp. She hopes to teach when she is graduated from college.

I really like working with the kids," she said. "It's a great experience."

She told of one of the most enjoyable excursions when they all hiked out to Stafford Dam in Novato and the youngsters went fishing, caught 15 bluegills and had a barbecue. She said they barbecued hamburgers and sent the fish home with the youngsters.

The day camp can accommodate 20 youngsters, she added, and hoped that more youngsters will sign up for the final two weeks.

Two other young persons who work at the day camp, Karen Johnson and Larry Lee, will both be seniors at Novato High School this fall.

Hope's The Word In Cancer Nursing

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The names they hold out carry the invisible message of hope. For hope is what it's all about where a special group of student nurses has been working this summer.

The nurses, 25 in all, are part of the American Cancer Society's (ACS) work-study program for collegiate nursing students at New York's Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases. The program is in its third year.

"What I believe is what's already been said, where there's life, there's hope," said Katherine Hopkins, 21, a Boonton, N.J. girl who will graduate next June from the Wagner College School of Nursing in Staten Island, N.Y. "Most of the patients I worked with believe they're going to live."

"I had to develop a whole philosophy of hope," said Kathleen Dietz, 20, a New Yorker who will graduate next June from Boston College. "But I started working with cancer patients at an age where it probably was easier for me."

SHE HAS BEEN a weekend and summer volunteer since her sophomore days in high school.

What Miss Dietz revealed further in an interview was that three of her grandparents had died of the disease. When she graduates she will specialize in nursing cancer patients and hopes to return to Memorial.

Hope is what the American Cancer Society holds out to the victims of what is the nation's second greatest killer (heart and other circulatory diseases are number one).

ACS says more and more patients are walking out of the hospital—an estimated 1.5 million persons cured. ACS counts as cured those free of all symptoms of the disease five years after treatment is finished.

Its program of work-study for collegiate nursing students also went on this summer at Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, and the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md.

Some of the students, like Miss Dietz and Patricia Funk, who will graduate next year from Northern Illinois University School of Nursing in DeKalb, want to specialize in cancer care. Others like Miss Hopkins aren't sure yet whether they'll go into general nursing or specialize.

FOR THOSE already certain of their direction, Miss Funk sums up some of the reasons thusly: "I've worked in a 500-bed hospital at home and when it came to cancer patients, none of the people I worked with wanted to care for a cancer patient two days in a row. I said to myself, 'There has got to be a better way.'"

Whatever their futures, the young women all must feel as Miss Hopkins puts it: "In this type of duty, you have to develop a lot in yourself, how to cope with your own emotions. I know that I grew up a lot this summer."

For make no mistake. This is difficult work. This summer, these young people cared for patients who'd lost their voices and parts of their bodies to the disease, coped with emotional families, with demanding medical specialists trying to do a Herculean job and, yes, with death.

Youth is hope, but it takes a special kind of youth to do this special type of nursing. The girls found it hard to put into words the qualities. But you don't run away.

"There is so much you can do to offer friendship," said Miss Funk.

MISS DIETZ said her friends sometimes ask how she can do the work. "I suppose," she said, "We're being humanitarian.

"One thing you have to be is honest. Know what you're talking about. Be yourself. If you're not, the patient can sense it.

"I wish the laymen had not given the word cancer a horrible stigma. Remember, the role of doctors and nurses is to cure."

Money From POW Bracelets Is Used In Variety Of Ways

HELEN AND SUE:

Thanks for telling us where to send for POW bracelets, but here's a question several people asked me: How does the money from sales help?

Money alone won't get these men out of prison camps. — CONCERNED ABOUT OUR POWS

CONCERNED:

True, we can't "buy" our POWs' release, but bracelet money helps keep the public (including Hanoi) aware of their plight and our will to bring them home.

We sent your question to a VIVA executive who answered it as follows:

"Having been informed of the tragic situation with our American POW-MIAs, VIVA chose in October, 1970, to set aside all other activities and concentrate solely on the solution of this problem until all prisoners are freed.

"Here are some of the projects financed by bracelet sales:

"1. VIVA gave a national symposium for POW-MIA families from all over the country so that they might plan and organize National POW-MIA Week.

"2. It placed ads with a clip-out letter to Congress in 70 major newspapers.

"3. VIVA buys advertising space on 25 million match books per month, which inform people of the POW-MIA plight.

"4. It helps POW-MIA family groups whenever there is a need.

"5. It has information inserted in college newspapers to reach over two million students.

"6. It supplies materials, arranges for speakers, and helps plan approximately 250 POW-MIA programs a week in schools, shopping centers, conventions, etc.

"7. VIVA answers some 2,000 written requests for literature, etc. per day. It receives and forwards at least 100 letters a day from citizens to family members. These not only boost family morale, but also will be meaningful to men who return after years of hearing the enemy say that Americans don't care.

"8. It will provide funds, when justified, to establish offices in cities which are directing a POW-MIA efforts, i.e. pay rent or salary of the office manager."

Mainly, "Concerned," your bracelet money insures that the country will not forget.

POW bracelets may be had by sending a donation of $2.50 (for nickel) or $3.00 (for copper) to VIVA, 10966 Le Conte, Los Angeles, Calif., 90024, or POW-MIA Campaign, 2053 "R" Street, McClellan Air Force Base, Calif., 95652. — HELEN AND SUE

DEAR RAP:

What's your definition of "gossip," and what's the difference between gossiping and being painfully frank? Which is preferable? — STUDENT OF HUMAN NATURE

DEAR STUDENT:

Gossip is what you wouldn't say if the person were there. "Painful frankness" is saying it when the person is there.

I think we could do without both! — SUE

DEAR SOHN:

Gossip — among women — is repeating something which, if said to a girl's face, might bring a slap. Among men? Well, they call it "informative discussion."

When a person brags about being "painfully frank" he's usually saying, "I'm envious," whether he realizes it or not.

In fact, both gossiping and hurtful frankness often stem from the urge to bring others low; but I think the latter is the more vicious. — HELEN

P.S. Come to think of it, a little gossip isn't such a bad thing — it livens a conversation, provides good reading, and shows that we're still interested in someone besides ourselves. If it were suddenly banned, the world would seem pretty dull. — HELEN AND SUE

(GOT A PROBLEM? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel —or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

HEAD'S HUNTERS: Josef Head's den, designed with Tyndale furniture and accessories, makes full use of today's back-to-the-source thinking. Wood floors have been stenciled with bold decorative motifs and one wall is covered with no-nonsense rough boarding.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Back-To-The-Source Has Come To Home Furnishings

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Whether it's done tongue-in-cheek or in a straightforward manner, there's a definite back-to-the-source movement in furnishings. And in most cases the source being restored is wood in its natural or near-natural state.

Almost every major manufacturer is making an effort to strip down at least one group of furniture and it's hard for some of the workmen to switch over. For years they've been rubbing and polishing wood pieces until every imperfection was obliterated. If they hadn't, some inspector would spot it and send the piece back for refinishing.

Strangely, now it's the production chief who has to keep explaining to the finishers that each piece needn't be so picture-book perfect. One manufacturer has really wonderful craftsmen who keep filling holes made by beetles in a new wood that's being used. But the manufacturer wants the beetle holes as they are.

Sometimes the natural theme is merely a fun one as in the room setting designed by Josef Head for Tyndale. Some of the pieces made by Tyndale are totally contemporary and slick and are made of chrome and glass.

Others include a collection of porcelain lamps in great colors, reproductions of Oceanian artifacts and a variety of animal horns.

FOR HIS sparsely furnished lion's den, Head used a trio of chrome tables against an all-wood interior. Rough-sawed walls are perfect for the collector who likes to change or add to displays of artifacts, and wood-plank floors can be painted with bright graphic designs in an easy-care way.

For a special bit of humor, Head had the bed wall painted with images of his ancestors in their very best finery. Colors are deep brown, blood-red and natural and the raised platform area for the bed has been covered and curtained in an Indian batik fabric that has been dyed a matching blood-red.

It's the kind of room young people could create and in so doing, learn a lot about individuality. Head believes that rooms conformed to a certain formula — bed, chair, chest — are deadly dull and part of the reason so many youngsters take off for parts unknown.

Article Notes Health Careers

Health careers that call for little or no formal studying are discussed in an article by Arthur S. Freese in Seventeen Magazine's August issue.

According to the article, the field where good jobs are waiting is in the paramedical or health professions. These jobs call for only a high school diploma and perhaps two years of college or an associate's degree.

Among the 200 different jobs in the health field are water pollution control technician, dental laboratory technician, radiologic technologist, hospital computer programmer, inhalation therapist and electrocardiographic technician.

Penologists Admit It's Time For Many Changes

By JACK WAUGH
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — "One of the quickest ways I know," an ex-California inmate says, "to tell that an institution just ain't no good at all is when you have to start reforming its reforms."

Not in 100 years has the cry to reform the reforms in American prisons been as intense as it is today.

Indeed, in the wake of the cell-block riots of the early 1970s in Attica, in Rahway, N.J., in Soledad, in San Quentin, in Pontiac, Mich., the prison-reform movement is taking its most abrupt turn since U.S. prisons were first shaped by the Quaker conscience in Pennsylvania nearly two centuries ago.

The cry is not simply to change a system that does not work. It is a cry to dismantle the existing system itself; It challenges the very existence of prisons as we know them.

This call is not coming just from the radical fringes of the U.S. prison-reform movement. It is the overriding message that is about to issue from a conference of 54 of the country's most concerned and knowledgeable students of the American penal and criminal justice systems. The 54 met in Cambridge, Mass., under the sponsoring arm of the Roscoe Pound American Trial Lawyers Foundation in early June. Their findings are now in the process of final drafting.

Prison itself was born as a reform. The Quakers in Pennsylvania in the late 1700's saw it as a way not only to protect society from the criminal, but to make him penitent, and in some way to save both him and the society he had wronged.

Before that a criminal was flogged, fined, banished, or hung. It was a good intention that went wrong. For almost immediately the prison ideal turned sour. Prisons became high-walled isolation wards where men were not only confined, but brutalized and dehumanized. They became simply cages for society's human castoffs.

A constant round of tinkering with the system has followed, with cycle after cycle of reform. Probation and parole measures have been wrought and then changed; indeterminate sentences were instituted, halfway houses built, and convict self-government tried, all in the name of reform.

But by 1972, some 180 years after the first prisons in America were built, criminologist Gresham Sykes was saying that all the reforms "may not have made a whit's bit of difference. There is not hard evidence that they have."

One hundred years ago the nation's foremost prison reformers met in Cincinnati as the first National Prison Association and adopted a declaration of principles, which became a guideline for modern penal reform.

The declaration said: Make reformation, not vindictive suffering, the rule of inmate treatment; modernize prisoner classification; reward a prisoner for good conduct; stop making corrections jobs political, since that is the chief obstacle to reform; train prison officers, and remove disparities and inequities in prison sentences.

It said a prisoner should be disciplined so as to win his goodwill and preserve his self-respect; prisons should make for industrious freemen, not orderly, obsequious, and obedient prisoners; prisons should be small, with like offenders put with like; the law should lock up "higher-ups" in crime as well as lesser operatives; there should be a more judicious exercise of the pardoning power; there should be better prison architecture geared to humanity and inhabitation; prison management should be centralized; prisoners should get social training by proper association; and society at large should be made to relize that it is responsible for crime, too.

Today criminologist Hans Mattick of the University of Chicago gazes at the list of reforms and says, "They haven't been realized yet in 90 per cent of the institutions."

And the meeting of reformers at the recent Roscoe Pound conference in Cambridge went far beyond the Cincinnati guidelines.

Among the participants were lawyers, law professors, criminologists, journalists, wardens, law-enforcement officers, prison psychiatrists, judges, prosecutors, defenders, and federal state, and county level administrators of penal programs. F. Lee Bailey (the defense attorney), William J. Vanden Heuvel (chairman of the New York City Board of Corrections), and Dr. E. Preston Sharp (general secretary of the American Correctional Association) attended.

While the precise contours of its findings are not yet releasable, the hours of discussion out of which they were forged rang with talk that goes far beyond any reform practiced today or seriously recommended.

Voice after voice in Cambridge sharply questioned the basic value of imprisonment itself as we know it now.

The bold reforms likely to surface in the findings of the Cambridge conference may not be implemented soon — or ever. But the fact that they are being talked about now by penal reformers of the stature and credibility of the 54 at Cambridge is a sign of the times; that prison reform so revolutionary that it threatens the institution of prison as we know it today is afoot in the country — and gaining ground.

Gerhard O. W. Mueller, New York University law professor, said that not only should a man be proved guilty, and assumed innocent until he was, but also that imprisonment must be proved necessary and resorted to only when there is no other recourse. And the conferees nodded agreement.

Herman Schwartz, professor of law at the State University of New York at Buffalo, said flatly that "our strategy must be to abolish prisons as we know them." And there was pardly a murmur of dissent.

The conference appeared to agree that there would still be prisons for those who committed major crimes, but that they would be very different from the massive, high-walled behemoths of today. They would be modern and, if possible, "cageless" institutions where an inmate's problem is dealt with as just that — a problem.

Caleb Foote, professor of law and criminology at the University of California at Berkeley, called for such reforming of reforms as abolishing the bail system, and doing away with pretrial detention of all but the most dangerous of mass murderers. The rest of the conference took up the cry. The idea would virtually abolish county jails.

And reforms long governing prison life fell under heavy fire. What for 50 years has been considered the most enlightened of reforms — the indeterminate sentence — got rough handling.

Designed originally to reward the model prisoner and set him free early, indeterminate sentencing became in many cases a weapon to punish the difficult prisoner and keep him behind bars indefinitely. Most of the 54 experts meeting in Cambridge wanted a return to the determinate sentence, coupled with uniform and equitable sentencing guidelines, which would do away completely with arbitrary parole boards.

The conference may couple this with a call for far shorter sentences for all crimes, on grounds that when "doing time" stretches into many years, it becomes self-defeating.

Another call likely to emerge in the final findings of the Cambridge conference will be for a drastic "decriminalizing" of the law. This means an end to making behavior that does not involve force, violence, fraud, or attacks on property a criminal offense punishable by going to prison. For instance: alcoholism, drug addiction, homosexuality, adult-consenting sexual acts, prostitution, and gambling.

Meanwhile, the prisoner has some obligations, too, it was felt.

There was a call to return to practices that antedated prisons themselves — such as financial restitution to the victims of crime by the criminal, rather than by the society at large.

It was also said the fines should be used to bring home to prisoners their necessity to pay back at least some of the damage they had caused. Fines, of course, were also known before prisons were ever used as a widescale "remedy."

MUSIC REVIEW

Silent Films Take On New Dimension With Synthesizer

By ROBERT M. NESS

Silent films took on a new dimension at last night's "Live and Electric Sounds with Early Silent Films" presented by composer George Burt and ragtime pianist Fae McNally to a small audience at Dominican College's Angelico Hall.

Unlike many avant-garde happenings, this one was happily devoid of esoteric experimentalism. Multimedia presentations often attempt to scatter the audience intake facilities to the point where total confusion seems to be the artistic goal. Last night's ragtime piano and electronic music synthesizer were carefully integrated into the dramatic situation of the films.

To be sure, the justification for the revival of the early silent film lies more in the reevaluation of the film art than in nostalgia. The accomplishments of men like Charlie Chaplin within the limitations of the early film industry are probably more appreciated today than when first released.

There is no justification — except possibly nostalgia — for the revival of that tiresome melodramatic formula piano improvisation that traditionally accompanied these films.

Composer Burt has replaced it with background music that not only enhances, but becomes an integral part of the film.

While maintaining the improvisatory element, he has precisely formulated the sound to the action through electronic means. The basic structure is always the same, yet he can embellish and modify according to the hall, his mood, the audience, or what have you. The result is astounding.

"The New York Hat", a film dating from 1912, was almost entirely accompanied by the synthesizer. The moment when gossip was spreading through the town was especially effectively realized in the music. Most successful, though, was "The Rink", an hilarious 1916 Charlie Chaplin comedy.

Here the amazing piano artistry of McNally was set agaist qudsi-imitative electric sounds beautifully expressing the helterskelter action of the film.

Sausalito To Consider New Subdivision Map

A tentative map for a 204-unit subdivision on 160 acres of Sausalito's Wolfback Ridge again will be considered by the city council at 8 p.m. today.

The council last month asked developers Edward R. Fitzsimmons and Frank Lynch to revise heir subdivision map, incorporating changes recommended by the council, the planning commission and the city's open space committee.

The groups have suggested the land could be developed as long as certain natural features —springs, knolls, ridge lines and trees — are preserved.

The council also will hold a public hearing on the city's action to force residents of two dilapidated barges on the Sausalito waterfront to vacate the structures. The city considers the quarters unsafe.

City Atty. Leland H. Jordan was to have gone to court today to seek warrants for the arrest of anyone who has not yet moved from the barges. If the warrants are obtained, the city planned to arrest any remaining barge residents who had not left by this afternoon.

Deadline for vacating the structures was 8 a.m. Friday, but the city decided to give the residents a few more days to move and take no action against them until today.

Northeast-Delta Merger Finished

ATLANTA (UPI)—The merger of Northeast Airlines into Atlanta-based Delta Air Lines became official today even though court litigation has not been fully settled.

The Civil Aeronautics Board has approved the merger and the U.S. Court of Appeals, in a majority decision, declined to block the proposal as requested by Eastern Airlines and National Airlines.

However, the court has given parties in the case until Aug. 17 to file briefs.

Delta, the nation's fifth largest airline, has been one of the most successful, while Northeast, which is based in Boston, has been plagued by financial problems.

PRAYING FOR DELIVERANCE

These villagers carry religious images as they make their way through thigh-deep water in San Jose, Philippine Islands, in a religious procession praying for relief from the area's worst flood in memory. Rain should continue for two more days as the floods have spread over 300 miles of southern Luzon, including Manila. The unofficial death toll from drowning, landslides, diseases and snake attacks stood at 327. (UPI Telephoto)

'Hijack Family' In Algiers

ALGIERS (UPI)—Five hijackers who "believed that money destroys people" exchanged 87 passengers for a record $1 million ransom Monday then forced the crew of a Delta Air Lines jet to fly them and their children to Algeria today.

Airport security police surrounded the plane, which was Flight 841 with a total of 101 persons aboard when it was commandeered during a Detroit to Miami flight, as it rolled to a stop at Dar El Beida airport at 3:19 a.m. EDT.

Representatives from the Algerian Foreign Ministry, police and customs immediately went aboard. Foreign journalists were kept from approaching the plane.

Representatives of the Algiers office of the American Black Panther Party, including its chief, Peter O'Neill, and his recently deposed predecessor, Eldridge Cleaver, were among the crowd watching the arrival of the hijacked DC8.

Shortly after the arrival, Panther sources identified the hijackers as members of the BlackLiberation Army, military arm of the Panthers.

In Barcelona, Spain, the airport commander, Col. Ramon Escude, said the Algiers airport advised him the Delta airliner took off at 6:15 a.m. EDT for Barcelona where the aircraft will stop over for 24 hours to give the crew of seven a rest and to refuel before returning to the United States.

Edward Keller, economic officer for the U.S. diplomatic mission in Algiers, said he believed the Algerian government would return the 81 million. "It would be the logical step," he said. "After all, it is stolen money."

When a plane was last hijacked to Algeria, a favorite haven of American radicals, the Algerian government returned the $500,000 ransom to the United States but refused the U.S. request to extradite the hijackers.

Algerian officials indicated that they may refuse a request for asylum if one is made. Such a refusal would be a rarity.

One Algerian source hinted at a possible refusal when he said, "Algeria has given and will always give asylum to a refugee or a political opponent, but it is also evident that a gangster who demands money through threats does not belong to this category of men persecuted for political activities."

The DC8, four-engine jet was seized by the three men and two women—who had two children with them—as it approached Orlando, Fla.

When it landed at Miami Internatioal Airport, two FBI agents dressed only in swimming trunks at the hijackers' orders brought a small suitcase containing the ransom hurriedly gathered in $100 and $50 bills to the jet.

As the craft sat at the remote edge of a runway in the blazing Florida sun, one of the agents tied the suitcase to a rope dangling from the plane and the hijackers hoisted it aboard.

Only then did the hijackers let the passengers get off. They had brusquely rejected the FBI suggestion that they take half the money, release the passengers, then get the other half.

Soon afterward, with the hijackers, the children and the four-man, three-woman crew still on board, the four-engine jet took off for Boston.

There, while FBI agents and police sharpshooters kept their distance, a worker in swimming trunks pumped 13,800 gallons of fuel onto the plane for the 3,300-mile flight to Algeria. An hour later the plane took off for that North African nation where Cleaver and several other American radicals have been granted political asylum.

The FBI in Detroit identified the hijackers as: Melvin and Jean McNair, Larry Burgess, Joyce Tillerson and Harry Singleton. The McNairs' child and the Tillerson woman's daughter Kenya also were on the plane, the FBI said.

All of them had been living in a bare, one-story house on Detroit's East Side for about a year, neighbors said.

Jim Moss, who lived next door, said the black hijackers "were very strange people but very intelligent....They weren't prejudiced. They believed that money destroys people."

In the living room of the hijackers' communal home, posters adorned the walls, including one which said, "Fly Delta's big jet." A black mound of dirt symbolizing a grave was in the middle of the living room floor. On top of the dirt sat a small, white, rubber doll stabbed through the middle with a red-handled knife.

A headstone at one end of the mound bore a Bible open to chapter three of Isaiah—a chapter which speaks of destruction and corruption.

Moss, 20, said he and his brother Bob, 16, frequently visited the hijackers' home. "They got so they didn't believe in language," he said. They believed in astro projection. I mean they could communicate a thought to you and you would understand.

"They believed that white people believed in only two things —themselves and the dollar." The burial plot, he theorized, was "a symbol of the death of white society."

His mother, Mrs. Ethel Moss, said, "They didn't seem like the kind of people that would do something like that.. They were just upright people. They didn't look like revolutionaries or anything."

Harry Luke, a cab driver who took the male hijackers to Detroit Metropolitan Airport, said one of the men was dressed as a priest.

The ransom was the largest ever handed over in 18 ransom hijackings in the United States.

Welfare Recipients Placed By Program

BERKELEY (UPI) —A program for placing former welfare recipients in jobs is meeting success at the University of California at Berkeley.

Ramon Flores said 75 persons are currently being trained under a federally funded program and that the attrition rate is less than the national average.

He said a similar program in 1970 placed 240 former welfare recipients in special training classes for laboratory, technical, gardening, mechanical and custodial jobs.

Prison Uprising Ends Quickly

WINDSOR, Vt. (UPI)—Inmates of the Vermont State Prison overpowered two guards Monday and released 60 fellow prisoners from their cells. The situation was quickly brought under control after inmates presented a list of grievances.

The incident occurred as men were returning from an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting, but apparently had been brewing for some time.

The prisoners returned to their cells early Monday evening, after releasing the hostages unharmed.

A five-man committee representing the prisoners put before prison authorities a list of grievances, including guard treatment and visitation rights.

The state authorities agreed to review the complaints, and filed no charges.

Kissinger Continues Secret Peace Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, met in Paris today to continue his secret peace negotiations with North Vietnamese delegates, the White House announced.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler issued a one-paragraph statement announcing the meeting but gave no additional details.

The White House statement said: "Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, assistant to the President for national security affairs, is meeting today in Paris with special adviser Le Duc Tho and Minister Xuan Thui of the North Vietnamese delegation to the peace talks.

"We expect Dr. Kissinger to return to Washington tonight."

It was Kissinger's 15th private session with Tho and the first since July 19. It was the second time the White House had announced a meeting while it was in progress. Other sessions were not disclosed until much later.

Kissinger was expected to report to Nixon after his return from Paris.

The regular sessions of the peace talks will continue as scheduled on Thursday. In those meetings, U. S. Ambassador William Porter is negotiating with Tho, Thui and officials of the Viet Cong.

Ziegler refused to answer any questions about the substance of the Kissinger talks, declining even to say when he left Washington for Paris. However, Kissinger conferrred with .Nixon Monday morning before the President left the White House to attend the funeral of Sen.Allen Ellender in Louisiana.

At his news conference last week, the President said the chances of a negotiated end to the Vietnam fighting are better than they have ever been. He promised renewed efforts to settle the conflict beforethe November election.

Vandals pushed the vehicle into the ditch sometime Sunday, according to police reports. There was no estimate of damage to the massive roller or the fence. (Independent-Journal photo)

On-Ramp Meters Planned For Highway 101 In Marin

To dilute the river of commute traffic, the State Division of Highways intends to install a metering system of traffic lights on all Highway 101 on-ramps from the Greenbrae interchange south to the Golden Gate Bridge.

The system won't be set up for at least two years, said Susan Cowan, information officer for District IV of the State Division of Highways.

Traffic studies are now being made in Marin to determine the kind of installation necessary.

Known as "on-ramp metering," it will be a highly sophisticated version of devices that have been working for nearly a year on 101 in San Jose.

The highway spokesman said electronic sensors buried in the road bed will inform a central computer of traffic fluctuations and the computer will, in turn, operate the traffic lights installed on the on-ramps.

The lights delay vehicles entering the freeway until gaps in traffic can accommodate them. Although delays on the ramps may be for some minutes, highway engineers said, the travel time for the over-all traffic stream-freeway, ramps and city streets is actually reduced.

In practice, the metering will probably come into effect only during the heavy mornng commute hours, said Miss Cowan. Engineers have decided to install the system in Marin only on the southbound side, since the homecoming traffic problem is not one of getting on the freeway, but of getting off — "and traffic lights would be no solution there."

She said engineers predict it will take nine months to put in the metering system in Marin county, with minimal disruption to traffic.

The question of back-up traffic on feeder roads to the ramps may come up in Marin, she agreed.

"In terms of storage capacity on the ramps it is intended to widen ramps," she said. "But if lights were needed also on the feeder roads this would have to be worked out with local authorities.

"If the metering installation should change the traffic pattern on local raods, the division would pay for necessary changes."

Freeway traffic control systems are not new — a central surveillance system linked to a computer has been in operation in Southern California for some time — but ramp metering was tried for the first time in the Bay Area in Santa Clara county.

The San Jose ramp metering has been operating on a time-clock basis, but a computerized system will shortly be installed.

Engineers predict that the lessons learned from the San Jose experiment will enable them to put in a system for Marin with all the wrinkles ironed out.

Group Will Protest To Federal Officials

A group of Marin City residents — rebuffed last night in their attempt to be recognized as the official advisory committee to the Marin County Redevelopment agency — planned to take their case to the Department of Housing and Urban Development in San Francisco today. 29-member group, headed by LeeVella Bland, contends it is the legal project area committee to advise the agency in redevelopment matters. Members were chosen last week at a community meeting.

But the agency board, which two weeks ago approved the size and form of the advisory committee and decided which community organizations should have seats on the panel, does not recognize Miss Bland's committee.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the redevelopment agency, refused to turn over office space and funds reserved for the official comittee.

Shepherd reiterated that the agency is still willing to hold a community-wide election to choose the committee to insure that it is truly representative of the Marin City community. But Miss Bland contends her group is representative of Marin City residents and that no election is needed.

The 11-member advisory panel approved by the agency bard includes four members from the Marin City Council, three from Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association, one from the Ministers' Alliance and one from the community's commercial area.

Although the council representatives have not yet been chosen, the other organizations sent these delegates to last night's meeting: Juanita Cobb, Mack Page and Leonard Turner, homeowners; Arthur Miller and Ollie Griffin, services district; Rev. E. D. Perkins, ministers, and Daniel Hayden, commercial area.

Shepherd said todq he is convinced the agency has acted legally,in accordance with HUD regulations, in setting the makeup of the area committee.

Miss Bland said her group would go to HUD today to attempt to get HUD officials to force the agency to recognize it as the official project area committee.

Hub Area Is Plagued By Fire Problem

A firebug is loose in Sleepy Holiow, according to San Anselmo Fire Chief Francis A. Sousa.

He said that two fires which broke out in the unincorporated area yesterday were probably set by incendiarists.

Someone poured a can of gasoline down the driveway of Gerald L. Moran at 12:17 a.m. and ignited it, the chief said. That blaze was put out with little damage, he said.

But another fire, which was reported at 9:55 p.m., burned 10 acres of grass and brush at 375 Faun Drive.

"We've had eight or nine fires in that area in the past week," Sousa said. "I think its probably a juvenile gang up there igniting these fires."

Most of the fires have occurred in the grasslands behind Hidden Valley School and off of Faun Drive, he said.

He urged residents to record the license numbers of any cars in the vicinity and to alert the San Anselmo Fire Department or the Marin County Sheriff's Department.

Narrow Approval For Blinking-Signs Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill removing the prohibition against some types of blinking electronic signs alongside California freeways was narrowly approved Monday by the Senate.

The measure by Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, was returned to the Assembly for concurrence in amendments on a 22-12 vote, one more than it needed.

Under the bill, the blinking display would have to be located on the property of the business being advertised and at least 660 feet from the highway. Such signs commonly are used to display the time and the temperature.

Puccinelli Named To Water District Post

Hector P. Puccinelli, supt. of construction and maintenance and assistant chief engineer for the Marin Municipal Water District, has been appointed special assistant general manager for the district, according to Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger.

In the new post, Puccinelli will direct and coordinate operations of four district divisions created under an organizational realignment earlier this year. They are the construction and maintenance, land management. treatment and distribution and engineering divisions.

Seeger said the new job, which involves no change in salary, has been established on a temporary basis and will probably be terminated when Puccinelli retires in September of 1973. Puccinelli's main job will be to oversee the start of the new organizational alignment, Seeger said.

The 64-year-old Puccinelli joined the district as an assistant engineer in October of 1955. He was appointed superintendent of construction in 1964 and named to his current post in August of 1967.

He and his wife live at 47 Belmont Avenue in Fairfax. The couple has two grown children.

Policeman Injured In Patrol Car Accident

A 28-year-old Sausalito policeman suffered minor injuries yesterday when his patrol car slammed into a traffic signal pole on the way to an emergency call.

Officer Stephen Willis was eastbound on Johnson Street about 2:35 p.m., on the way to an injury accident at the north end of town, when the crash occurred. Officers said Willis's unit, with its red lights and siren going, swerved to avoid a car at Johnson and Bridgeway and struck the newly installed standard.

Willis was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut on the face and a sprained neck. The police car sustained heavy front end damage.

Police said the driver of the other car northbound on Bridgeway, had entered the intersection at the same time as Willis and was guilty of no violation. The auto was not stopped, according to officers.

Berry Goes To Court To Set Aside Recount

Marin City electrician Jesse E. Berry yesterday filed suit in Marin Superior Court to set aside a ballot recount in which he lost a seat earlier won on the Sausalito School board.

Through his attorney, Robert A. Thompson, Berry said county election officials who conducted the recount improperly disallowed ballots, causing Sausalito housewife Judith Silver to win the seat.

In the July 18 election Berry won with 698 votes to Mrs. Silver's 696. The recount, asked by Mrs. Silver, showed her winning by 691 to 684.

In his suit, which named Mrs. Silver and County Clerk George N. Gnoss as defendants, Berry claimed election officers failed to segregate the ballots declared invalid and "commingled" them with the rest so a judge cannot now examine them.

Berry seeks a court order declaring the recount illegal and invalid.

No date has been set for a hearing on the matter.

In the meantime, no one has been seated to fill the board vacancy.

Black Caucus Asks Syphilis Reparations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 13-member congressional black caucus believes reparations should be paid to the families and victims of a government experiment on syphilis.

The House group in a statement Monday urged that "everyone responsible for these hideous acts of crime be brought to justice."

The members of Congress referred to the disclosure last week that the U.S. Public Health Service began a syphilis study 40 years ago in which 400 black men afflicted with the disease were denied penicillin after the drug was developed.

"The overall effects of this immoral revelation extend far beyond the lifelong sufferings of myriad black families and their unborn offspring," the statement said. "It poignantly reflects the deflated value that white people have historically placed upon black lives."

Five North Bay TB Groups Join

Tuberculosis associations in the five northern Bay Area counties have consolidated to form orm the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of the Redwood Empire.

The local group is now known as the Marin Branch of the association, according to secretary Lilian Simpson, with the branch office remaining at 206 Bon Air Shopping Center, Greenbrae. The association headquarters is in Santa Rosa.

Local vice president is Elizabeth Manning Deedy, and Marin programs are run by a 14-member committee, reported Mrs. Simpson.

The consolidation, she explained, came in order to cut down on professional staff costs.

Bill Would Raise Minimum Sentence

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill raising the minimum sentence for first degree murder from seven to 14 years was approved Monday on a 25-0 vote by the Senate.

The measure by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, was sent to the Assembly without debate.

Under current law, a person convicted of first degree murder is eligible for parole after seven years. The bill would raise the term to 14 years.

Cost-Cutting Suggestion

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly has voted final approval to a $32,440 award to Fred Clawson, a state employe who saved the California Water Project about $868,00 annually by suggesting technical improvements on the water system.

No Action On Growth Plan For Petaluma

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Petaluma's environmental design plan to limit growth was presented yesterday to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors for approval and was kicked to the county planning commission for a detailed study.

Mayor Helen Putnam said she had hoped the supervisors would at least endorse the general policy of growth control, but the entire plan was sent to planners without comment or directions from the board.

She and planning consultant Corwin Mocine explained the plan to limit growth to 500 living units per year and urged that the county cooperate by also restricting growth on the city's perimeter.

Mrs. Putnam said the supervisors agreed they have adequate controls over subdivisions in the county area, but said applications for lot splits which bring subdivision-type developments in small increments would still cause a problem.

Supervisor Philip L. Joerger of Petaluma said he had reservations about the plan and many unanswered questions, but did not say what they were.

Carnival In Novato To Be Fund-Raiser

A neighborhood carnival will be held Aug. 20 at 55 Gustafson Court in Novato in order to raise funds for research and patient programs of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

Louis Block, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Block of Novato, will serve as ringmaster.

The carnival will begin at 11 a.m. and will feature games, booths and a food sale.

Last year, young Block's carnival netted $120. It was among more than 28,000 such carnivals held across the country and raising more than $755,000.

Reagan Signs Bill To Regulate Kelp Collecting

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill allowing the state Fish and Game Commission to regulate the collection of kelp by beachcombers and other private individuals was signed Monday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure was authored by Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray, R-Santa Barbara. Currently, the commission regulates the commercial harvesting of kelp.

Here's a really clean one-owner little Volkswagen squareback station wagon that we just took in trade on a new Buick Skylark.

Retired Marin couple originally took delivery in Europe and toured for over a year before returning home. Clean as a whistle inside and out. A real buy at this price. Kelley blue book shows this wagon should sell for over $1400 but we'll sell for only $895. ZIW 349.

Eagleton Episode Had Drama, Surprise Of Political Novel

By JOHN HALL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was a plot that political novelists Fletcher Knebel and Allen Drury might have rejected as too bizarre.

"The Eagleton Secret" had all the drama and surprise of the Washington political novel. The main characters were:

—George McGovern, a former college professor who organizes a grassroots movement that carries him to the Democratic presidential nomination, only to discover his running mate had been under a psychatrist's care six years earlier and had been hospitalized for electroshock treatment.

—Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, a bright and enthusiastic newcomer to national politics, who faced the most trying week of his life.

The drama began in a recreation hall at Custer State Park, S.D. It was a sunny morning, cool and dry in the mid-70's. Few of the 100-odd reporters seated in the rustic hall suspected what was to come as McGovern and Eagleton entered the room with their wives.

Eagleton didn't seem the least bit upset on the way in and he flashed his wide, boyish grin—the same grin the television cameras picked up a week and a half before at Miami Beach just after he learned he was McGovern's choice as his running mate.

McGovern began to speak. Mrs. McGovern moved over to the seat next to Mrs. Eagleton and silently squeezed her arm.

Within minutes, Eagleton was on his feet, his body trembling with the weight of what he was about to say, and announced in a voice that seemed to be mixed with sorrow and determination that between 1960 and 1966 he had been hospitalized three times for treatment of what he called a "nervous condition...fatigue and exhaustion."

"I still am an intense person," he said. "I still push pretty hard, but I pace myself a great deal better than I did in those earlier years and for the past six years, since 1966 to date, I've experienced good, solid sound health."

There was a stunned, confused silence among the reporters.

Eagleton had not told McGovern about the illness before accepting the vice presidential nomination; that he had been under a psychiatrist's care during his hospital visits; and on two of the visits, he had received electroshock treatment.

Exactly when George McGovern first became aware of Eagleton's past was not clear. McGovern says the chronology has dimmed in his mind.

During the heat of the convention, rumors circulated that Eagleton was a heavy drinker and that he had some kind of a nervous condition. These rumors reached the McGovern staff as they celebrated the victory the night of July 19, testing the fruits of a 16-month campaign.

Gordon Weil, McGovern's longtime and trusted personal aide in the Senate, was given the job of investigating the rumors. But schooled in the master-serf relationships that exists between senators and their employes, Weil could not go far. The McGovern staff was already being attacked as arrogant and ruthless for their campaign that seized the party's leadership away from office holders, union leaders and local bosses.

Weil gingerly made a few telephone calls to Senate staffers, Missouri newspapermen and some senators. He found no confirmation and reported the matter to McGovern.

Eagleton had been on nearly every list submitted to McGovern for vice presidential choices. Eagleton was Catholic; exuberant, outgoing, well-liked; in good with organized labor; an ex-Muskie man. He was a contrast to McGovern, the son of a Methodist preacher, introverted, despised by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

McGovern labored into the afternoon of July 20. Finally, the call went through. By then, the rumors had been all but forgotten and only one question was asked: "Tom, are there any skeletons in the closet that might hurt our chances." The answer was "no."

Eagleton said he cosidered his past medical history closed and, in no sense, a skeleton—something he was ashamed of. It had nothing to do with criminality or immorality—just a young, 30-year-old man who had worked too hard to get John F. Kennedy elected as president and himself elected as state attorney general in 1960, and wound up exhausted, depressed and in the hospital for a month—to be followed by two more episodes, a week in 1964 and three weeks in September, 1966.

Eagleton did not mention the experiences, although he said he had discussed them with his wife when he first heard he was under consideration. McGovern did not ask, although he had heard the rumors.

Two days ater the final gavel fell, Knight newspapers received a phone call from a "Mr. X" who said he had information about Eagleton. "Mr. X" said Eagleton was a former "manic depressive" who had been treated with electroshock therapy. Knight began checking and word reached Eagleton's office.

Frank Mankiewicz and Gary Hart, McGovern's two top advisers, were roused out of a Virgin Islands vacation with a phone call from Eagleton's administrative assistant: a story was about to blow that could cause trouble. At a breakfast with Eagleton the next morning, the whole story came out.

When it was that McGovern decided, in his own mind, that Eagleton's presence on the ticket could not be tolerated may never be known. On July 26, the day after the press conference, McGovern walked on his terrace, shielded by a large rock. Finally, he walked toward a reporter. "I will not be stampeded," he said in a tense interview on a dusty driveway.

Friday night, he talked to reporters at dinner. He spoke of this "terrible Eagleton thing," dropping the pretense that he considered the matter closed and making it clear that the unprecedented process of dumping the vice presidential nominee had begun.

He told newsmen in his plane Saturday he did not know if a nation riden by dissent and self-doubt could tolerate a candidate with a history such as Eagleton's.

Monday night, the process was completed, the last chapter of "The Eagleton Secret" was over. Eagleton stepped down.

McGovern kept his own counsel. On the dusty driveway in front of his cabin, asked what kind of emotions he felt, he said, "I don't want to go into that."

Then he retreated behind the rock.

Nixon Drive To Open Labor Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sources close to President Nixon say he will launch his campaign for re-election in California during Labor Day weekend.

California, Nixon's native state, will be a crucial battleground in the race between Nixon and Democrat George S. McGovern. It has 45 electoral votes, the most of any state.

The sources said Monday that Nixon would make about four campaign stops each weekend when his re-election drive moves into high gear near the end of September.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Senate Passes Bills To Stop I.Q. Tests

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Two rival bills to abolish California's controversial group IQ testing program, criticized by many educators as unfair to minorities, have cleared their last major legislative hurdle.

The Senate passed and sent both measures back to the Assembly Monday for concurrence in minor amendments.

The bills then would go to Gov. Ronald Reagan who would have the final choice of which measure will become law.

The more hotly contested measure by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, would outlaw virtually all types of group intelligence tests.

It would permit only individually administered IQ tests given by trained specialists and experimental group IQ testing for research.

Sen. Clair W. Burgener, R-San Diego, who carried the bill on the floor, said the bill would "dispel the myth that an IQ is a rigid measurement that doesn't change."

Sen. Mervyn Dymally, D-Los Angeles, said the tests are "inaccurate and prove nothing." He said the statewide tests are designed primarily for children of middle-class upbringing who speak English.

He said minority students who do not understand English or do not have middle-American cultural backgrounds often do poorly on IQ tests and are wrongly viewed as mentally retarded by teachers and administrators.

The big problem, he said, was that IQ scores carry a certain mystique or stigma that lingers with the pupil through the rest of his life, as contrasted with achievement tests that only pinpoint how the student is performing in certain studies such as math and reading.

The other major bill by Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene, D-Sacramento, would abolish the statewide tests now given to pupils in the sixth and 12th grades the same as under the Brown bill.

POLLUTION

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has passed a bill aimed at tightening enforcement of air pollution control standards despite objections that the measure was a "harassment proposal."

The measure by Sen. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, would make it more difficult for industries to obtain variances to air pollution control regulations.

It was returned to the Assembly Monday on a 26-1 vote for concurrence in Senate amendments.

The measure increases from three to five membership on hearing boards appointed by county air pollution control boards to determine whether variances should be granted to certain industrial firms.

STATE HIGHWAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation banning construction of a 14-mile stretch of state highway into Mineral King was rejected by the Senate Monday after an opponent argued that it was "premature."

The measure by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, which barely cleared the Assembly in May, failed on a 18-18 vote, needing 21 votes to pass. But it was kept barely alive on a reconsideration motion.

The bill, supported by the Sierra Club and opposed by the Department of Public Works and the U.S. Forest Service, would guarantee that the state is not subsidizing a $40 million road for the benefit of Disney Corp., which has plans for a ski resort in the high Sierra Valley.

COST OF DYING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —With opponents calling the measure a "rip-off," the Assembly narrowly passed Monday a bill making it tough for some kinds of memorial societies to provide low-cost funerals.

The measure, sponsored by the funeral directors' lobby and authored by Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, was approved on a 41-25 vote, the minimum required. But Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, delayed its return to the Senate for concurrence in amendments by asking for reconsideration of the vote.

The proposal is specifically aimed at the Telophase Society of San Diego, which funeral directors charge with using warehouses and beer coolers to store dead bodies before they are cremated.

NO EXEMPTIONS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly has defeated a measure giving the legislature power to grant tax exemptions for pollution control equipment after one lawmaker said it would give businesses a "gigantic open door" for new tax loopholes.

The proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, was rejected Monday on a 36-23 vote, far short of the 54 needed.

However, Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, floor sponsor of the measure, kept the proposal alive by asking for reconsideration.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, who said the proposal would give businesses new tax loopholes, also contended it would cost the state millions of dollars in lost tax revenues.

NEW STANDARDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has passed a measure to set up safety standards for pesticides after rejecting a move by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, to give farm workers extra protection.

"This bill just slams the door in the face of workers who are being injured," Petris argued. "There is no legal remedy for farm workers, no enforcement provisions.

"It's just window dressing to impress people that finally they (the Agriculture Department) are doing something," he said. "It doesn't add a weapon to the arsenal we need to combat the problem."

Nevertheless, the measure by Assemblyman Bob Wood, R-Greenfield, was returned to the Assembly Monday on a 25-8 vote for concurrence in minor Senate amendments.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Victims Of Schizophrenia Fill 25% Of World's Hospital Beds

Schizophrenia is one of the most common of all mental illnesses. Its victims fill at least 25 per cent of the world's hospital beds. The phenothiazine drugs are most effective, but with or without treatment, one-third recover; one-third become totally disabled; and another third are turned into the outside world, not sick enough to be institutionalized, yet not well enough to live healthy, happy lives. The suicide rate from this disease is especially high in men.

Schizophrenia comes in many degrees. In the simple form, the sufferer is seclusive, withdrawn, idle, and talks to or laughs at himself. In his fantasy world, he experiences changes in perception, mainly in seeing, hearing, tasting, and smelling (hallucinations). The catatonic schizoid is mute and motionless. He can be likened to an inanimate object with no contact with the world of reality. Hebephrenic schizoids are silly and childish and delight in playing pranks.

THOSE WITH paranoid tendencies have feelings of persecution or are suspicious or bitter. They can be dangerous, especially when every act or gesture by someone else is misinterpreted as a threat to life and limb. They tend to be hyperactive. Everything seen or heard has malignant significance. Even when listening to the radio, they are sure some foreign power is plotting against them.

Very little is known about the feelings of the person whose mind is disturbed. Apparently intense mental suffering occurs during a schizophrenic illness. There is no doubt that at the onset, many are extremely depressed or so confused that they do not know which way to turn. Ordinary daily problems completely throw them into a spin. There must be a terrific struggle to maintain some semblance of sanity. On reaching the breaking point, however the victim loses control and is swept into a world of hallucinations.

IT IS HERE that details are lacking. Many develop an amnesia during these episodes; others must be relieved that the "pressure" is off and they are safely ensconced in their other world. But for the majority, schizophrenia must be a living hell.

HER WINGS 'CLIPPED'

Miss G. writes: Is there any way a young woman could stretch her height 1½ inches so she can become a stewardess?

REPLY

That's a bit too much to expect from stretching. If the airlines will not make an exception, face facts and look elsewhere for a career.

LUNG DISEASE

A reader writes: I have been told that lung cancer is not contagious, but tuberculosis is. Since both diseases produce a bad cough, what is the difference?

REPLY

Symptoms in both diseases may be the same, but the lesions are different and so is the outlook. Tuberculosis is an infection that responds to drugs such as PAS, streptomycin, or isoniazid. Cancer is a tumor that obstructs the bronchi and spreads elsewhere. It must be eliminated or else.

HIATUS HERNIA AND GOLF

D.G. writes: Is it safe for a man with hernia of the diaphragm to play golf?

REPLY

Yes, provided the exertion or bending over to pick up the ball does not aggravate abdominal distress.

NOT AN ALLERGY

A. I. writes: Is psoriasis considered an allergic condition?

REPLY

No. Allergic skin diseases usually are manifested as eczema or hives.

CONTENTED AND FAT

E. M. writes: A 32-year-old man who has been married for three months has gained 20 pounds. A recent examination showed that he has low blood pressure. Could his added poundage be responsible?

REPLY

No — his wife's good cooking and disposition.

LEG ULCER AND BEER

C. R. writes: An ulcer on my leg won't heal. Will drinking beer hurt it?

REPLY

Not unless you bump it against the bar stool or injure the lesion by falling. I assume you eat properly and are otherwise healthy. Meanwhile, find the cause of the ulcer and get proper treatment, such as the application of a local antiseptic and pressure bandages. Hospitalization may be needed to cover the open ulcer with a skin graft. It now becomes evident that drinking beer is a small part of your problem.

PREMATURE'S WEIGHT

Mrs. F. writes: What is the most a premature baby can weigh?

REPLY

Five and one-half pounds at birth.

FORMS OF HEPATITIS

M. K. writes: Is there more than one kind of hepatitis?

REPLY

Yes, if you refer to the numerous causes for inflammation of the liver.

CRABBY DRINKER

A reader writes: Are eight quarts of beer and several shots of whisky a day harming a 76-year-old man? He has arthritis and is always crabby.

REPLY

I hesitate to change the habits of an elderly person, but this man is drinking too much. Arthritis and age, rather than liquor intake, might be responsible for his ill temper. On the other hand, if his is a long-standing habit and the man is otherwise healthy, we can't object. After all, at 76, he may know what is best for him and putting him "on the wagon" may make him more crabby.

Mill Valley Distributes Sewer Cost

The Mill Valley City Council last night tentatively approved a schedule which distributes the cost of the proposed $142,000 Camino Alto pump station and sewer line project among the five participating sanitary districts.

The council withheld final approval of the distribution scheme until it collects written agreements from the participating agencies.

The project consists of a pumping station and sewer lines which link Miller Avenue to Sycamore Avenue and Camino Alto to the city's sewage treatment plant.

According to a schedule prepared by City Engineer Stanley M. Bala, the participating sanitary districts will pay in proportion to the assessed valuation of land which receives a benefit from the project, rather than only that land which is specifically served by the new sewer lines.

Under that definition, Homestead Sanitary District would be obligated to pay about $20,000 despite the fact that the new sewer lines will not carry Homestead sewage. Councilman Robert E. Capron said, however, that the new lines will relieve Homestead's existing sewer lines from excess sewage.

Under Bala's schedule, the breakdown in costs would be: Mill Valley, $103,061; Almonte Sanitary District, $14,245; Key Park Sanitary District, $3,478; Homestead Sanitary District, $20,314 and Alto Sanitary District, $506.

After Bala returned from a meeting of the Homestead Sanitary District board, the city's Public Works Director, Ross J. Benson, suggested that a joint powers agreement be signed by all participating agencies. The council agreed that a formal written document would protect the city against future misinterpretations of the agreement.

After instructing City Mgr. William H. Cunningham to contact Homestead and Almonte districts to learn their positions on the funding plan, the council continued the matter until its meeting scheduled on Thursday.

Mill Valley Parking To Remain A Nickel

Just as time seemed to be running out on Mill Valley's nickel-an-hour parking meters, the Mill Valley City Council last night delayed a proposal to boost the city's parking meter rate to 10 cents per hour.

The suggestion to double the city's parking meter rate was opposed by several local merchants in the audience who claimed an increase in parking rates would drive away their customers.

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to the council, stated it was "unalterably opposed" to raising parking fees unless the city made a firm commitment to acquire new off-street parking.

Chamber president Samuel W. Schneider said, "The psychological effects of such an increase would be very bad." He predicted that shoppers would abandon Lytton Square for the Strawberry Shopping Center or other free parking shopping centers if Mill Valley meters cost a dime an hour.

Councilman Robert E. Burton disagreed with Schneider's guess. "If I wanted to shop in Mill Valley, I would never be deterred if I had to put a dime in the meter rather than a nickel," he said.

According to City Mgr. William H. Cunningham, the parking meters currently raise about $16,000 each year, which covers the costs of replacing and maintaining the meters and paying the city's lone meter maid.

Planning Commission Chairman Ivan S. Poutiatine said he favored the idea of eliminating paid parking meters, but nonetheless approved of meters to ration time among many shoppers.

The council agreed that any increase in the rate ought to be accompanied by a commitment to move ahead with the city's off-street plans.

After Councilman Robert E. Capron asked how much it would cost to convert the meters from nickel-an-hour to dime-an-hour machines and what rates other cities in Marin County were charging, a motion was unanimously passed to continue the matter until Aug. 22.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

FIRE STATION — Hired the San Francisco architectural firm of Robinson and Mills, to draw plans for the city's new fire station, subject to satisfactory negotiations over fees and services. Robinson and Mills, which was selected from among 38 firms, will receive approximately 9.5 per cent of the construction cost as its professional fee.

FIRE TRAILS — Approved an expenditure of $1,500 for 15 fire gates to be placed across fire trails on the Northridge as a deterrent to garbage and trash dumpers, unauthorized vehicles and vandals.

COMMUNITY GARDEN — Added $300 to the city's parks and recreation account for the proposed community garden behind the city's corporation yard. The money will be spent to install a waterpipe near the 70 by 70 foot garden.

VISITING STUDENTS — Welcomed two foreign students from Japan and Finland, who are visiting the United States as part of an exchange program sponsored by the Lions Club.

MIDNIGHT — Accepted a suggestion by Councilman Gerald J. Hood that all council meetings adjourn at midnight unless a majority of the council vote to continue.

RETIREMENT FUND — Authorized the city finance director to transfer the assets of the Mill Valley retirement fund to the public employees retirement system of the State of California.

BUDGET — Reviewed each source of revenue in the 1972-1973 budget with City Finance Director Carl O. Reynolds in an effort to understand how estimates of upcoming revenues were determined.

MEETING — Adjourned to a closed session at 5 p.m. tomorrow to confer with the city's representatives on contract negotiations.

BUDGET SESSION — Scheduled another budget session to review already scrutinized departmental accounts at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Petaluma Sets Up Controls

By BONNIE BARD

The Petaluma City Council last night agreed to set up a development control board to recommend what housing units should be built under the annual 500-unit limit.

The council agreed that after developers submit applications this month for the coming year, such a board should review each application and recommend which should be built.

Members of the board would serve for two or three months until their analysis is completed and would then disband. The council tentatively said the membership should include two city councilmen, two planning commissioners, six citizens-at-large, two representatives of business or professions and one representative from four school districts including Petaluma, Old Adobe, Cinnabar and St. Vincent's.

BOARD TO JUDGE

Assisted by city staff members, the board would judge each plan on its conformity to the general plan as well as availability of services such as sewer, water, fire protection and schools.

Planning Consultant Corwin Mocine recommended the board also rate proposed developments on quality of design, provisions for open space, contributions to greenbelts and bicycle paths and access to the Petaluma River and creeks.

The council said it would establish explicit criteria for judging so developers would not be placed at a disadvantage.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert warned that developers must be given an avenue of appeal in the event their plan is not accepted. He called the approach to growth control "very difficult and novel" and said the council was treading on thin ice.

The council agreed that if a developer is dissatisfied with the rating the board gives him, he could return to the board for a new hearing. If he is still not satisfied, the council would hear his appeal.

Mocine warned the council to state all criteria carefully and to set quotas for the type of housing desired such as single family, multiple, mobile homes, low and high density. He said the city of Lompoc, N.Y. had put a similar plan into effect in 1969 and that the New York State Supreme Court had recently upheld it.

LIKE CONTEST

The consultant said that many of the decisions will be based on personal judgment on what constitutes an attractive development. He advised that each board member rate the development individually and that votes be tallied as in a beauty contest to determine the order in which developers are to receive permits.

Allotments for building with the 500-unit limit would be made by the city council based on recommendations by the board.

The council said that if it can pass the resolution setting a residential control system and adopt the proposed housing element this month, the board could be in operation in October or November in time to process applications for the building season to begin next spring.

In other business at the special session, the council approved an agreement with the Old Adobe School District for joint use of La Tercera Park in order to qualify for a $20,000 federal grant to fully develop the park.

The council will meet in regular session next Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Pair Must Face Music Thursday

Two men liked the piano bar at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael so much they tried to take it home with them and must face the music Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

Frank Correia, 37, of Berkeley, and William N. Rhodes, 43, of 139 Dominican Drive in San Rafael, were arrested at about 2 a.m. Sunday after the inn's chef reported noticing them trying to load the unwieldly circular bar into their automobile.

The heavily paded bar is valued at $550, according to police.

Both men were released on $1,000 bail, after being booked on suspicion of conspiracy and grand theft.

Peking Brass Gather To Give Tribute To Army's Anniversary

HONG KONG (UPI)—The New China News Agency (NCNA) today broadcast a detailed list of Chinese leaders attending their biggest public gathering in a year but gave no indication any vacancy has been filled in the Communist party's depleted Politburo or the military high command.

NCNA said the event was a reception held in Peking Monday night to celebrate the 45th anniversary of the existence of theChinese army.

Yeh Chien-ying, ranking military member of the party's military commission, said at the reception the army had "shattered the criminal schemes of the traitors, enemy agents and careerists" who had tried to seize power.

Although the military command vacancies have not been filled, Yeh said: "Our army is now more united and powerful than ever before."

Yeh's "criminal schemes" remark was an apparent reference to a plot reportedly led by former Defense Minister Lin Piao that was foiled last September. Chinese officials have said Lin died as a result of his role in the plot. There has been no indication what happened to other high-level military men involved with him.

It was the disappearance of Lin and his co-plotters that depleted the Politburo and left the army high command with top posts unfilled.

There has been some speculation in reports from Peking that Yeh would replace Lin as defense minister. But NCNA identified him in the lineup only as a member of the Politburo and as a vice chairman of the military commission.

Party chairman Mao Tse-tung was not present at the gathering but most of the other top leaders, including his wife, Chiang Ching, were. So was Premier Chou En-lai.

Some analysts specializing in Chinese affairs believe the Chinese leadership may be preparing to hold a high-level conference of some kind to thrash out differences that still exist and try to fill some of the vacancies. Such a meeting apparently was held in late May and early June but with little success, according to Peking-based diplomats.

Budget Session In Homestead Valley

N. J. Civil Service To Include Women

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—The state Civil Service Commission announced Monday it has reconsidered its men-only policy and decided to allow women to file applications, take examinations and be appointed as regular police and fire officers.

In the past, the department administered separate examinations for the position of policewoman, with the duties more limited in scope than those of patrolmen.

Tax Shift And School Bill Revived

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A compromise $1.2 billion tax shift and school finance plan sponsored by Gov. Ronald Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti bounced back from defeat today wearing new clothes.

The proposal, inserted into a rival Senate-passed bill by an Assembly committee, is expected to speed through the Assembly and be returned to the Senate as the legislature prepares to recess for three months on Friday.

But the legislation still appeared to face an uphill struggle in the Senate where some Democrats have treated it with outright hostility.

The Moretti-Reagan proposal, which Moretti said would provide the average California homeowner with a $200 a year tax reduction, was voted a new lease on life by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

The committee, with only two dissents, amended the provisions of the Moretti-Reagan bill into a $950 million school finance plan by Sen. Ralph Dills, D-Gardena, and then forwarded the completely rewritten proposal to the Ways and Means Committee on a 11-3 vote.

The original Moretti-Reagan bill was defeated last week by the Senate Finance Committee in favor of the Dills plan, which had called for a $600 million sales tax increase and $350 million in surplus budget funds to be spent for additional aid to local schools.

Pressed as a legislative alternative to the so-called Watson property tax limitation initiative on the November ballot, the compromise would provide an estimated $575 million in homeowner, renter and business inventory tax relief during the year starting next July.

To finance it, the statewide sales tax would be increased from a nickel to six cents on the dollar, bank and corporation taxes hiked, motor vehicle fees boosted and personal income taxes raised if federal revenue sharing did not occur.

Representatives of the Reagan administration, Moretti, Dills and the California Teachers Association negotiated privately in advance of the Revenue and Taxation hering to reach a compromise.

Dills, carrying his bill for the teachers association, did not protest the committee's "hijacking" of his legislation and said he will work "vigorously" to have the bill voted final approval by the Senate.

After Assembly approval, the Dills measure would have to return to the Senate for concurrence in amendments—in this case an entirely new bill. The Senate often sends drastically amended bills back to committee for hearing in such cases.

"I'm prepared to ask for their concurrence in Assembly amendments," Dills told reporters.

Dills asked the committee to approve an amendment increasing between $40 million and $50 million extra state aid for school programs at the expense of money previously earmarked for property tax relief. The committee complied.

Moretti told the committee the compromise represented an opportunity for the legislature to make good on long-promised property tax relief and at the same time provide more money for schools. It would provide $404 million in property tax relief to homeowners this year.

"The fact is you have the choice of something or nothing," he said, "and I want this bill very much."

Moretti, a potential candidate for governor, added, "I honestly believe that the legislative process is on trial here. Everybody in the state is waiting to see whether we are going to respond to the two critical issues of property tax relief and school finance."

But Assemblyman Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, voiced concern that provisions freezing local property tax rates at the current level and requiring a vote of the electorate to raise them, would deny cities and counties funds needed for such things as fighting crime."

Jack Merelman of the County Supervisors Association agreed, adding, "These limitations would set county government back 100 years."

Supporters of the measure included the League of California Cities, Los Angeles city schools and the state school administrators and school boards associations.

Former Marin Resident Nabbed

A 19-year-old San Franciscan has been arrested on suspicion of stealing about $680 worth of clothes and jewelry from a Sausalito house in which he used to live with three roommates.

When police arrested him at his former address, 319 Fourth Street, he was reportedly wearing boots, a ring, a shirt, and a belt — all said to have been stolen from his old roommates on July 2 or July 19.

Pollock was booked into Marin County Jail with bail set at $1,500.

Charged with grand theft and possession of stolen property, he was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to enter a plea today.

Collett Unhappy With Easy Life

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Who says professional football training camp life is rough? For Elmer Collett of Mill Valley it has meant a lot of time in bed, some swimming, dinner and then more rest.

But don't be misled. He would much rather put his time on the practice field bumping heads with his teammates getting ready for the start of the 1972 National Football League season. He suited up and worked out yesterday for the first time in a week after being out of action with a back injury. Being in bed was not his idea; it was on orders from team doctor Lloyd Milburn.

I-J photog Alfred Arn and I looked in on Collett last weekend during a vist to the 49er camp.

"I feel just like I'm in a hospital," the former Tamalpais High School star said while resting in his room at Goleta's Fontainebleu Hotel where the 49ers are quartered during their training camp days at University of California, Santa Barbara. "All day I'm lying here in traction, then I swim for about 15 or 20 minutes, change my clothes just before dinner, then eat. I'm really getting fed up with this routine."

COLLETT, A YOUNG man of 27 who played at College of Marin before transferring to San Francisco State, said he hurt his back the first day of practice, and really aggravated the injury at the team's first scrimmage, July 22. He hopes to be able to make the bell when the 49ers open their exhibition season Saturday night in Jacksonville, Fla., against the New York Jets.

Elmer agreed that if he were a rookie, missing this much practice would be costly to his chances of making the team. But since he's a five-year veteran, the layoff shouldn't affect his chance of being one of the 40 players left when the original 66-man roster is eventually whittled down.

"They know what I can do," he declared. "I would like to be a starter. I think I'm just as good," he said in reference to starting guards Woody Peoples and Randy Beisler. Elmer, you must remember, was a starting guard his rookie season and was picked for the Pro Bowl in his third year. He lost his job as a starter in 1970 to Beisler, who the 49ers obtained from the Philadelphia Eagles in trade for George Mira. Collett now is a member of the special teams for kickoffs, punts, etc.

ANOTHER WOUNDED warrior who is quickly getting himself ready for action is Cedrick Hardman, defensive end who is recovering from off-season knee surgery.

"It's on a day-to-day basis," Hardman said in that slow, deliberate way of his during picture day last Saturday on the practice field at UC Santa Barbara. "I'm doing a lot of running, some isometrics. . .I'll be ready by the first league game."

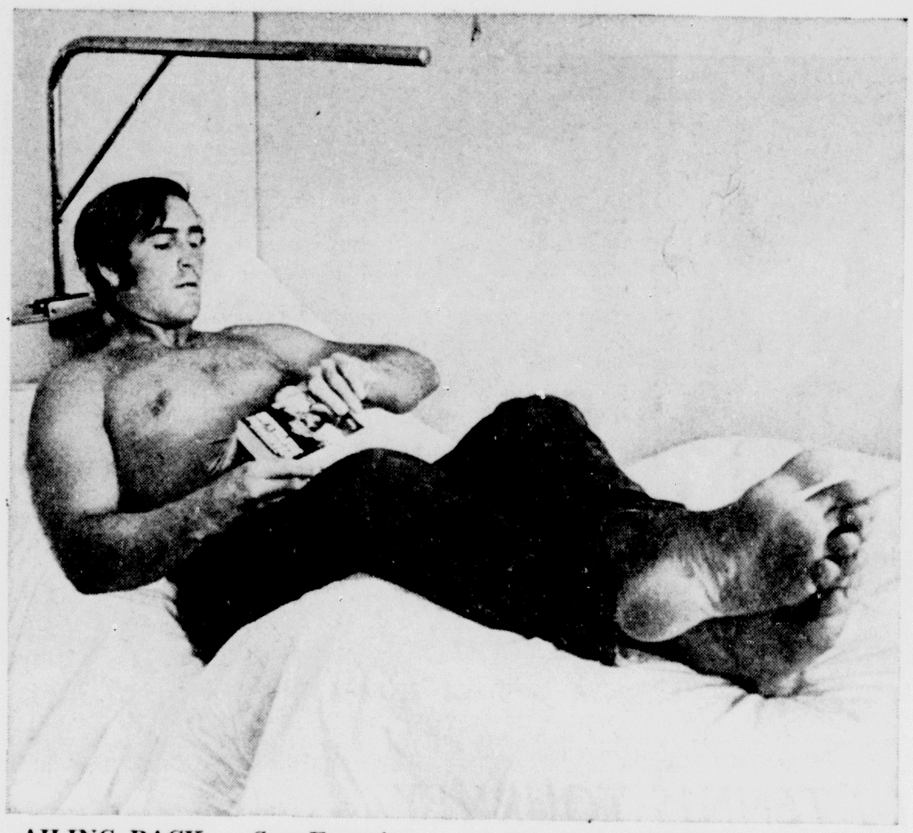
Looking up, the man who makes things rough on quarterbacks said, "This is the first time I've put on football shoes since the Pro Bowl game. But I'll be ready." I knew he meant it.

STILL ONE MORE injured player limping on the sidelines was wide receiver Terry Beasley, the 49ers' No. 1 draft pick out of Auburn University. He has a broken big toe on his right foot.

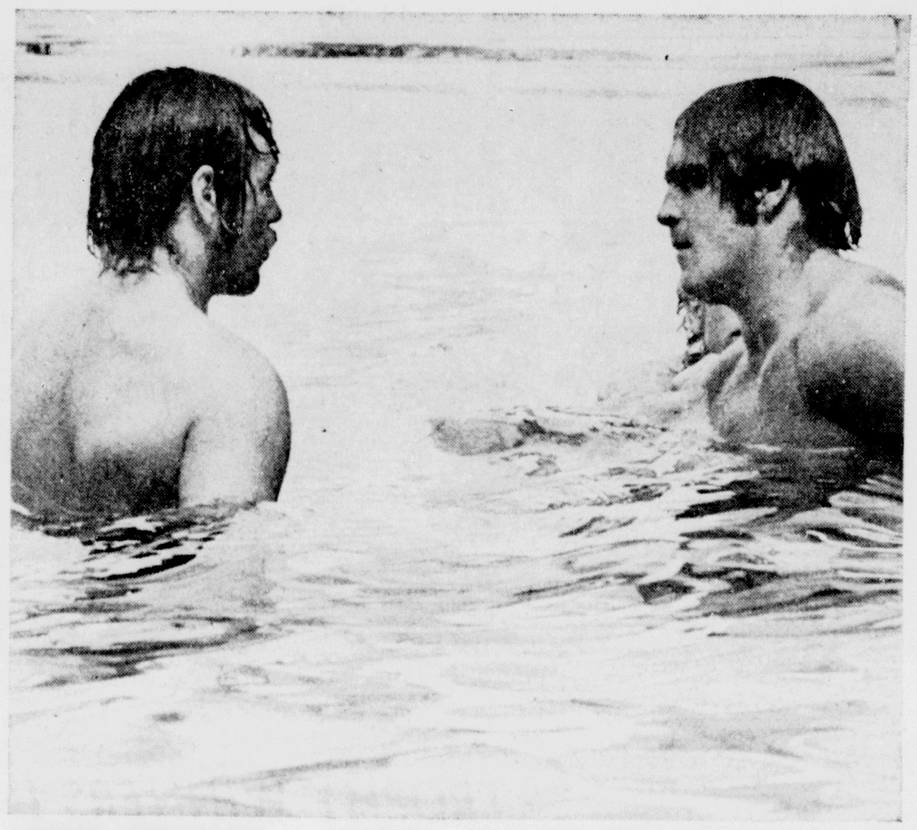
Beasley is listed as 5-foot-11 but I think that is stretching a point. In addition to his lack of size, the red-headed Beasley has a boyish face that would make him a sure winner on "What's My Line?" (Pro football? Never.)

Terry said he doesn't think hs lack of height is any hindrance and denies the days of the little receiver (ala Tommy McDonald of Philadelphia) are over. "It's not size," he said. "The important thing is to be able to run and to catch the ball."

And he sure can do that when he's healthy.



AILING BACK — San Francisco 49er guard Elmer Collett of Mill Valley was out of practice for more than a week with a back injury and spent much of the time in this hospital bed in his room at the University of California, Santa Barbara, training camp.



SWIM THERAPY — Collett (right) got in some swimming as part of his therapy for a back injury that kept him off the practice field. With Collett in the pool was center Forrest Blue. Collett joined his teammates on the practice field yesterday.

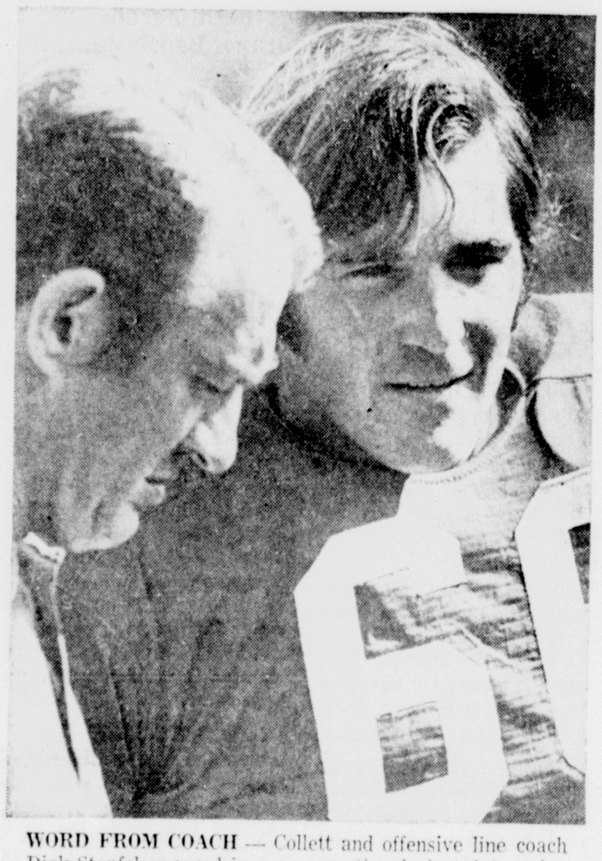
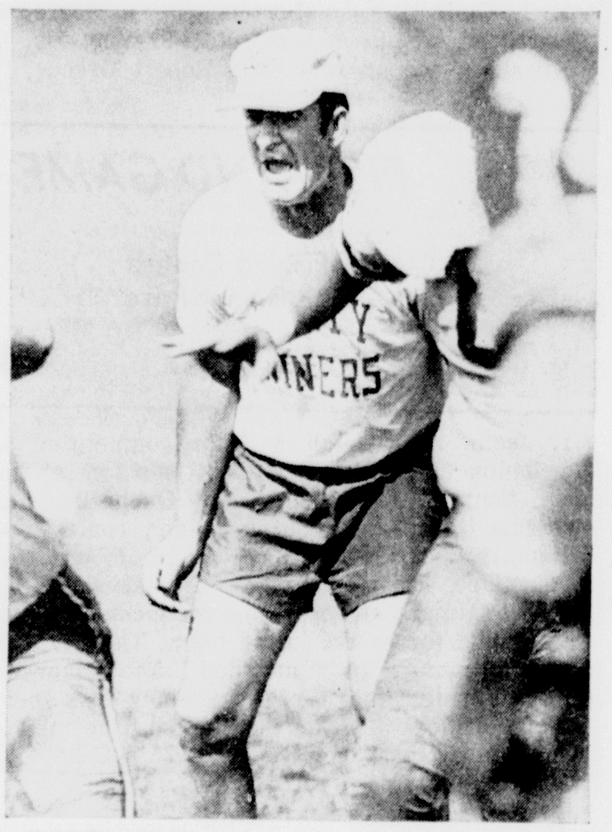
MEAL TIME — Collett and other members of the 49ers are shown during an evening meal at the Fontainbleu Hotel in Goleta where the team is headquartered.



WORD FROM COACH — Collett and offensive line coach Dick Stanfel engaged in a conversation during picture day last Saturday on the Niners practice field.



BOOMING VOICE — Whit Collett missed on the practice field was the low, booming voice of Stanfel, shown putting the offensive linemen through their paces.

Giants In L.A. For 3 Games

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The San Francisco Giants, whose avowed aim is to overhaul Los Angeles, play the Dodgers in the first game of a three-game set tonight. The game will be televised on KTVU, Channel 2, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The Giants go into the series 6 1-2 games behind the Dodgers and in need of a sweep to get closer to their goal. Ron Bryant, a pitcher on the way up, goes for San Francisco tonight while Al Downing, a pitcher seemingly on the way down, pitches for the Dodgers.

The Giants concluded their season's work in Riverfront Stadium Monday night with a convincing 7-2 victory over the National League West frontrunning Cincinnati Reds while the Dodgers were bowing to Atlanta, 4-3.

Don Carrithers, a winner only twice in eight previous starts this year, went all the way against the Reds on a seven-hitter to post his third victory. He came out of a 28-day exile in the bullpen to do the job and may have won himself a spot in the rotation.

Bobby Bonds got three of San Francisco's 12 hits, including his 17th homer, while Chris Speier went 3-for-3 and collected two RBI. Carrithers helped himself with a two-run double.

The victory left the Giants at 44-54 but a long 15 games behind the Reds. The Dodgers are 8 1-2 games back in third place while San Francisco is in fifth place.

Richardson, Vella Are New Raiders

SANTA ROSA, (UPI) — John Vella finally is a member of the Oakland Raiders.

The rookie tackle from Southern California signed his contract with the Raiders Monday, and if he has any regrets it's that he didn't play in the College All-Star game last week.

The Raiders also acquired wide receiver Gloster Richardson from the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice. The 6-foot-2, 200-pound veteran from Jackson (Miss.) State, beginning his sixth year as a pro, was an arch-enemy of the Raiders for four years as a member of the Kansas City Chiefs.

"As a kid I always dreamed of playing in the All-Star game," Vella said after agreeing to terms with Oakland, "but my agent advised me against playing as long as I wasn't signed because if I got hurt it would have left me in a poor bargaining position."

He was rated as a first round pick by the Oakland front office and the Raiders admit they were surprised when he was still around for the second round.

Neither side revealed terms of Vella's contract but the rookie said he was more than pleased.

All Eyes On Thomas In San Diego Camp

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

How long is Duane Thomas destined to stay in San Diego?

That's the question many pro football observers were asking Monday after the San Diego Chargers gambled by obtaining the controversial halfback from the Dallas Cowboys for Mike Montgomery and Billy Parks less than an hour before the deadline for inter-conference trades at midnight.

Never has one player said so little and been the subject of so much speculation as Thomas was last year.

He was traded to the New England Patriots after he got into a contract dispute with the Cowboys. But he quickly was sent out of the Patriot camp after a disagreement with coach John Mazur over what kind of playing stance he should use and also refused to complete the physical exam.

He returned to the Cowboys and hardly said a word to his teammates or to the press for the rest of the season. But no one has ever doubted his abilities on the football field and he led the Cowboys to their first Super Bowl crown with his superb running.

After the season, he was arrested in Greenville, Tex. for the possession of marijuana and was given a suspended sentence. He then walked out of the Dallas training camp this year before returning to play in the Cowboys' victory over the College All-Stars. But Thomas was fined when he missed the Monday practice and meetings.

If Thomas and the Chargers can stay on good terms, there is no doubt the Chargers have picked up one of pro football's best running backs. The Cowboys obviously had come to the point where they felt a change of scenery for Thomas would be good for both the Cowboys and Thomas.

The Cowboys figure they're good enough to win without Thomas but it's an interesting point that they've never made the Super Bowl without him.

A puzzling aspect of the deal was the acquisition of Parks by the Cowboys. He is one of the bright, young receivers in pro ball and was leading the NFL with 41 catches before he suffered a broken arm last year. But since the Cowboys already have Bob Hayes, Lance Alworth and Ron Sellers, they seem to be loaded with wide receivers.

Montgomery is a second year back from Kansas State, who ran for 228 yards, caught 28 passes and completed three more for the Chargers.

While the Cowboys were un-

Windsor Is Traded For Future Pick

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—Ted Kwalick, not that he needs to, can stop worrying about footsteps.

Bob Windsor, who lost his job at tight end to Kwalick last year and was fighting in training camp this summer to win it back, no longer is a member of the 49ers.

The club Monday night traded him to the Boston Patriots for the Pats' No. 1 draft choice in 1974, leaving Kwalick as the only tight end in camp with any experience.

Monday was a day of roster juggling as the club cut seven players to get down to a total camp complement of 58. Released were defensive back Jerry Brown, a ninth round pick from Northwestern; defensive lineman Leon Pettigrew, a 13th round pick from San Fernando Valley State; offensive lineman Ron Davis, a 16th round pick from Virginia State, and free agents Larry Brown (placekicker) from San Jose State, defensive back Grady Hurst of Arizona State, defensive back Jimmy Brooks of Eastern Kentucky and quarterback Charles Richards of Richmond.

Chargers Obtain Tim Rossovich

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) —The San Diego Chargers completed their second major trade before the National Football League deadline today when they acquired recalcitrant linebacker Tim Rossovich from the Philadelphia Eagles in exchange for next season's No. 1 draft choice.

Less than 24 hours earlier, the Chargers revamped their offensive attack by trading for another maverick, Duane Thomas, the Dallas Cowboys' top rusher last season.

Rossovich, who stands 6-4 and weighs 240, had not reached contract agreement with the Eagles at the time of the trade, which was announced shortly before the NFL trading deadline.

TWO-HITTER

Vida Blue Back To Old Ways

OAKLAND (UPI) —Vida Blue is back pitching the way he did a year ago, and that has to be both good and bad news to the rest of the American League.

All Blue did in 1971 was carry the Oakland A's to the A.L. West title and win both the Most Valuable Player and Cy Young Awards.

This year, the sturdy lefthander ran into contract problems with A's owner Charlie Finley, and by the time their differences were resolved the season was well underway.

NO WALKS

Monday night, with a fine turnout of 19,423 looking on, Blue pitched a two-hitter as the A's beat the Texas Rangers, 2-0. Vida struck out only five batters but he didn't walk a man, and when he pitches that way he has to be a winner.

"I've got control of my curveball now," Blue said after beating the Rangers for his fourth victory in nine decisions. "I've had a good fastball right along but it's taken me some time to get the curveball down. Now, I feel I can win a few."

Blue retired the first 17 Rangers in order before rival pitcher Rich Hand, figuring he had nothing to lose, bunted safely for the first Texas hit. Hand, who gave up only two hits while striking out eight in 7 1-3 innings, caght A's third baseman Sal Bando backing up and he beat out his tap easily.

BACKED UP

Bando was playing in on Hand on the first pitch, which the Texas pitcher swung at and missed.

"I saw him backing up after I missed the pitch," said Hand, "so I decided to give it (bunt) a whirl. In my mind it was as clean a hit as it could be."

Bando came charging in for the ball but he couldn't get it out of his glove and when he finally did, it was too late, although Sal threw anyway. The throw was wide of first baseman Don Mincher but Hand was across before the ball got to Mincher.

While Hand's Texas teammates and manager Ted Williams agreed it was a clean hit, A's skipper Dick Williams and Bando disagreed. Blue seemed undisturbed and said he thought it was a hit.

'CLEAN HIT'

"Of course I hated to lose the no-hitter," said Vida, "but it looked like a clean hit to me. The big thing is we won the game."

Toby Harrah got Texas' other hit —a clean single to left leading off the ninth—as a pinch-hitter for Jim Mason. Blue then retired the next three men and called it a night.

"When Blue can get the job done in 109 pitches," said Dick Williams, "he's pitching the way he should. He got his breaking ball over when he wanted to and that was the difference. Actually, this is his third straight good performance."

Joe Rudi drove in both Oakland runs Monday night on sacrifice flies.

The A's open a two-game series with the Kansas City Royals tonight with Ken Holtzman pitching against Paul Splittorff.

FISH AND GAME

A Fishing Contest With Dinner Prize

By AL GIDDINGS

It seems as though a little competition is developing at Loch Lomond between two of the local fishing boats there. Joe Garbarino has challenged Bob Locke to a fishing contest for salmon. Each boat is to have five members as a fishing unit. The members of the boat which has the best salmon catches will be recipients of a fine dinner paid for by the losing team. The wives of the fishermen are to be included in the dinner-out part in payment for all of those lonely days spent at home while waiting for the big-fish fishermen to bring home "the bacon."

LAST SATURDAY, they had a trial run, fishing out off the Slide Ranch and out at the Middle Grounds. The day ended up with Garbarino's boat bringing back 12 salmon, which topped Locke's boat, which had eight. All of the fish measured between 20 and 23 inches, just within the legal size limits.

Of course, Garbarino was elated and now figures he has the bet in the bag. I warned him that I think that Locke is playing with him like a cat with a mouse! I've been invited to join Garbarino's team, but I don't know.

LOCKE'S TEAM used bait whereas the other team used the new rubber-like squid lures. With so many shakers, naturally the squid lures, pink or green, fished better and more efficiently. If a strike was missed, unlike the real bait lures, no replacements had to be made. The bait fishermen had to keep continually busy checking for damaged herring or anchovies. But the squid lures haven't been proven on large fish, and that could make a difference too. More on this as the contest develops.

Jerry Kraus, one of the anglers on Joe's boat, had a sad day. He couldn't buy a strike on his rod, so the rest of the anglers came up with the nice gesture that Jerry was to take any of the rods (if he got there first) that was having a strike. He finally made it to an active rod and was happily playing a fish - which eventually turned out to be undersized, so a throwback! In the meantime, his rod took off, and another character aboard naturally grabbed it. This fish turned out to be the biggest of the day!

YOUNG TOM WETMORE and his dad of Mill Valley came in with two nice limits, and Mickey Locke and his wife had a 23 pounder to show off.

I checked the realtor, Bill Timmer of San Rafael, who put in a few hours trolling a pet spoon around the Marin Islands. He had two stripers, one of which was tagged.

Out at Tomales, approximately 60 boats fished the bar area and the salmon grounds. Enos Foster, who was there, said he saw very few flounders, one halibut and one salmon landed. That run of big salmon is way overdue as is the one off Duxberry and Muir Beach. I talked to Joe Mello, who has gone commercial, and in eight trips out of Tomales, his take is one 23-pound halibut and one 27-inch salmon from the bar area. Right now, things seem to be tough all over!

ON SUNDAY, I was out by the Point Reyes cliffs, and looking down it was interesting to see the Blue Horizon with its Sunday crowd aboard having a good go at the rockfish. The ocean was flat calm, so I'm sure he and his fishermen were having a ball.

Hunters preparing for the opening of the early deer season on Aug. 5 today were given a mixed forecast from the Department of Fish and Game.

REPORTS BASED on field observations of Department game managers indicate the buck take will be up in the counties of San Luis Obispo, Monterey, San Benito, Marin, Sonoma, Lake and Napa. In Mendocino County, one of the top deer producers in the state, the total is expected to be about the same as last year. In the San Francisco Bay region counties of Contra Costa, Alameda, Santa Clara, San Mateo and Santa Cruz the number of deer taken by hunters probably will be below last year's figure.

One factor expected to bring about increased hunting activity in the early season area is a change in the tag regulations which will permit hunters to take deer in both early and late season areas.

Williams' Bat Paces Cubs' Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Billy Williams' ascendency to the National league batting lead was done in much the same manner that has typified his entire major league career—with consistent hitting and without great fanfare.

Williams cracked out four straight hits Monday to back the six-hit pitching of Ferguson Jenkins as the Chicago Cubs completed a sweep of their four-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals with a 4-0 triumph.

In other National League games, Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 2-0, New York topped Montreal 4-2, Atlanta edged Los Angeles 4-3, Houston nipped San Diego 3-2, and San Francisco ripped Cincinnati 7-2.

Williams raised his average to .346 with his four safeties to bypass Houston's Cesar Cedeno in the NL batting race.

Williams has never won a batting championship, home run or RBI title during his career. And at age 34, Williams wouldn't have any objections to adding one of those titles to his many accomplishments before his playing days are over.

The Chicago outfielder, a veteran of 13 seasons, credits much of his success at the plate to the Cubs' cozy ballpark, Wrigley Field.

"I believe that Wrigley Field makes a better hitter out of me," Williams said. "In the big park, you take that all-out swing and, as a result, you take your eye off the ball. In Wrigley Field, I know I don't have to pump to hit the ball out, so I keep my eye on the pitch better. And I also take a shorter swing," he added.

Williams' consistency is marked in the field as well as at the plate. He set the National League record for most consecutive games played (1,117) before sitting a game out back in September, 1970.

Jenkins, posting his 14th win against nine losses, hurled his 19th complete game of the season in beating the Cardinals for the first time in three games this year.

Bobby Soxers Lose; Play Again Tonight

Mid-Peninsula pounded out 15 hits yesterday evening to defeat the San Rafel Bobby Sox all-stars girls softball team, 15-3, in the Area Tournament in San Mateo.

San Rafael is still alive in the double-elimination tournament, and will face North Palo Alto tonight at 7:30.

Allen's 2 Homers Power White Sox

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Dick Allen is the kind of guy who makes superlatives seem almost ordinary.

So, on a day when Mickey Lolich won his 18th game, Vida Blue pitched a two-hitter and Sparky Lyle saved both games of a Yankee doubleheader sweep over Baltimore to impress Earl Weaver with the importance of relief pitchers, it was still Dick Allen who stole the show.

Naturally.

Allen, the much-maligned and traveled standout who has found a home in Chicago, smashed two inside the park homers—how's that for hustling — to lead the White Sox to an 8-1 rout over the Minnesota Twins Monday.

The performance had manager Chuck Tanner singing the praises of the player who has been traded three times in three years.

"I believe Dick Allen is the best player in the major leagues. He not only hits for power but also for average. He knocks in runs for us about 80 per cent of the time when he comes up with men on base. He's my Swiss watch," Tanner said.

Allen's first inside the park homer scored Pat Kelly and Luis Alvarado for a 3-0 first inning lead. Allen circled the bases after his line drive bounced away from centerfielder Bobby Darwin, who slipped trying to field the ball. Allen's second blast also bounced away from Darwin, who tried to make a shoestring catch in the fifth inning.

Allen's hits were his 12th and 13th homers in July and boosted his major league-leading total to 27. They enabled Stan Bahnsen to coast to his 13th win on a six-hitter.

Tanner said, "I sympathize with Darwin. Allen hits the ball so hard it often acts like a knuckle ball. Both balls broke sharply away from Darwin and earlier this year he hit a drive at Mickey Stanley that broke about 10 feet."

Allen, naturally, took it all in stride.

In the other American League games, New York swept a doubleheader from Baltimore 5-2 and 2-1, Detroit downed Boston 5-2, Oakland blanked Texas 2-0, Kansas City shut out California 1-0, and Cleveland won two from Milwaukee 3-2 and 1-0.

2 Marinites Grab Titles In Ski Meet

Mike Suyderhoud of Petaluma and Mike McGinley of San Rafael grabbed over-all honors in the men's and boy's classes, respectively, in the California state water skiing championships over the weekend in Berkeley.

Suyderhoud, competing despite an injured knee, finished second in slalom, tricks and jumping but racked up enough points to win the over-all title. McGinley was first in tricks, second in jumping and third in slalom.

Bob La Point of Novato won boys slalom and jump, giving Marin County a sweep in boys events. His brother Kris, of Castro Valley, won the men's slalom.

Fourteen-year-old Larry Boive of Bel Marin Keys was second in boys tricks and third in boys jumping.

Kilcoyne's Batting Leads Softball Win

Bill Kilcoyne hitting for the cycle last night because he couldn't come up with a mere single, but his double, triple and home run led MacArthur's to a 10-6 victory over Ad Lite in San Rafael Recreation Department adult softball league play at Albert Park.

In other action, Sons of Sicily powdered Perry's Delicatessen, 13-4; Mary Brookes defeated the Ballbusters, 8-6; Joe America topped Jolly Rogers, 11-7; and Hub City whipped Timmer, 9-2.

Nicklaus Prepares For PGA

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UPI) —It's the questions about it that pain Jack Nicklaus, not his right index finger.

Nicklaus arrived at Oakland Hills Country Club for a Monday practice round wearing just two thin drug store bandages over the finger, which recently had the back portion of the nail surgically removed to cure an infection.

He promptly made himself at least a co-favorite again with Lee Trevino for the 54th annual Professional Golfers' Association championship by eagling the 521-yard, par five second hole.

Which probably means that with no finger problem and the week layoff it forced, smiling Jack would have got a double eagle on the first of the only two par fives on the 7,054-yard course.

"It feels fine. It feels fine," Nicklaus said with just a minor touch of irritation in his voice at yet another question on the status of his celebrated digit. "It's the questions about it all the time that I don't like.

"There hasn't been any pain in it since an hour after the operation," he said. "It's not unusual for me to lay off a week before a tournament.

"The biggest thing about it was sitting around," Nicklaus said, while looking over a little mail in front of his clubhouse locker. "You don't get in shape that way."

If the $200,000 tournament started today, "I wouldn't be as sharp as I'd like to be," he said.

"I probably don't believe any of the top four or five will win it," Bob Goalby said. "You can eliminate Jack because of the finger."

Combined AP & UPI

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Crusaders, who enticed Gerry Cheevers from the National Hockey League Boston Bruins last week, yesterday added Gerry Pinder of the California Golden Seals.

Pinder, 23, was the leading scorer last season for the Golden Seals of the NHL. He became the fourth player to sign with the newly formed Crusaders of the World Hockey Association.

Crusaders' owner Nick Mileti said Pinder would help anchor the scoring attack.

"We established goaltending with Gerry Cheevers and our defense with Paul Smyr (another former Seal)," Mileti said. "Now with Gerry Pinder joining Ron Buchanan at forward we have established our attack."

Basketball

PORTLAND — Veteran forward Terry Dischinger yesterday was traded by the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association to the Portland Trail Blazers. loading Thomas, their No. 1 challenger in the NFC—the Minnesota Vikings—was having problems of its own. Defensive back Charlie West walked out of camp because of a dispute over the "interpretation" of his contract.

West, Clinton Jones and Gene Washington have been involved in a dispute over contract terms. They first said they wanted to negotiate together. Then they agreed to terms individually but Jones and Washington haven't reported yet and West walked out after reporting.

Another free agent, John Henderson, also hasn't come to terms but a Vikings' spokesman said he's "likely" to sign a contract "soon."

The Washington Redskins acquired offensive tackle Mitch Johnson, who had retired as a player for the Cleveland Browns, for a future draft choice. He is expected to fill the hole left vacant when Jim Snowden was injured in training camp.

The St. Louis Cardinals picked up reserve lineman Mike Siwek from the Washington Redskins on waivers. The Cards had released him last year but decided to take a second chance on him.

Don Parish, the veteran linebacker acquired from St. Louis last year, was suspended Monday by Los Angeles coach Tommy Prothro. He got in an altercation with an unidentified assistant coach. Prothro said it was the first player he has ever suspended in his career and said he will try to trade Parish.

Lee White, who said he was retiring five days ago when he left the San Diego camp, returned Monday and said he was attending to personal matters during his absence.

Bright Look For Houses Of Fabrics

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I own 100 shares of House of Fabrics (ASE) bought at 25⅝. I am wondering if I should sell with the competition in this line. — M. C.

A. House of Fabrics is the leading domestic specialty fabric chain with 298 retail outlets nationwide. It is highly probable that shakeout in the industry would be a plus for the firm. While competitive pricing is prevalent, House of Fabrics takes inventory write-downs on a monthly basis to keep prices up to date and to avoid any unusual year-end adjustments.

Following an excellent first quarter, House of Fabrics recently announced that its second quarter profit would be flat due to inclement weather and Easter falling in the first period. Revenues for the period should come in at $12.9 million, a 13 per cent gain year to year.

The second quarter notwithstanding, House of Fabrics is expected to show overall improvement for the year. The present 8 per cent industry growth rate is healthy and with the company's proven merchandising record and buying/distributing efficiencies, House of Fabrics should continue to outperform this pace. Averaging down is justified here.

Q. Kimberly-Clark has been strong recently. Why and is it a buy now? — R. D.

A. A leading producer of trademarked consumer products, Kimberly-Clark (NYSE) recently reported second quarter earnings (ended June) of 60 cents a share, a 71 per cent improvement over the 35 cents posted in 1971's comparable period. Sales were recorded at $243 million, up nearly 8 per cent from the $226 million in 1971. This, plus the overall improving trend in the paper industry, has bolstered shares.

The company has compiled a rather erratic earnings pattern over the years, mainly a reflection of the highly fragmented and cyclical nature of the industry. However, as Kimberly's first half statistics indicate, strong gains are being made by most paper companies as production and the pricing structure have improved. Stock offers appreciation potential and may be bought on weakness.

Earnings Rise For Union Oil By 4 Per Cent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Union Oil Co. of California's net earnings increased 4 per cent in the second quarter of 1972 over the same period last year, the company announced yesterday.

President Fred L. Hartley said earnings for the three months ending June 30 reached $27.9 million, compared with $26.9 million in the second quarter of 1971.

Total revenues for the first half of 1972 stood at $1.19 billion, the highest in the firm's 82-year history, a spokesman said. Revenues for the first six months of last year were $1.16 billion.

Net earnings per average common share outstanding for the three months were 77 cents in 1972 and 74 cents in 1971. Total net earnings for the first half of this year were $57.7 million, up $1.1 million for the same period last year.

Hospital Corp. Has Record Fiscal Year

I-J Special Report

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Hospital Corp. of America reported record revenues and earnings for the first half of its current fiscal year, with net income up 27 per cent over the same period last year.

Total operating revenues reached an all time high of $79,079,000 for the six months ended June 30, 1972, up 26 per cent over last year, and net income increased to $5,198,000 or 58 cents per share compared with 50 cents for the comparable period a year ago.

THE CURRENT CRAZES

Cowhide Donnybrook Developing

NEW YORK (UPI) —The craze of America's youth for leather jackets, high cut boots and broad belts of leather is on a collision course with a worldwide shortage of cattle hides.

The shortage has produced a political donnybrook in Washington.

Commerce Secretary Peter Peterson recently put restrictions on the export of American hides, holding them to last year's level of 15.1 million. Peterson acted after mushrooming European purchases of American hides had pushed the price up from 14 to 30 cents a pound.

Promptly, Rep. Garham Purcell, D-Tex., whose district is in cattle country, moved to amend the Export Control Act to stop restricting hide exports. He said he feared Peterson's move would simply hold down prices ranchers could get for their hides without any compensating benefits to American consumers. Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said he would press the same amendment in the Senate.

"Congressman Purcell couldn't be more wrong," Irving Glass of the Tanners Council in New York told United Press International. "The rise in the cost of hides so far can cost Americans as much as $2 in the retail price of a pair of shoes."

He said the restrictions the Commerce Department has put on exports are mild and cannot cause any drop in the price of leather. "The best that can be hoped for is that they will prevent a further runaway advance," he said.

In contrast, Glass said, the other leading cattle hide producing countries, Argentina, Brazil and India, have totally embargoed export of hides, thus forcing the shoe and leather industry of Europe and Japan to depend on the United States.

Glass said the trouble started in Argentina where mismanagement by the government wrecked the Argentine cattle industry so badly that the country, once the world's greatest meat exporter, no longer produces enough beef for its own people and there are no hides left to sell abroad, European shoe and leather goods makers then bid up the price of American hides.

"We had a couple of tanneries close in the United States because of the resulting hide shortage," Glass said, "and American shoe manufacturers were hit hard. They saw Europeans grabbing a bigger share of our shoe market by buying American hides, making shoes at lower European labor costs and shipping them to the United States."

Commerce Secretary Peterson and shoe industry leaders believe the export curb on hides will enable the industry to increase output about 7.3 per cent in the last five months of this year and halt price boosts. Domestic shoe output fell 6.3 per cent last year.

The leather craze of the younger generation started before the cattle hide shortage became acute and many of the youngsters will settle for vinyl substitutes. But most of the real afficionados want genuine leather, and they have to pay through the nose for it now.

Earnings for the quarter increased 7 per cent to $774,000, or 36 cents per share, compared to $724,000, or 33 cents, a year ago.

Father's Day Key To Volume

NEW YORK (BW) — "Excellent" Father's Day business was the key to J. C. Penney Co. Inc.'s 13 per cent sales gain in June over the 1971 month.

Volume for the five-week period ended July 1 climbed to a record $468,151,782 from $414,366,952 for the comparable year-ago period, chairman William M. Batten and president Jack B. Jackson have disclosed.

Lab Tests Fail —Bremer Trial

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI)—FBI experts called as prosecution witnesses acknowledged today they were unable to produce laboratory evidence linking Arthur H. Bremer to the gun used in the shooting of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

They testified at his trial they could not find Bremer's finger — prints on the gun, trace the bullets to it or find any powder residue on Bremer's hands to show he had fired a weapon the day of the attempted assassination.

Robert A. Frasier, an FBI ballistics technician for 31 years, said the five bullets taken from the four persons injured in the May 15 shooting were fired from a .38-caliber caliber revolver but that none had enough microscopic markings to enable him to trace them to the same caliber weapon Bremer bought last January in Milwaukee.

Frasier said the bullets had been mutilated in passing through the bodies and that their lead alloy was too hard to record probable markings from the revolver's barrel.

Frasier also said an analysis of paraffin tests given Bremer did not show the usual high levels of barium and antimony produced when a person fires a gun. However, the agent added, the residues can easily be removed from the hands by washing or even just by putting the hands in trouser pockets.

Thurmond Williams, an FBI fingerprint examiner for 15 years, testified he found two partial prints on the gun but they were too small and distorted to trace them to Bremer or anyone else.

They were preceded to the stand by three medical witnesses.

Three surgeons testified on the extent of injuries to Wallace, an Alabama state trooper and a campaign worker when the shooting occurred at a Laurel, Md., shopping center May 15.

In telling the jury of six men and six women the effects of Wallace's wounds, Dr. Joseph Schanno said, "there is over a 90 per cent chance that he will not walk again without the aid of mechanical braces."

Drs. Peter James and Ricardo Longoria who treated the others injured in the shooting and taken to the same hospital also testified.

Defense attorney Benjamin Lipsitz tried to thwart the prosecution's line of questioning through repeated objections — 15 in the first 35 minutes.

Bremer came to court clean shaven for tha second day of the trial. Three witnesses were unable to identify him positively Monday, citing a beard he had grown while awaiting the trial.

During a recess, newsmen asked Bremer if he had shaved under court orders.

"If Nixon don't have to give press conferences," he said peering between two burly deputies, "I don't either."

During the jury selection in the first day of the trial Monday, Bremer smiled endlessly. Once he stuck his tongue out at a spectator, smiled broadly and chuckled to himself.

FBI Director Claims Hijackings Down

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Acting FBI Director Patrick Gray today defended law enforcement's handling of airplane hijackings.

"When you look at the record you see we are doing an excellent job of cutting down the number," he told a news conference. "When you look back to 1969, when these things started, 82 per cent were successful. Now, in 1972, it's down around 21 per cent."

Gray said that the agencies involved, especially the airlines, "are doing something right and are on the way to solving the problem."

"Where we have to stop these hijackings is on the ground with flight screening and similar devices," he said.

"Our first concern is always for the preservation of human life."

Gray stopped in Albany on his tour of the 59 FBI field offices around the country.

Gray, who was named acting director in May by President Nixon, denied, however, that his tour of FBI facilities was part of a campaign for permanent appointment.

"The position of director is a position for which a person does not campaign," he said. "The position seeks the man."

Gray said he would submit his resignation to President Nixon after election day "so that he will have a free hand" in naming a permanent director.

Court Rules Pay Board Can't Act

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U. S. District Court has ruled that a 34-cent hourly wage increase for 92,000 aerospace workers is beyond the jurisdiction of the Pay Board.

Judge George L. Hart said the wage increase was part of a 1968 contract, although it was not paid until 1971. In his opinion Monday, Hart said the Economic Stabilization Act, which the Pay Board executes, could not enforce wage controls retroactively.

Hart did decree that the Pay Board could regulate a 17-cent hourly increase negotiated by the International Association of Machinists and the United Auto Workers last year.

Both pay boosts combined to form a 51-cent package that the Pay Board trimmed last Jan. 13. The board approved the 34 cents, but said the remaining 17 cents would have to be deferred until the second year of a three-year contract signed last December.

Hart said the 34 cents was part of a cost of living guarantee in the 1968 pact. He said it was contained in the new contract only to the extent of spelling out the exact amount of the increase that would be coupled with the newly negotiated 17-cent raise.

Hart said the board could rule on the 17-cent raise.

The average hourly wage was $4.30 last Dec. 31. Hart's ruling meant that it would be increased to at least $4.64.

Plea Made On Reduced Charge

Raymond Herbert Barnes III, 20, of Oakland pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a reduced misdemeanor count of burglary in connection with the theft of $69 from a Fairfax church last September.

Barnes had earlier been accused of a felony count of the same charge.

He is to be sentenced Sept. 15.

He was arrested after the money was stolen from the office of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church.

Fire Rekindled By Arsonists

Arsonists used paint thinner and other flammable liquids today to rekindle a fire which Saturday destroyed the $42,000 Eric Murphy residence in Corte Madera, according to Chief Frank L. Nelson.

Firemen were called at 4:28 a.m. to the burning remains of the two-story frame structure at 173 Summit Drive.

The second fire caused additional damage to the charred timbers and the portion of the house interior still intact.

The blaze was under control in about two hours, firemen said.
